

WILLIAM C. PENDLETON, Editor and Proprietor.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1885.

FOR GOVERNOR JNO. S. WISE, of Richmond. FOR LIEUT. GOVERNOR. H. C. WOOD, of Scott County. FOR ATTORNEY-GENERAL. FRANK S. BLAIR, of Wythe. FOR HOUSE OF DELEGATES, JOHN D. BARNES, of Smyth.

TO WORK! TO WORK!

Let every Republican, every man in Virginia who desires good government, fall into me and go to work. Never in the history of our State has there been in election which involves so much for the people as the one which is to come off on the 3rd of next month. Remember what National and State Democrats have done to retard the progress and prosperity of the Commonwealth and the Union. It should not be forgotten how the Bourbon party has always legislated in the interests of the bondholders and against the interests of the masses. It should be remembered how Democracy professing friendship for the schools has tried all the while to stab them to death. Don't forget that Democracy, while claiming to be the friend of a free ballot and fair count, first imposed a poll-tax qualification on voters and since that enemy to free suffrage has been destroyed by the Republican party, Bourbonism is now trying by a fraudulent management of the ballot-boxes to suppress a free ballot at the approaching election.

Bear in mind that the Democratic party by an unnecessary and foolish agitation of the tariff question has alienated trade, has ruined the manufacturing interest, thrown half a million of persons out of employment, brought sorrow and suffering into the houses of millions of people, and produced a business stagnation never before equalled in the history of our government.

It is to right these wrongs and restore our country to a condition of prosperity and happiness that we now call upon our people to rally and go to work. When we ask the Bourbons for an explanation of these hard times they respond by the blowing of Fitz Lee's bugle. When we demand an explanation of the hideous record of Bourbonism the only reply is that a LEE is in the field and that explanations are unnecessary. To work ye freemen of Smyth. Liberty is involved, happiness is at stake, you and your children are threatened with ruin by Bourbonism.

IS IT OMINOUS?

Do you believe in signs? If so, what will you think when told that Fitz Lee's horse fell with him while he was parading in Burk's Garden last Friday; and the "gallant cavalier" rolled over in the dirt. What was the matter? Was Fitz too much inspired, or has he forgotten how to ride? Or is this downfall in Burk's Garden an omen of the worse fall he will suffer on the 3d of November?

STILL A CANDIDATE.

We are authorized by Dr. William White to say to the people of Smyth that he is still a candidate for the State Senate, and will not withdraw under any circumstances. There has been a constant effort on the part of Rice's friends to make the people believe that White was no longer a candidate; but he is on the track to stay.

ASK the Democrats about the good times they promised us.

ASK the Bourbons to explain the cause of the hard times.

ASK the Bourbons why they are Democrats.

ASK the Bourbons why wages are so much reduced.

ASK the Democrats why money is so scarce.

ASK the Democrats if they have heard from Ohio.

ASK the Democrats what they did with the Blair bill.

SEE THAT EVERY REPUBLICAN IS REGISTERED.

THERE ARE ONLY A FEW DAYS IN WHICH YOU CAN REGISTER.

Go to work and help to beat the Bourbons.

PUT your shoulder to the wheel and help to save Virginia.

THE honest Democrats have again emptied the State Treasury.

THE schools are in danger. Won't you help to save them?

REMEMBER that Berkeley will speak here next Monday.

WHAT promise to help Virginia has been kept by the Bourbons?

ASK the Bourbons why so many workmen are now out of employment.

BE brave and vote your honest convictions. Be not alarmed at the Bourbon toolers.

ASK the Bourbons why they tried to keep the poll-tax qualification on voters.

LOOK out for Bourbon jokes and jokers. They will be around constantly from now till election day.

THE ballot-box is threatened by Bourbonism. Won't you help to protect it?

THE "toot toot" of the Lee cavalry will be heard in our county tomorrow.

COMPARE Democratic times with Republican Readjuster times, and then conclude for yourself which is the safest and best party.

BY a careless or indifferent vote you may bring ruin upon yourself and disaster untold upon your children. Think before you act, workingman.

WE knew the Bourbons were telling what was false when they told that Hezekiah Harmon had gone to them. We knew Capt. Harmon despised the canting hypocritical party. Let the Bourbons start another joke.

LET those who wish the painful memories of the war revived fall in with the cavalry. Let those who wish peace, prosperity, happiness and the bitter memories laid aside turn their faces upon the Bourbon processions.

