High Position of Senator Buchanan Attested By State Leaders

Williamsburg, Va., Feb. 21—Ash-ton Dovell, floor leader of the house of delegates said here today that in the passing of Senator Buchanan the "general assembly has lost a devoted friend and the State a loyal public servant."

"He will be missed," Mr. Dovell said.

The message reached general assembly members at Williamsburg, who had gone to the old Virginia capital to attend services at Bruton Parish church in commemoration of the bicentennial of George Washington's birth.

Although illness prevented his coming to Richmond until a week after the start of the session, and although confined to his room much of the time, Senator Buchanan when his health permitted took his seat on the Senate floor, Mr. Dovell said.

"Senator Buchanan's service to the State was quietly and humbly done," the floor leader said. "He could have been governor of Virginia if he had permitted his name to be entered as a candidate.

"Instead he chose to serve in a more humble capacity, but in a manner that has reflected credit to his name."

Buchanan, who at one time was lieutenant-governor of the State, played a prominent part in shaping the new State policy during the Byrd reorganization program.

B. Frank Buchanan as I Knew Him

To have had the friendship of B. Frank Buchanan is one of the great privileges of my life. I saw him for the first time on Sunday morning, October 16th, 1921, in the Presbyterian church when, after my first sermon in Marion, he shook my hand, told me his name, and expressed his genuine pleasure at making my acquaintance. That first impression of the sincerity, simplicity, and genuine friendliness of the man has been verified and deepened by the contacts of ten years as his pastor. From the first I admired him; more and more as the years passed I loved him. Appreciation of his truly great character grew with closer and more intimate association; affection for him increased with knowledge of his mind and heart.

Gifted with an intellect of rare clearness and strength, he used it well. He was a thinker of depth and range, a student with rich stores of knowledge from many fields. His unusually strong and retentive memory kept his knowledge constantly at his command. He was a genial companion and a fine conversationalist, an attentive and sympathetic listener and a most interesting talker with a fine sense of humor and ever ready supply of delightful anecdote.

Mr. Buchanan was one of the purest men I ever knew. His conversation, and so far as one can tell, his thoughts, were always clean. Men who have traveled with him in pullman smokers and shared hotel rooms with him on political campaigns have remarked that they

County Mourns Him

B. F. Buchanan

B. F. Buchanan, southern gentleman, lawyer, state senator and legislative leader, former lieutenant governor, for decades a powerful voice in the life of our commonwealth, died suddenly at Richmond on Sunday afternoon, February 21st. His death was caused by a heart attack and took place in his room at the Westmoreland Club.

Our Neighbor and Friend

Eulogies have and will be written about Mr. Buchanan by those who were perhaps acquainted with his public life than are most citizens of this county. Since he went down as a boy to the University of Virginia his friends at home have watched with pride his continued success and the honors that have come to him in such unusual measures. His public service to Virginia has been conspicuous beyond that of most men, but it may be, after all that his greatest contribution to the progress of humanity has been in his daily life as husband, father, neighbor and friend.

With too many men in public life, we have grown used to the rift between public and private honor. With Mr. Buchanan there has never been such a rift. His single-hearted devotion to his wife and family together with the fine intelligence and rare charm of his wife, who was Eleanor Sheffey, have combined to make his home a place of beauty and of stimulation to noble living.

There was about him a genius for friendship recognized by even his political opponents. It was one of these opponents who once introduced him to a mass meeting of both political parties as "the best loved citizen of the county." When he ran for the Senate of Virginia term after term he had as a rule no opposition.

In spite of honors that were given to him as to no other citizen of our county his integrity was not marred by any clamor for personal recognition or even by the self-assertiveness that becomes so repellent in many men in public life. It was always from others, never from himself, that his friends learned of his achievements.

When he came back from the University having won the degree Cum Laude with grades entitling him to the Phi Beta Kappa key, which he began his law practice in hearing the great tradition of his distinguished kinsman, Judge John A. Buchanan, when he was elected to the Senate of Virginia, when he would have been Governor of Vir-

Senator Buchanan Buried After Impressive Funeral

Senator B. F. Buchanan was buried on Tuesday afternoon, February 23, after impressive Masonic ceremonies conducted by Lynn Commandery No. 9, Knights Templar, and presided over by Right Eminent Sir James H. Price, grand commander of Virginia and Lieutenant-Governor of the commonwealth. The service was held in the church and at the grave in the presence of one of the largest assemblages in county history.

The entire Lynn Commandery, about 70 strong and in full regalia, formed at the Buchanan residence. First in the procession were the flower bearers, then the group of honorary pallbearers containing some of the most prominent men in Virginia life, then the commandery directly preceding the hearse.

At the church the service was opened by organ music played by Mrs. John P. Buchanan. The building was packed, with every available seat taken on both floors and scores standing at every vantage point.

The Rev. G. A. Wilson Jr., Senator Buchanan's pastor, opened with prayer. A very beautiful hymn was sung by special choir made up of representatives of the Marion church choirs. The Rev. E. H. Copenhaver followed with another prayer.

