Seeing Light at Last.

The Beacon hails as a reclamation of a brand from the burning the Paris Gazette's latest utterance, as to where it and the Democratic party stand on the Tariff question. Here it is:

The Democratic party is firmly committed to a Tariff, which will afford the American workman and his employer protection from the competition of the pauper labor of Europe.

If this be true, it only remains to say to the long erring brothers: "Come right on in, the water is fine." A better enunciation of the Republican position on the Tariff could not well have been framed, and if the Democracy feels that way about it, we see no ground for further argument or difference of opinion. It would seem to be a matter of prudence, however, now that we are all agreed to leave the government in the hands of the President and party whose belief in this doctrine takes concrete form in legislation along the line suggested.

Personally, we cannot say that we have ever seen anything in a Democratic platform, or heard anything from the lips of a Democratic speaker to indicate that the Tariff policy promulgated above was other than rank poison, but if there has indeed been a change of heart, so radical and so satisfying, we can only say that,

While the lamp holds out to burn the vilest sinner may return.

Far be it from us to close the door on the repentant prodigal, so long absent from the fold, with his belly full of nothing more nutritious than the husks of Free-Trade. By all means let him get on the wagon and ride, if he so desires, but for the present at least, let the driving be done by the more experienced hands.—Paris (Ill.) Beacon.

Mr. Slempp's Tribute to His Dead Brother.

Deeply touched by the death of his brother, William M. Slempp, whose death occurred in Louisville, Ky., last week, and at whose bedside he had been for two months, Congressman C. B. Slempp, who was a guest at Hotel Bristol Saturday night, being en route for Washington, said:

"The death of my brother, coming when he was in the prime of manhood, is to me an irreparable loss. He was endeared to me by every tie that the purest affection has, and his taking away fills me with inexpressible sadness. His relations with the world were characterized by a loyalty and a devotion to his principles and his people that knew no limits. In the storms and convulsions of life, he was as firm and strong as the Rock of Gibraltar, yet his qualities of strength and firmness were tempered by the sweetness, by the good humor and by the sunshine of his disposition. He was to all men akin; so much so that my father always regarded him as the most popular with the public generally of any who ever bore our name. He was the best brother a man could have.

"Absolutely true, loyal, self-sacrificing, intelligent, brave and self-reliant, and filled with boundless energy, he held a place no one can take. He had acquired a beautiful place in good, old Lee county, where for a hundred years his ancestors had lived; and his taking away came just as he was beginning to live. His friends in this district and elsewhere will know that everything was done for him that love, science and money could do, but it was unavailable against the inscrutable decrees of fate. His friends, as well as his people, will long mourn his loss, for none were stronger, braver, better than he."—Bristol Herald Courier.

Emory and Henry Won.

Bristol, Va., March 11.—The intercollegiate debating contest between a team from Emory and Henry College and a team from Emory College, at Oxford, Ga., held in the college chapel at Emory, Va., last week, resulted in a decision in favor of the Emory and Henry debater. The subject was that of the advisability of a certain form of municipal taxation. This is the second contest between the two schools, and honors are even. General Assembly's Work

Summing up an unusually busy session of the General Assembly, its enactments of general public interest are found to be rather larger than usual. They are as follows:

Taxes on the rolling stock of steam railroads will, after 1912, be divided, 25 per cent. going to the cities which have the home offices and the remainder being divided among the cities and counties through which they run.

All convicts regarded as safe to work on the public roads will be employed on highway construction after the expiration of the contract with the Thacker Company on May 1, 1913. The remainder, not to exceed 500, will be put to work on a new contract.

To the people of Virginia is referred the amendment to the Constitution permitting city treasurers and commissioners of the revenue to succeed themselves, and the amendment permitting the General Assembly to grant to cities a commission form of government.

The counties of Halifax and Charlotte are taken from the Sixth Congressional district and placed in the Fifth.