A Bourbon paper asks why it is that Wise and other Republican speakers are interrupted and assaulted, while Lee and the Democratic speakers are left undisturbed. The answer is easily given. The Republicans are law abiding and well behaved, while some of the Bourbons, "the best people," are precisely the opposite.

Virginia and Her People.

Everybody who dares to express his opinion about Bourbon practices in this State is charged by a partizan press with traducing Virginia and her people. When Bourbon orators and papers refer so pathetically to Virginia and her people, they are seeking to create a false impression, both at home and abroad, that they alone are the people, and that they own the whole State. It seems to fancy's mind that we have been hearing this same of Bourbon cry ever since the war. It is the re-echo of the voice of a past age when there existed a class of servile labor, and when an intolerant spirit of the ruling class dominated in public affairs. Servile labor discouraged arts, manufactures and free thought, both in politics and religion. The religion that did not teach slavery both of thought and labor was no more tolerated here than such a religion was tolerated in Spain in the days of the Inquisition, or in France in the days of the massacre of St. Bartholomew. Those who controlled and used servile labor became the petty tyrants of their day. They produced a pernicious effect on manners; affecting lordly airs in a Republican land and treating poor white men like they were no better than slaves. This conduct destroyed political liberty in the South, and eventually brought down the judgment of heaven upon the country.

Since the surrender of this lordly class at Appomattox, we are sorry to have it to say that their human nature has not changed a bit. The spirit that once made labor servile, still endeavors to make free speech and freedom of political action a by-word, a delusion and a mockery. If clothed with State and National power, governed by a narrow provincialism and a spiteful demon of intolerance, they would still organize mobs to prevent men from discussing with freedom, and maintaining without restraint the principles and politics of the political party to which they belong.

It is time to call a halt on this class of provincial Virginia Bourbons and tyrants, who have brought down from the traditions of the past all the arrogance of slavery without its quality and gentility of breeding. We would have their orators and slavish papers know that the Republicans own as much of the State as they do, and are as much the people as they are. Virginia has become a free State—a fact which these Bourbon don inners and overseers do not seem to have realized,—and its franchises belong to everybody who is a citizen thereof, whether he be a Bourbon or a Republican.

This is an age of free thought, whether it be in science, religion or politics. There has been quite enough of this foolishness of stopping anyone from talking what they please about things done in Virginia as well as elsewhere. Virginia is not a corner where what is done may not be talked about. When remarks are made concerning what are considered bad practices here, as well as elsewhere, every fool in this free and enlightened age ought to know and appreciate the fact that no malicious reference is intended to the whole State as a Commonwealth, and to all her people as a community, but only to those who are guilty of such bad practices, and to such localities as permit them to be perpetrated with impunity in their midst.

The people, in the main, are all right, if not imposed upon and led astray by false political teachings. All are not Democrats any more than all are Republicans. The State of Virginia and her people do not belong to either party, but both parties have an equal right to live here and maintain their own opinions without being molested by either, or being blackguarded and threatened by Bourbon stumblers and truculent newspapers, which are like little boys on the side-walk of some town, bragging about what some big man is going to do, or piping to those who will not dance to their sorry music.

We wish it to go forth to the great civilized world beyond our borders, with their teeming industries, their Young Men's Christian Associations, their public institutions, and their progress in liberal advancement that there shall be room for free politics as well as free religion here in Virginia, and among all classes of her people.—Whig.

Did you hear anything "drap" in O-H-I-O.

Bourbon Tyranny.

The conduct of the minions and tools of Bourbonism before elections at elections and after elections is the conduct that always and everywhere proclaims tyranny.

The Bourbon Usurpers in the General Assembly were guilty of every act that defines tyrants and that marks them as unfit rulers of a Free People.

They have seized your free schools, and put them in the hands of Partizan Boards, chosen by themselves, under the School-Killer Bill.

They have seized your Ballots and Ballot-Boxes, and put them in the hands of Partizan Boards, chosen by themselves, under the Ballot-Killer and Ballot-Box Stuffer Bill.

They have seized your property, and put it in the hands of Partizan Boards, to be excessively assessed to increase your taxes without your assent.

They have betrayed you and readjustment to the Coupon and the Coupon-scalpers.

And now, as in 1878 and 1879, they appeal to Federal Power and influence to help fasten their despotic clutch upon us.—Whig.