Then the Knights Templar took charge of the service, with the guard of honor—T. E. King, George A. Collins, Frank G. Payne, grand captain general of Virginia, Right Eminent R. F. Taylor, past grand master of Virginia, R. H. Phipps

Charles H. (Andy Hambone) Funk returned to our midst last Friday after having been at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C., where he put in for repairs the first week of January. Andy claims they dry-docked him, scrapped his hull for barnacles, reset the mizzenmast, calked the seams, repainted the figure-head, sounded the wells and disinfected the scuppers and that now he is ready to sail the stormy seas all ship-shape again. Andy said it wasn't a bad trip except the scrapping for barnacles.

Senator Buchanan was 72 years old, and has been ill for a considerable part of the 1932 legislative session. Despite his poor health he has attended to his work and has drafted and introduced a number of bills in the House although his attendance was not perfect.

On January 19, during the dedication of the statue of General Robert E. Lee in the old hall of the House of Delegates, Senator Buchanan found it necessary to leave the ceremony because of faintness. Sen-

Jacob Tyler Frazier

The Rev. Jacob Tyler Frazier died at his home in Chilhowie this (Tuesday) afternoon at about 1:40 o'clock, we are informed as we go to press.

The Rev. Frazier oldest minister in the Holston Conference Church, South, and a fine figure of a man in the life of this county for much longer than the average lifetime—was in his 92nd year. He was 91 on the 22nd of last November.

The Rev. Frazier died surrounded by his children and his passing was quiet and peaceful, brought about by old age.

He had been ill but ten or twelve days. As an example of the splendid vitality which was his almost to the last—he made his last appearance in a pulpit at the Chilhowie Methodist church as recently as Sunday, January 10th.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon, the 25th, at 2 o'clock in the Chilhowie Methodist church, with burial in the historic old graveyard on Beattie hill.

Kiwanis Club Meets

The Kiwanis Club of Marion held its regular weekly dinner meeting Tuesday evening. Dr. W. M. Sclater, Vice-President of the club presided in the absence of its president L. E. Gordon, who is undergoing treatment at Battle Creek Sanitarium. A large attendance was on hand to greet Lieutenant Governor Fitzpatrick, of Radford, who was guest speaker of the evening.

It was a very spirited meeting with brisk reports being made by the Post Office Committee, the Airport Committee and Committee of Public Affairs on the matter of the Veterans Hospital. Mr. Sharp was introduced to the club. Mr. Sharp has come to Marion to make a complete survey of Smyth County with respect to its natural resources, more particularly regarding its water supplies. Facts gathered by Mr. Sharp will be used in formulating a brief to the authorities handling the hospital matter.

Lieutenant Governor Fitzpatrick, who addressed the club on Kiwanis objectives, also furnished the program. The Governor brought along with him from Radford five of the College Girls who rendered four quartet selections. To the girls were publicly presented Marion Kiwanis five Bachelors, Ralph Repass, Beattie Gwyn, Jess Baughman, Skinny Burke and Leon Beville. It is not known just the outcome of this presentation, but Beattie Gwyn was heard discussing what a nice car he had. Mr. R. T. Greer was appointed a committee of one to express the appreciation of the club to the girls, which he did in the way of a nice box of candy.

Following the adjournment of the meeting, Governor Fitzpatrick met with the Board of Directors of the Club to discuss plans and policies for the ensuing year.

Foxhunters Organize With Chilhowie Man As First President

Representatives of local fox hunting clubs located in several of the southwest Virginia counties met at the George Wythe Hotel in Wytheville Saturday night, February 13, and following a banquet organized by the Southwest Virginia Fox Hunters' Association. It is planned to consolidate in this association the various local clubs in this section.

The officers of the new association are J. W. Williams, Chilhowie, president; Dr. E. M. Chitwood, Wytheville, vice president, K. V. Brugh, Pulaski, secretary-treasurer. A committee which will have charge of the affairs of the new association and which will fix dates for meetings and for field trials to be held later is composed of Dr. George W. Wright and Charles DeBusk, Smyth county; H. C. Callaway and J. H. Holbrook, Tazewell county; S. T. Crockett and C. E. Swecker, Wythe county; W. R. Dudley, Wise county; C. E. Free and W. P. Flanagan, Pulaski county; Dr. H. M. Hayter, Washington county; W. S. Waddle and C. E. Stowers, Bland county.

Farmers' Meetings Get Under Way at Atkins

Tuesday evenings have been set aside at Atkins for Farmers Meetings in the Agricultural Department of the High School. The Agricultural Advisory Committee and the Instructor, Z. M. K. Fulton Jr., are planning a very interesting series of discussions on matter of great importance to the farmers of this section. Two meetings have been held so far, the matters discussed being "Controlling Stomach Worms in Sheep," and "Care of Pastures." Corn and other crops, together with livestock problems offer many opportunities for securing increased yields and greater incomes, and it is hoped that these discussions may mean better financial returns for many of the farmers this year and in the future.

It is hoped that it will be possible to start a similar series of meetings at Groseclose school house, beginning next week, so that the farmers of that section may have an opportunity also to consider their problems as a group. Everyone interested in farming is welcome at these meetings, and it is hoped that an increasingly large number will note the dates and plan to attend regularly.

Marion Girls Defeat Chilhowie in Close Game

In one of the fightingest games ever witnessed at the Marion college gym the Marion high sextet nosed out Chilhowie 21 to 19, Friday evening, February 19.

As the half ended, the Marion girls were in the lead 13 to 8, but in the third quarter Chilhowie made a game come-back, and led by E. Walker, Wolfe, and P. Walker, soon tied the score. Not until the last few minutes did the girls score the winning points. Lincoln, Witt, and Umberger played a bang up game for the home team. Lincoln was high scorer of the game, garnering six free-throws and three field goals, for a total of twelve points. A big crowd watched this game and saw plenty of action.

MILLIONS FOR PUBLIC SAFETY

NORFOLK & WESTERN RAILWAY

SAFETY is the dominant characteristic of American railroads. Their remarkable progress and unprecedented records in every phase of accident prevention and safety within their jurisdiction are recognized as outstanding achievements. In striking contrast to this progress and in the face of expenditures of approximately $30,000,000 annually by the carriers for their elimination, highway grade crossings have been increasing at the rate of nearly 630 a year, due to the opening, by the public and public authorities, of new highways and streets across railroad tracks at grade.

The Norfolk and Western long ago recognized the gravity of the highway grade crossing problem, and in the interest of public safety has spent millions of dollars for the elimination and protection of dangerous crossings on its lines. The record, of which the railroad is justly proud, speaks for itself:

During the past ten years 146 crossings have been eliminated from the railroad. As its share in the cost of this elimination, the Norfolk and Western has expended $3,300,000. And in its efforts to safeguard the thousands who cross its tracks at grades, the railway has provided protective devices at 264 highway grade crossings at an outlay of $700,000. For the maintenance of these devices and the pay of gatemen and watchmen, it spends approximately $200,000 annually. It is a matter of much gratification to the Norfolk and Western to know that these huge expenditures, the policy it pursues in the treatment of applications for the opening of new crossings on its line, and its intensive and unremitting efforts to prevent crossing accidents, have brought concrete results.

In spite of an annual average increase of 630 in the total number of grade crossings in the United States, there were 64 less grade crossings on the Norfolk and Western on the first day of 1932 than on the same date five years ago. In spite of the fact that grade crossing accidents throughout the country decreased about 13 per cent during the first nine months of 1931 as compared with the same period of 1930 (the latest available figures), such accidents on the Norfolk and Western were 49 per cent less in 1931 than in the previous year, while crossing fatalities on the railway decreased 45 per cent. During the same period the number of automobiles driven into the sides of trains decreased 58 per cent, and the number driven through gates after they had been lowered for approaching trains, declined three per cent.

The Norfolk and Western is glad that it could cooperate with the public in the elimination and protection of grade crossings on its lines, but the Norfolk and Western and the other railroads of the nation alone cannot solve the grade crossing problem. It is essentially a "social problem" and its solution rests primarily with the public. Public authorities must rigidly restrict the opening of new highways and streets across railway tracks; and the public must realize that the real menace of the grade crossing is not the unexpected approach of the train, but the carelessness of the automobile driver.

SENATOR BUCHANAN

(From The Richmond Times-Dispatch)

In the unexpected death yesterday of Senator B. Frank Buchanan the State of Virginia lost one of its most devoted and distinguished public servants. He was a statesman rather than a politician jockeying for personal advantage. He first came to the General Assembly in 1893. It was over a period, therefore, of thirty-nine years that he was a factor in the legislative life of the Commonwealth. He came to Richmond before the State had recovered from the effects of the war between the states; he lived to play an important role in the new order of progress. In all the time of this service no question was raised as to the senator's integrity of character or his disinterestedness in the work he was doing. No man in public life had in fuller measure the confidence of the people he served.

Senator Buchanan, once Lieutenant-Governor of Virginia, was a gentleman in all that the term implies. He looked the part and he lived it. His forbearers were rugged Scotchmen who did their full share in lending luster and romance to the history of a great people. He was of the best Virginia stock. Cherished tradition was his, and he carried on in the grand manner. In his own life Senator Buchanan exemplified the virtues which should mark one of his name. Tall, dignified, commanding in appearance, courteous at all times, he was the impersonation of Virginia aristocracy. No breath of scandal touched his life. He had his code and he adhered strictly to it.

To the Senator the game of politics meant nothing. He never played it. He was in public life because he had at heart the interests of Virginia. He was one of the few real idealists. His service was given at a financial sacrifice. There was nothing selfish in his being. A lawyer of great distinction, he deliberately forsook the road to wealth and traveled that upon which he could contribute to the happiness and welfare of his friends and neighbors. And he died rich in the esteem of those who knew him.

Virginia today mourns the loss of a devoted son. Of Sir Walter Scott it was said that he never wrote a word that could rise up to plague him or his friends. This observation applies with equal force to Senator Buchanan. He went through life as a fine gentleman. To the best of his ability he served his state over a long period of years. Thousands today hold him in grateful and affectionate memory.

of his associate of many years in politics. "Learned in the law, fluent in speech, honest and straight, to me he was always the ideal lawyer."

"Versed in state-craft, wise in counsel, with a heart attuned to the needs of his people, to me he was always the ideal legislator."

"Striking in looks, pleasing in manner, ever kind and gentle, to me he was always the ideal Virginian."

Washington, Feb. 21—Governor Pollard tonight paid tribute to State Senator B. F. Buchanan, who died today, as a man "whose very name gave weight to every measure he advocated."