WYTHE COUNTY EDITORIALS.

Mr. Oglesby, please write us a letter and tell "what I know about Brokers Bills," and how it would have affected the free schools. Don't you think the people take about as little stock in Bourbon Democracy now as they did "Brokerdom" six years ago? If you don't you will be better posted a little later on.

Why did Mr. Oglesby vote to exempt Virginia bonds from the same taxation that other property pay? The people want to know, especially as the question of records is under consideration.

THE APPOMATTOX AFFAIR.

The True Story, as Told by Charles W. Statham, Esq.

For the Whig.

APPOMATTOX CO., October 10.

At our last court-day an unfortunate difficulty occurred, which I deeply regret for the sake of the law-abiding people of this county, who frown upon such things. The difficulty was between Mr. Philagar of Montgomery, and others, and Capt. Blair; and I would not notice it for the sake of old Virginia if an incorrect version had not appeared in the New York Herald, and thus showing how the public mind of our State is inflamed by party feeling, but I would do all I could to smother these things from the gaze of the outside world.

I will now relate the affair as it occurred and appeared to me, and I was present all the time; and in justice to Capt. Blair, it is right that I should do so.

After Mr. Musback had closed his speech in the hotel, and the crowd had retired some distance, Captain Blair was informed that Musback had alluded to his transaction with the Petersburg Bank, and Blair got upon the stand and called for an explanation from Musback, who had then retired to the crowd, some distance off, but he stepped forward, and after explanation both parties were satisfied, but some of Musback's party seemed dissatisfied with the result, and Mr. Musback fell back again to the crowd, which was from 30 to 40 feet from the stand. I then went upon the stand and requested Blair to come down and go to his room, as it was early time for him to leave, and he came down and I took his hand and we went to the hotel together, and I saw Blair and Mr. Woodson, of Lynchburg, approaching towards us (nobody else near us) and Captain Blair immediately turned his face to them, and when they came near together I let go of Blair's arm and stopped in about three or four feet of him, and he extended his arm and touched Philagar's shoulder. I am partially deaf and didn't hear the words or salutation which passed, but I saw, even before Blair touched Philagar, he was excited and pale, and I could hear the noise of talking, but not words; but I saw Blair use his fist with a thrust at Philagar's face and knocked him down. I forthwith seized the left arm of Blair and got between him and Philagar, but Blair was too strong for me, and pushed me aside, when Mr. Frank McKenney ran up and commanded the peace, and I thanked him and asked others to help me keep them apart, then it was Blair was hit on the head by two young men with their fists, the last knocking off his spectacles, when he lunged for him, carrying me with him, holding his arm, when some one with a knife cut the hand of the arm I was holding, and almost simultaneously he was hit on the back of the head with a stick, and he fell in a bluejacket, which knocked him down. All the while I and others were holding him, for he fell while I was holding his arm. I was not able to help him up as I have been in feeble health, and others did so. This was all done in a second, and I did not conceive that one could have been so dastardly as to strike a man while he was held and prevented from exerting his powers. I know I was cool and not the least excited; for when Blair was getting up he asked for his spectacles, and I looked for them and gave them to him.

One of the young men of Appomattox who hit Blair and knocked off his spectacles apologized like a gentleman, stating he had been incited to it and had undoubtedly hit him in an unskillful manner while being held, and he deeply regretted he had committed it under excitement, and he hoped that it would be forgiven and forgotten, as he had no malice against Capt. Blair and nothing to gain by attacking him in such a manner.

The other did not apologize, but they are well known. No stones were thrown, as stated, in this scrimmage—only fists, knife and club. I saw no deadly weapons. I know Captain Blair had none on his person.

CHARLES W. STATHAM.

A BANQUET AT THE EUTAW HOUSE.

Paying His Respects to Virginia.

Senator John A. Logan was tendered a complimentary banquet last night in the Eutaw House by the members of the Logan Invincible Club. A committee from the club, consisting of about twenty, with the chairman, Mr. Frank G. Duburst, went over to Washington to escort the Senator to Baltimore. The party arrived at Camden Station at 6:30 P. M., in a special car. Besides the Senator and his private secretary, Mr. Hall, Hon. S. B. Elkins and some visitors from Washington came over. Carriages were taken at Camden Station, and the party drove to the Eutaw House, where they were received by the committee. A large crowd was in waiting at the hotel to receive the Senator, and greeted his arrival with cheers. The Senator, after a short rest, was escorted to the parlor, where he was introduced to a large number who had assembled to see the distinguished visitor. At ten o'clock the banquet began.