"For a quarter of a century Senator Buchanan has been an important factor in the affairs of his state," the governor said. "His modest demeanor, gentlemanly bearing, his comprehensive grasp of public questions and his superb ability won the respect and esteem of our people."

His very name gave weight to every measure he advocated. His associates in the halls of the legislature were willing to follow him because they knew his positions were taken only after mature thought and study and were prompted by a sincere desire to do what he thought best for the commonwealth that he loved so well and served so faithfully.

"The administration will miss his loyal support."

Winchester, Feb. 22.—Former Governor Harry F. Byrd said today that Virginia had suffered a great loss in the death of Senator Buchanan of Marion, who died suddenly yesterday afternoon in Richmond.

"I served with him as a member of the Senate when I was governor. He was the best-loved man in public life in Virginia and enjoyed the confidence of all who knew him. In general legislative matters and especially the reform of the tax system and the adoption of the pay-as-you-go plan for road construction, his services entitled him to the appreciation of everyone and constitutes a lasting monument to his memory."

"I was proud to be his friend and grieve deeply at his loss."

Social Events

Miss Florence Buchanan Entertains With Shower for Mrs. Summers Tuesday evening, Feb. 16, Florence Buchanan entertained with a shower at the home of her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Grundy Buchanan, Moore Street, honoring Mrs. James G. Summers, (Virginia Sanders) recent bride.

The lower floor was decorated in Pussy Willow, potted plants and Valentine decorations.

Miss Buchanan was assisted in receiving the guests by Miss Louise McNeil who also rendered music during the evening. After contests and games each guest was given a piece clipped from a heart which was numbered and all were sent into the living room to find the package on which the corresponding piece of heart was tied. When all the hearts had been matched, the guests assembled around the bride and as each number was called out the package was handed to her. She received many beautiful and useful presents.

Delicious refreshments were served carrying out the Valentine motif by Misses Sue and Cosby Buchanan.

For the occasion, Mrs. Summers wore the hand made wedding dress of white brocade satin, hand made white kid slippers, and hand made white silk hose worn by her grandmother more than one hundred years ago.

Her bracelets, pin and locket were also one hundred years old.

Those invited, most of whom were class mates of Mrs. Summers at Virginia Intermont College were:

Misses Katherine Campbell, Chatham Hill, Va.; Elizabeth Goetchins, Mary Debout, Frances Helton, Ruth and Dora Jackson, Polly McMurray, Doris Aven, Lena Roberts, Mary Lois Francis, Louise McNeil, Margaret and Patsy Meaney, Edith Clear, Ruby Copenhaver, Elizabeth and Mattie Gose, Florence Sanders, Sue, Amanda and Cosby Buchanan. Tabulation of Hospital Data Progressing

The compilation of data being assembled for presentation to the Federal Hospitalization Board, in presenting the merits of Smyth county for the location within its boundaries of the U. S. Veteran's Hospital, has now reached its second stage. This digest comprehends a tabulation of the vital resources that make up the community.

The work of marshalling and arranging the textual descriptions and the assembly of exhibits is under the supervision of Henry Talbot Sharp, a commercial writer and statistician of Asheville, N. C. After completing a similar work for the town of Abingdon, he was retained in his professional capacity by the business interests of Marion, and Smyth county, as reflected in the membership of the local civic clubs. On the Committee of administration, Mayor R. T. Greer is chairman. Associated with him are E. K. Coyner, secretary, W. L. Lincoln, I. H. Huff, Dr. George A. Wright, Col. James D. Tate, and Dr. J. D. Buchanan. The gentlemen named, and the board of supervisors, headed by J. A. Eller as chairman, and the council, of which Beattie Gwyn is president, are lending full-hearted co-operation to the efforts being waged in the campaign.

The subjects of the digest include an elaborate array of statistical figures enumerating totals of both general and soldier population within the State of Virginia, to which has been allotted an appropriation for the construction of one general hospital unit. While the new hospital will receive many medical cases, the probability is that patients requiring operative surgery and those known to be disabled, will predominate.

The population figures will show schedules of regional and county influences and also the entire area already in Virginia by a portion of North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky and West Virginia, which it will serve. This, of course, with reference to the location of the hospitals already within the hospital area.

Of significant interest will be a thesis prepared for the brief relating to the climate of Smyth county. Dr. E. Ray Casto, professor of geography and geology in Emory and Henry college, has furnished several copies of the book, "The Climatology of Virginia," of which he is the author. This eminent climatologist, whose treatises on weather conditions and the influence Southwestern Virginia sunshine indicated in heliotherapy rays, has created a profound impression among the local citizens. The value of the actinic rays of the sun in surgical cases has been greatly indicated by Dr. Casto.

Narrative sketches by Rev. G. A. Wilson and Miss Nell Preston will also be incorporated in the digest. Dr. George A. Wright, superintendent of the Southwestern State Hospital, has contributed an article on public health conditions.

Great interest also attaches to a paper which will set out the qualities of the plant which supplies Marion with its water supply. Nowhere else in Southwest Virginia is noted such an abundance of free stone water of absolute purity. The water only parallel with that of Asheville, N. C. This statement is authoritatively made by Mr. Sharp, who is a resident of that city. He and his staff are busy marshalling the various factors of Marion and Smyth county for presentation to the Federal Bureau.

Other primary economic factors relating to the agriculture, minerals, and forestry, will be set forth at length in the summary of the actual and potential advantages of Smyth county.

Early next week, it is planned to take aerial photographs of the several sites for the hospital which Smyth county has to offer. The exhibit of these aerial photographs will be accompanied by an assembly of surface photographs of various points of scenic and historic interest.

The citizens of Smyth county are hoping that the new hospital unit will be placed in their midst. They claim that other communities among the contending cities haven't the same advantages.

Mrs. Norfleet Vick of Marion, Virginia, is visiting in Charleston, S. C.

Mrs. Glenna Harr of Marion, has been the guest of relatives in Bristol.

Miss Roberta Copenhaver of the college of William and Mary, arrived in Marion Saturday 20th, and Mrs. R. M. Copenhaver for a few days.

Seven Young Ladies Nominated As Miss Smyth County—Contest Continues Open

Seven young ladies were nominated for the position on "Miss Smyth County" in the first votes received in the contest announced last week by the Float Committee of the Smyth County Centennial Celebration. One other young lady was also nominated, but the nominator failed to sign the card as required by rules of the contest.

The contestants nominated up to the time the votes were opened and counted at 10 A. M. Tuesday morning, the 23rd, and the number of nominating votes they had received were:

- Miss Virginia DeBord, Marion, 4.
- Miss Carolyn Sheffey, Marion, 2.
- Miss Edna Bonham, Chilhowie, 2.
- Mrs. Everett Bonham, Chilhowie, 2.
- Miss Sallie Holmes, Marion, 1.
- Miss Josephine Atkins, Marion, 1.
- Miss Margaret Johnston, Marion, 1.

In addition, Miss Ethel Copenhaver, Seven Mile Ford, was nominated but the person making the nomination failed to sign the ballot and it did not count. She can, of course, be nominated again this week.

These first returns indicate a Chilhowie-Marion contest. However, Saltville and the Rich Valley and Sugar Grove and the Rye Valley are understood to have some charming ladies who will be put forward for the honor of being "Miss Smyth County" in the celebration.

Three weeks now remain for nominating votes. The rules below tell you how to vote. At the end of three more weeks the nominations will be closed and the young ladies who are the five highest on the list will engage in an all-county election to see who shall have the final honor of being "Miss Smyth County."

Here are the rules of the contest:

"1. The candidate must be over sixteen years of age. She may be married or unmarried. She must live in Smyth County.

"2 Each person is allowed but one vote in the nominating of candidates and each vote must be signed by the person voting it.

"3. All votes not signed will be discarded by the committee.

"4. All votes must be mailed to "Miss Smyth County, P. O. Box 456, Marion, Va."

Below is a coupon to be used in making nominations. Fill it out now, with the name of the young lady of your choice, sign it with your name and mail it as directed in the rules. Act quickly. Don't wait. There should be at least twenty or thirty young ladies in the race for this honor. Get your candidate on the list now—if she is already on there, get her some more nominating votes.

Here is the coupon:

Avoid the Buck Lamb Penalty

A strong effort is being made by lamb buyers and slaughterers throughout the country to discount buck lambs at all markets this year. From their standpoint it is an excellent time to carry out such a plan, due to the liberal runs expected which will enable them to readily supply their needs. They are taking the position that there is no more reason why they should buy buck lambs mixed with ewes and wethers than that they should be compelled to buy rough hogs mixed with straight, smooth ones, or bulls mixed with steers.

An agreement seems to have already been reached among buyers on the eastern markets this year whereby buck lambs arriving after June 10th will incur a penalty of at least one dollar per hundred under ewe and wether lambs, with the possibility of extremely undesirable bucks meeting an even wider discount. While there will probably be no sorting out of buck lambs before the date mentioned, ewe and wether lambs will no doubt meet with greater favor among buyers than will buck lambs, particularly when supplies on the market are liberal. This policy on the part of the slaughterers will probably prove profitable to producers in the long run by creating a greater demand for lamb, due to its improved quality.

During periods of low prices it is particularly important to avoid the penalties of producing inferior lambs. Trimming lambs is an inexpensive method of increasing the sheep income this year. With an abundance of cheap grain available on most farms, growers can also creep feed the early lambs to good advantage, which will put them on the market in better condition and at an earlier date.

(If I can help you in any way to make your lamb and wool checks bigger I shall be glad for you to call on me.

never heard him tell a story that was off color. He was above that sort of thing. He was modest and unassuming, simple and approachable, yet possessed of an innate dignity that commanded respect.

He despised anything that smacked of ostentation, or pretense in any form. He had that which made men trust him and confide in him. He was always ready to serve and I never approached him when he would not gladly and freely give of his time, his strength, and his talents for the help of an individual however humble, or for any cause that he recognized as good.

He was a high toned gentleman, and he was a humble christian. He was faithful in the worship of God and more than once he expressed to me his simple child-like faith in Jesus Christ as his personal saviour. A christian gentleman—"take him for all in all, he was a man"; one who trusted God and loved his fellowman.

Washington Bicentennial Celebration At Atkins

The monthly meeting of the Atkins Community League on Wednesday evening, February 17th, was given over to a school and community program dedicated to George Washington, in commemoration of the Bicentennial of his birth.