PAYING HIS RESPECTS TO VIRGINIA.

But, sir, how is it in Virginia today? I understand from the newspapers, and it is not contradicted that there the candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket is traveling over the old state, along the highways where his army once marched, arousing the people, not by his great eloquence or statesmanship, but by having horse companionship with his uncle Robert E. Lee's bridle and saddle, and while sitting thereon, receiving a kind of inspiration from the old saddle, that makes him feel as though he were in command of some great army, fighting for the destruction of his country. He has, I am told, a cavalry escort, who carry a cavalry guidon fitting to the breeze, which was used by some of his own command in the rebellion. From the shouts of the people along where he passes for the saddle and bridle, it would seem that the saddle is the candidate for governor of Virginia, and not the man who rides on it.

If he should be elected it would double the influence of that saddle and bridle that would bring the necessary votes to make him chief magistrate of that Commonwealth. Yet this is not called shaking the bloody shirt. It is the saddle he shakes and the rebel guidon. But when this fact is stated, Democrats and their allies reply: "Gen. Lee is not a politician; that is merely his way of electioneering among the people of Virginia." What Republican have you ever heard of prancing over the country on some old saddle that was used by some other general, or even by him self, in the Union army to help him through a political contest?

In the case of the Virginia campaign, the blood-stained saddle appears to be the leading card. What Republican is crying out, "Don't shake your bloody saddle at me?" Why, Mr. Chairman, if it makes the young man feel happy to mount and wobble about in his uncle's saddle, let him do it. It does him so much good, and it cannot hurt the saddle. These things are all right on the Democratic side, but if anything of the kind should ever be attempted on the Republican side, it would be waving the bloody shirt. Sir, I have no malice in my heart or vindictive feeling against those who fought bravely and well against us, though they were in the wrong. But I do claim that we were right in suppressing the rebellion, and that they were wrong; that if any man sees fit to speak of the wrongs done or attempted to be done against this country or its citizens, he has a right to do so, and that if any man chooses to speak in complimentary terms of those who sustained and upheld the government in its darkest hours, he has a right to do so. These things of which we speak are historical truths, and are written and rewritten every day by men who participated in the war on both sides. If a man is to be permitted to read the history of his own country, why cannot the facts be stated in public speech without raising this vulgar cry of "bloody shirt?" These facts are found in every public library and school history in the country. And Democratic objection to all public allusion to those matters is due to another fact—that they "prefer darkness rather than light, because their deeds are evil."

Since the war closed we find the Democratic party of the North and that of the South reunited in one harmonious band of brothers, advocating the same propositions, standing upon the same platform and voting for the same measures. They have had a majority in one or the other branch of Congress for a number of years. What great leading measure have they advocated or adopted that was calculated to advance the interests of the country or prosperity of the people?

On the other hand, there has not been a single one of all the

from 1861 down to the present time, which resulted in the restoration of the government, the establishment of our credit upon a firm basis, or the amendment of the Constitution, that has not been opposed by the Democratic party. In the establishment of our present system of currency—the best one known to the world—we found the Democratic party standing in the pathway as an obstruction.

There has not been one step taken in advance along the line of civilization or in the progress of the people that has not been made by the Republican and opposed by the Democratic party. When the Republican party stretched out its hand and lifted the slave from the gulf of despair and placed him in the sunlight of freedom, it was opposed by the Democratic party, and the poor people have felt the hand of that party laid heavily upon them from that day to this, with hardly less weight, indeed, than in the days of slavery.

The Democratic party has now attained power by crying "reform in the government" and "fraud on the party of the Republican party." We say, turn the lights of scrutiny upon every principle that the Republican party has advocated and upon every act it has performed, and with coming time, they will surely stand the test. And, sir, if the Republican party shall go out of power forever, it will leave behind it, in the hearts of the American people, an enduring monument to loyalty, liberty and the grandest achievement in prosperity and progress that has ever been accomplished by any people since man was given the power to govern himself. Sir, if you will tear away from the face of the Democracy the mask of hypocrisy and pretence of reform, you will again view the grim visage of its most ancient and repulsive form.