The exercises were opened with an Invocation by the Rev. Riddle, of the Holiness Church, followed with announcements by Principal C. P. Hicks. A friend portrait of Washington, donated by Professor Hicks, and another of Lincoln, donated by the Dixie Coca-Cola Bottling Works, of Bristol, which have been hung in the front of the auditorium, were formally presented to the school and community by the Agricultural Instructor, Z. M. K. Fulton Jr. I. W. Hutton, president of the community league, then assumed charge of the program.

The Junior High School pupils next contributed a group of songs, and piano selections were rendered by children of the school and community. Miss Holmes, of the faculty followed with a reading on Washington, succeeded by a "Minuet," by children of the grades. Next on the program were several patriotic recitations by Grade children.

"Martha and George Return," presented by permission of The Country Gentleman, with a cast of characters secured among the High School pupils, demonstrated very effectively the developments in every day living over the ensuing years. This was followed by another group of recitations, and an address, "George Washington, the Father of Our Country," presented by Professor MacDonald of the faculty.

A Mission Play, presented by people of the Community, rounded out a splendid evening's program with a thought provoking presentation of missionary results and sacred music.

In closing I. W. Hutton urged upon the people of the community continued and increasing support of the school and all its agencies, so that every child in the community might have the fullest opportunity possible to realize the many benefits of the government and civilization secured and handed down to us by Washington and his comrades.

The next regular meeting was announced for the second Thursday in March, for which date another interesting program was promised, and a good attendance urged. Rev. Riddle closed the meeting with earnest prayer.

RESOLUTIONS

WHEREAS, It has pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from our midst the soul of one of the members of our Bible Class, Brother George W. Heninger, therefore, BE IT RESOLVED:

First: That in the passing of Brother Heninger our Class has lost a faithful member, and we greatly miss his presence, yet, we humbly bow in submission to the Divine will of "Him who doeth all things well." Winter destroys our loveliest flowers, yet their fading is not final, and in the Springtime they will bloom again, and we believe that in the Springtime of the world's resurrection Brother Heninger will spring into newness of life and expand into immortal loveliness.

Second: That the passing of Brother Heninger should remind us "that we are born to die" and that each of us should seek to prepare for our great change.

Third: With those of his immediate family and friends who are grief-stricken with the loss we have all sustained, we sincerely and deeply sympathize and commend them to the loving care of our Heavenly Father for his love and protection.

Fourth: That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Companion of our deceased friend and Brother, who survives him, and a copy be spread on the record book of our class.

Rye Valley Special Chain Gang

So, the news has come over the mountain about Mr. R. L. Griffiths, of the famous old Rye Valley, and his own especial and private chain gang, or whatever you want to call it.

It was this way. There were two young men got pretty full of Iron Mountain Special and they threw rocks at, through and around an unoccupied house owned by Mr. Griffiths. They busted windows and they made dents.

Mr. Griffiths suspected the two men but he didn't have the proof. But he had enough to tell them what they had done and they confessed.

"Well," says Mr. Griffiths, "I don't want to be hard on you boys. Now I can get a warrant and you will be put in jail or fined or both. That won't do you any good and it won't do me any good.

"Instead of that—if you will agree, each of you, to work two days for me grubbing, I'll let you off. I won't get no warrant."

So it was agreed. The two young men took the grubbing contract. We hear they got up early, sweated long and worked late.

"They were pretty good grubbers", Mr. Griffiths said.

IN MEMORIAM

After more than two years of bad health, borne with patience, Robert M. Gollehon passed to his final reward, January 26, 1932, at his home, Seven Mile Ford, Va. At the age of 57 years, 9 months and 6 days. He was the son of the late G. W. and Sarah Wolfe Gollehon, and was born and reared on Chestnut Ridge where his paternal ancestors were pioneer settlers.

After teaching in the schools of Smyth County, and three years in the State of Washington, Mr. Gollehon came to Seven Mile Ford where for thirty years he engaged in the mercantile business.

On December 24, 1902, he was happily married to Miss Susie Copenhagen, who through three decades was his real help-mate and loving companion. Their home was made happier by a daughter, Thelma (now Mrs. George Britton of Marion) and a son, William, who survive him.

In young manhood, he became a Christian and was active in church work. For ten years, he was Superintendent of Seven Mile Ford Presbyterian Sunday School, then he became Superintendent of Middle Fork Baptist Sunday School where he served until ill-health forbade further activities. During his invalidism he not only studied daily his Bible, but he copied in beautiful print form all the books of the New Testament and the Psalms.

He was a loyal and useful citizen, a devoted husband and father a Christian of the purest type, a man who had the love and respect of his fellow man. It can be truly said of him.

"Life's race well run,
Life's work well done,
Life's crown well won,
And now the deserved rest."

Five Generations Of Smyth County Family Living

It is rather rare that five generations of one family should be living, rarer still that representatives of the same line should all be living in the same neighborhood. But this is true of the Thomas family, near Chatham Hill.

Oldest member of the family is Mrs. Nancy E. Thomas, who will be eighty-nine years old on the 24th of next September. She was born in 1843 and married William E. Thomas on January 4, 1860. To their union ten children, eight girls and two boys were born. One boy died in infancy.

Now living on or near the Thomas place near Chatham Hill are Mrs. Thomas, her daughter, Mrs. Laura Burkett, her granddaughter, Mrs. Hyde Gillespie, her great-granddaughter, Mrs. Eller Oaks, and her great-great-granddaughter, Mrs. Oak's infant daughter.