FRANK LESLIE'S SUNDAY MAGAZINE

For November begins with the second installment of Miss Mathew's "Dilettante Days," in which she takes the reader through Warwickshire and Oxford, and lands him in London. Seven illustrations accompany this installment, including a curious old portrait of Shakespeare on a bellows. The twentieth of the series of Christ's Parables is "The Friend at Midnight," and the twenty-first, "The Unjust Judge," both illustrated. A specially noteworthy contribution is "The Minister on Wheels," by the Rev. S. G. Barnes, Ph. D., of Iowa College, with several beautiful illustrations. Some of the illustrations are from photographs taken on the route. The element of fiction consists of the two serials, "Love's Harvest," by Farjeon; and "What She Made of Her Life," by Mrs. Farmer; and a short story, "Alexander and Spenser," by Mrs. A. E. Alexander; and there are several fine poems, together with a large and varied assortment of long and short articles suited to a most every taste.

Published by MRS. FRANK LESLIE, 55, 57 and 59 Park Place, New York City, at 25 cents a number, or $3 a year, postpaid.

The Virginia Bourbons

Howling for Boodle.

The Free-Pass System Understood Outside of the State.

A Reckoning not far Distant.

The President Flatly Refuses to be Made a Party to This Contest.

Special to the Whig.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 10.

The truculent Bourbon leaders are not deceiving any well informed Republican or Democrat in this city in respect to the progress of their campaign in Virginia. To be careful observer in Washington, where politicians of every sort are wont to congregate, and politicians and their movements are watched with an argus eye, these leaders and managers are betraying their fears and revealing their weakness in a variety and number of ways.

They may be blasterers in certain of their strongholds in your State, but they are beggars here; beggars for money, beggars for office, beggars for the crumbs which fall from anybody's table.

The chairman of their party is no longer president of their railroad. He was invited to step down and out a year or more ago.

The howl for free passes and sinecures is more dismal than that of some famishing wild beast on the lone shores of a far off desert land. The call is great, but it is like calling for the spirits in the vasty deep—

"You may call for them, but will they come when you call?"

It is hoped the owners and controllers of Virginia railroads have put their foot firmly down on the system of "free rides" by which Barbour, Wickham, and their accomplices in Bourbon politics were enabled in other times to "frank" the voting multitude over their respective lines.

Some of the doves whom the hawks decoyed in the Bourbon nest at Lynchburg, a few days ago, wore a tag around their necks, giving a free passage to the bird in question, but so difficult was it to procure the "ags" that a common hen-coop would have contained all the marketable "fowls" who got transportation to that favorite roosting place.

Indeed the "merchandise" stamped free on that occasion by the Richmond and Lynchburg and Chesapeake and Ohio, was not hauled there by approval of the real parties who owned and run those roads; and it is not all unlikely that somebody in Virginia about even this small matter in a few days.

Not only are the brakes down on all the railroads, but New York capitalists will not contribute a dollar to the necessities, however dire of their present campaign.

They have tried and failed.

Roswell P. Flower, whom they duped in the Danville massacre campaign into giving them ten thousand dollars, has most positively declined to recognize his former acquaintance with Virginia politics.

They got his money, and he got, it seems, the experience.

He was fooled in the belief that some equivalent would be returned for his large outlay when the National Convention came to nominate a candidate for the Presidency.

Barbour and Danil, however didn't "pan out," thus reminding Roswell that—

Full many a Flower is born to blust unseen,

And waste its sweetness on the desert air.

And so it came to pass when a few days ago this somewhat diminished rose-bud was visited by his quondam Virginia friends in hopes that he would again open his petals to the hand that had previously plucked him, he was found not in bloom, and all his former fragrance perished.

Geo. K. Judy, Esq., Moorefield, W. Va., says in the year of 1883 he used six barrels of Powell's Prepared Chemicals, mixed as directed, 200 pounds to the acre, on wheat, and got one third more wheat by using it.

The Old, Old Story. Why do we hear so much about dyspepsia? Simply because so many people have it. Why are so many people talking about their cure from this dreadful disease? Simply because they have been taking Brown's Iron Bitters.

Photographs! Photographs! I have opened my photograph gallery for the season, and am prepared to take pictures in the best style.

I feel it my duty to the thousands who suffer from Blood Poison to give my experience with that horrible disease and the wonderful effect of Swift's Specific in its treatment.

OLYMPIA, VA., 14th 1885.