In all there have been this family ten children, sixty-five grandchildren, seventy-three great-grandchildren, eighteen great-great-grandchildren, making a total of 156 descendants of William and Nancy Thomas.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. FRANCES MCGHEE CULLOP

Mrs. Frances McGhee Cullop was born April 29, 1853, and died at her home near Marion Feb. 7, 1932.

Her age was 78 years 9 months and 8 days. She professed faith in Christ in early girlhood and united with the M. E. Church South, at Mt. Zion. Her funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. L. M. Burress, after which her remains were laid to rest in Mt. Zion cemetery beside her husband's who preceded her to the grave December 25, 1916.

She was married to James Cullop Jan. 27, 1887. To this union were born six children, three boys who died in infancy and three girls, Misses Clara and Bessie, who lived with their mother, and Mrs. M. L. Groseclose, at Appalachia, Va. She is also survived by three step children: Mrs. Ida Groseclose, Bristol, Va.; D. V. Cullop, Corinne, W. Va.; and C. S. Cullop, Stotesbury, W. Va; and one brother, W. N. McGhee, Seven Mile Ford, Va; and 27 grandchildren.

Pall bearers were: J. S. Snavely, J. W. McGhee, M. L. Greenwood, C. B. Cullop, G. C. Cullop, and Edwin Wassum.

Flower bearers were: Misses Martha Groseclose, Mildred Groseclose, Maude Groseclose, Mary Groseclose, Josephine Wassum, Pearl Fox, Pauline Ringley, Grace Farris, and Mrs. John Lewis, Mrs. T. J. Wassum, Mrs. T. B. Wassum, Mrs. John Dillard, Mrs. G. C. Cullop, and Mrs. C. B. Cullop.

The large concourse of friends who attended the funeral and the many beautiful floral offerings attested the esteem in which Mrs. Cullop was held. All who knew her can testify to her stability of character and godly life. She was a devoted wife, a kind and loving mother. The dear ones left behind, whose every thought was for her comfort in her declining years, have the satisfaction of knowing that mother is at rest, and has left them a priceless heritage, the knowledge that some day there will be a re-united family in that home "not made with hands eternal in the heavens."

"Oh may we join the choir invisible

Of those immortal dead who live again

In minds made better by their presence."

—A Friend

IN MEMORY OF MISS PEARL LEE

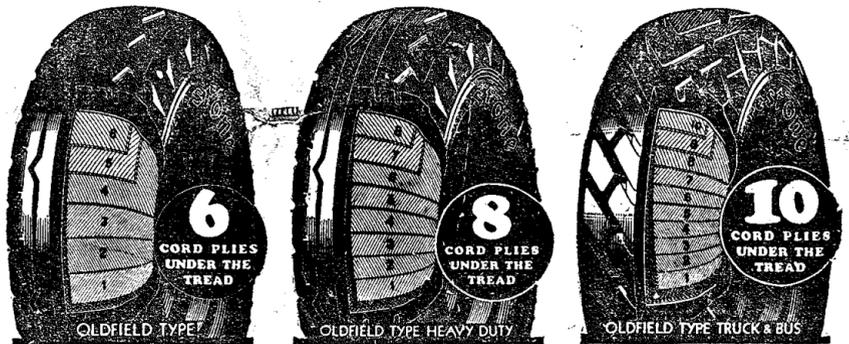

In remembrance of our dear friend, Miss Pearl Lee, who departed this life at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lee, Feb. 10, 1932, at Adwolf, Va. Pearl is not dead but is sleeping. She had been in ill health for about nine weeks. God knew best to call her from this world of sin. It was sad to part with our dear friend. No more will we see her until we meet on that golden shore. Her body was laid to rest in Phipps' cemetery beneath a mound of beautiful flowers.

She is survived by her parents, three sisters, three brothers, and a host of relatives and friends.

In that grey old village churchyard I can see a grassy mound. There's where Pearl is sweetly sleeping, in the cold and silent ground. A precious one from us has gone, a voice we loved is stilled. A place is vacant in our hearts that never can be filled. God in his wisdom has recalled the boon his heart had given. Though the body moulders here the soul is safe in heaven.

A Friend, Geneva Gallegher.

Will Bird Held In Tenn.

Poison Case

Charged with murder in connection with the poison death of Mrs. Martha Lou South, of near Bristol, on February 10, Glen South her son and Will Bird, of Marion, were bound to Sullivan county circuit court without bond at a preliminary hearing Thursday, February 18th before Squire Walter Baumgardner. Dewey Smith and Dan Anold, who had been charged jointly with Bird and South, were set free on motion of Attorney Genera W. C. Coleman.

The magistrate's decision was based entirely on circumstantial evidence. Prosecutor Coleman, in asking that the prisoners be denied bond, described the crime as "heinous," and declared he, "prayed to God I will have the opportunity to stand before a jury of Sullivan countians and ask the electrocution of these two dastardly murderers."

Mrs. South died from the effect of a poison contained in coffee she served for breakfast. Six of her children were stricken ill, but they recovered.

Defense counsel said they would go before Circuit Judge H. T. Campbell, Saturday, and seek South's release on a writ of habeas corpus.