EDITOR PATRIOT-HERALD,

DEAR SIR:—As it has been widely circulated throughout the Southwest that I had turned over and was going to vote the Democratic ticket, I deem it due to myself and party to state that this is without any foundation on my part, whatever; and I am going to vote the Republican ticket at the election in November.

H. HARMON.

WE are further authorized to state that Capt. Harmon is doing all he can for the Republican party and cause.

Investigate for Yourself.

A circular headed "Democracy and Free Education" without any signature, has been freely, but slyly circulated through Smyth county, which if false in all particulars as it is to the statement of the school funds of this county shows very plainly that the author is indeed writing about something that he knows nothing about or he intended it only to deceive.

He claims that in 1884 Smyth county had 60 white and 8 colored schools, and that $13,728.23 school funds were received, and this is all true. But it is not true, as he would have you believe, that it was under Democratic rule, for he knows well that these schools were all opened the 1st Sept. 1883, and every dollar of this $13,728.23 was received and appropriated before the Democratic Legislature was elected or met, and it was all the result of Republican legislation, controlled by a Republican Board of Education and a Republican Auditor.

Gen. Cartaggi, the King's uncle, a handsome Romanian, brought up in Paris, accompanied the troops. He said to the Herald correspondent: "I am very much satisfied with our mobilization. It has taken us only eight days to accomplish it, and by the 23rd the last man will have left Belgrade. We shall then muster between forty and fifty thousand men."

The men themselves were almost enthusiastic, their animation increasing at the various stations, where the population turned out en masse, bringing with them fruit, flowers, bread, wine and meat, while those whose poverty prevented their offering a more substantial tribute brought large jars of water, which were welcome enough under the boiling sun.

At Labora and Palanka the people were particularly demonstrative. At the former place a second battalion of light infantry joined us. The men were clothed in light white canvas uniforms, with native sandals instead of boots, but they were apparently as active and as keen as those who embarked at Belgrade.

One of the most decorated officers present said to me: "What we Servians want is Prinsend. It was formerly the capital of Servia, and must come back to us. Now is our opportunity."

State Republican Platform.

We, the Republican Party of Virginia, faithfully adhere to the National Republican Party, its principles and platform...

We maintain a resolute antagonism to the National Democracy as a conspiracy for spoils, without any wise or definite convictions of its own on any Federal issue...

We declare our resolute opposition to the present Federal Administration as the creature of the immoral and faithless relations of the late Republican administration...

For the Free Ballot, against the Bourbon Ballot-Killer. For Free Schools and increased appropriations for the enlargement and extension of the system...

For the enforcement of the Readjuster settlement of the State debt, as covering every dollar of Virginia's equitable share of the debt of the undivided State...

For economic government, against Bourbon waste, improvidence, and crippled finances. For a liberal support and extension of all our asylums...

For Free Books for free schools, as a proper and necessary completion of the system of public education...

For due compensation for all labor impressed for public service, whether on public roads or otherwise...

For good public county roads, under some efficient system, to be supported by an equal and uniform rate of taxation...

For Biennial Elections, so that our State county, city and other elections may all occur together, with great economy...

For the protection of our oyster-beds and fisheries from non-resident invaders, and the regulation of the great fisheries...

For every possible encouragement and aid to promote the construction of railroads and other facilities to open up the immense mineral and agricultural resources of the Western, southwestern and other portions of the State...

For an enforcement of the paramount obligation of the various works of internal improvement to the people of the State...

For the promotion of the development of their agricultural and mineral resources, encourage the investment of active capital in manufactures, and the pro-table employment of labor in industrial enterprises...

For money wages for labor against the Bourbon store-and-order system, whereby corporate and other employers control the expenditures of their employees...

For eight hours as a day for all labor employed on public works and in mines and manufactories, and corporations, with weekly payments.

For a State Bureau of Labor Statistics, to reach a fuller knowledge of the condition of the laboring people, with a view to their welfare and elevation.

For a legal provision securing to all mechanics, laborers, and other workmen employed by corporations, firms, and individuals the first lien on the assets of these where they are forced into liquidation...

For that civil service in which character and capability shall be regarded as paramount tests for public employment.

For such annual appropriations as may be adequate to provide for the proper care and support of disabled Virginia soldiers who need such provisions.

For the Free Ballot, against the Bourbon Ballot-Killer.

For Free Schools and increased appropriations for the enlargement and extension of the system...