South's 14-year old brother, Buster was a state witness at the hearing and sobbed at times as he was questioned concerning the circumstances of his mother's death.

County Mourns Him

ator J. Belmont Woodson, a close friend and a physician, rendered medical assistance and he recovered apparently, in a short time.

Mr. Buchanan had been confined to his room with influenza during the beginning week of the session but had visited his home in Marion last Saturday and Sunday a week, apparently recovered from his illness except for a slight weakness. On returning to Richmond, he was not so well for several days, but on Friday of last week was reported by his physician to be in much better condition.

His death came very unexpectedly Sunday while resting in his room after returning from the midday meal. His sudden death is naturally a great shock to his family and friends. No member of the family was with him at the time, his son, John Preston Buchanan, having left Richmond on Friday evening with the expectation that his father would be in active attendance in the Senate by Monday.

As chairman of the courts of justice committee he held one of the most important assignments in the upper house of the assembly, where his ability was well known. He was also chairman of the library committee and was one of the three members of the senate rules committee.

His familiarity with the state's finances and his interest in and knowledge of banking and finance, caused him to be assigned to both the senate finance committee and the committee on insurance and banking. His advice was frequently sought by assemblymen on matters of finance.

He entered the state senate in 1893 and was a member until 1897. He was a practicing attorney until 1915 when again called to service in the senate. He was named a member of the commission appointed that year to revise the tax laws of Virginia and in 1917 he was elected lieutenant-governor of the commonwealth.

During the World War he was general counsel to the comptroller of currency, and after the armistice he came back to continue his service to Virginia.

Recognized as one of the best informed men in Virginia on affairs of the commonwealth, the Marion senator had frequently been mentioned as a candidate for governor.

Tall, well proportioned and dignified in appearance, Senator Buchanan was at once a keen student of men and affairs and a genial and entertaining associate. His friends were impressed with his keen intellect, no less than the warmth of his friendship.

In debate, he depended more upon his logic than oratorical ability, and his clear and concise presentation of the issue left none in doubt as to the close study that had preceded the presentation.

Lieutenant Governor James H. Price, in Alexandria on Sunday night appointed the following legislative committee to accompany the body to Marion Monday night: Senators Wickham, Garrett, Weaver, Noell, Thompson, Shumate, Robbinette and Chase, and Delegates Frazier, Harrison and Neff.

Mr. Buchanan was a lawyer by profession, maintaining an office in Marion during the whole of his business life. He was born in Smyth county, October 4, 1859, the son of Patrick Campbell Buchanan and Virginia Copenhaver Buchanan. He was educated at Marion high school, 1876, University of Virginia, A. B., 1883, LL. B., 1884. He received the honorary degree of LL. D. from Hampden-Sydney College in 1922.

He was a Virginia delegate to Democratic national convention at Kansas City, Mo., and at Baltimore, Md., in 1912 and San Francisco, Calif., 1920. He was a member of the Virginia state Senate, 1892-96, 1914-16, 1924-32; general counsel, United States comptroller of currency, 1915-1922; lieutenant governor of Virginia, 1918-22; member of the Virginia commission to present statue of George Washington to the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, 1921, counsel Norfolk and Western Railway Company, Mathieson Alkali Works and other large business interests, as well as conducting a large general practice; director Marion National Bank, of Marion, The Bank of Marion, and First National Bank of Saltville; member Virginia State Bar Association; American Bar Association, Blue Lodge chapter commandery A. F. and A. M., past master, past high priest, past commander Knights Templar, past grand commander Grand Commandery of Virginia, 1900; A. R. C. board of visitors, University of Virginia. He was a member of the Westmoreland Club, Richmond; Army and Navy Club, Washington; and Alfalfa Club, Washington.

Mr. Buchanan was married to Eleanor Fairman Sheffey, daughter of Judge J. P. Sheffey, of Marion, March 2, 1887. Six children were born to their union, two of whom died in infancy and the following survive their father: former Senator John Preston Buchanan, now a practicing attorney of Marion; Josephine Buchanan, a teacher in Portsmouth; Virginia Buchanan Denit, wife of Major Guy B. Denit, Washington; Eleanor Buchanan Starcher, wife of Watson Starcher, an attorney of Huntington, W. Va., and Lieut. David Hiter Buchanan, now on his way to the Philippines, and one brother, Dr. J. D. Buchanan of Marion.

and S. W. Kent—formed around the flower covered casket.

Grand Commander Price lead the service, with the Rev. W. H. Carter, prelate, C. P. Blackwell, junior warden, and J. A. McSpadden, senior warden. Mrs. W. L. Lincoln sang a solo, "Saved By Grace." The choir sang "Abide With Me." The services were concluded at the grave in Round Hill cemetery.

Senator Buchanan's body was brought to Marion on No. 41 from Richmond Tuesday morning. He was taken to the Buchanan home where great masses of floral offerings from all over Virginia surrounded the casket.

The body was escorted here by Lieutenant-Governor Price, Senators Aubrey C. Weaver, Front Royal; Rolland E. Chase, Clintwood; A. E. Shumate, Pearisburg; and Delegates J. Tyler Frazier Jr., of Chilhowie; W. N. Neff, Abingdon, M. L. Harrison, Wytheville, as a committee from the general assembly.