A commission is created to compromise back taxes with the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad, and to guard a merger under which the road is permitted to amend the charter by surrendering its exemption from taxation and being relieved of its special burdens.

Split in Party May Be the Outcome.

"I heard men leaving the Capitol of Virginia, who have never scratched a Democratic ticket, say that a dry Republican looks better to them than a wet Democrat."

Thus spoke Rev. Frank L. Wells, of the Broad Street Methodist church, in a sermon in which the saloon was bitterly denounced and the Chamber of Commerce severely criticised for the stand it recently took with reference to the Jordan enabling act, which was killed last Saturday in the Senate.

"It is surprising," said Mr. Wells, "that the Chamber of Commerce of Richmond, supposed to be an association of successful business men, endorses the saloon, a thing which is a financial loss instead of gain to the community, and which destroys wealth rather than creates it."

"We can never get rid of the saloon by denunciation. I denounce it as a coward, skulking behind screened doors; as a liar, deceiving those it wrecks; as a thief, stealing honor and manhood; as a murderer, killing human beings."

"We can only win by the ballot. There is a sentiment rising in this State which will wreck parties and re-write constitutions in order to vote on this question. The Legislature of Virginia cannot always prevent it."—Richmond Journal.

Republican State Convention Held in Roanoke.

Four delegates-at-large instructed to vote for the re-nomination of President Taft were named Tuesday by the Virginia Republican State convention. This action puts into the Taft column the entire Virginia delegation of twenty-four votes in the Chicago convention. The instructions of the delegates-at-large prescribe that the votes shall be cast for Mr. Taft on every ballot. They were adopted by the convention by a vote of 702 to 64. The resolutions declare that Virginia Republicans honor the President for the courses he made in vetoing ill-considered tariff bills.

A harmony state of delegates-at-large then was arranged. It consisted of Representative C. B. Slemp, Ninth district; Alvah H. Martin, of Norfolk, the National committeeman; R. H. Angell, Sixth district, and Royal E. Cabell, of Richmond.

C. A. Revercomb, of Covington, was named as permanent chairman, and Geo. L. Hart, of Roanoke, permanent secretary.

The resolutions adopted, in addition to carrying instructions for President Taft, jointly praised the administrations of McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft, endorsing Mr. Martin to succeed himself as National committeeman, and the record of Congressman Slemp, who was re-elected State chairman.

While the afternoon session in the Academy of Music developed several prolonged demonstrations, the flood gates of enthusiasm were not really opened until the meeting at night. At times the meeting was stormy and there were intervals when it was impossible for the speakers to proceed for the disturbances among the delegates.

The greatest ovation for President Taft was during the remarks of Mr. Lucian Gleaves, of Wytheville, while the most enthusiastic demonstration that Mr. Roosevelt's name received was during the remarks of Mr. Pendleton, of Scott county. Both ovations were prolonged and were spontaneous and the walls of the academy rang with the cheers of the two favored leaders of the Republican party.

Mr. H. H. Cook, of Oatham Hill, came over Tuesday to see his son, Geo. Fred, who has the measles, but who at this time is getting much better.

Mrs. Belle C. Eller, who is in the hospital at Roanoke, is reported doing as well as could be expected.

We call attention in this issue to the new ad of H. B. Staley Co. He not only carries good flour, but all kinds of mill feed, hay, straw and sugar.

Bristol, Va., March 13.—In spite of the affidavit of Miss Jennie Lloyd, to the effect that she swore falsely, thus convicting Hyatt Slemp, a prominent young man of Lee county, Va., on the charge of having murdered Cleveland Litton, resulting in his being sentenced to six years in the State prison, a guard has gone to Richmond with the young man where he will serve his term of imprisonment, unless pardoned by the Governor. Jonesville attorneys say Slemp's only hope is the Governor.

SICKLY CHILD

Made Well By Vinol—Letters from a Grateful Mother
 New Haven, Conn.—"My little girl, ever since her birth, was frail and sickly and nothing seemed to do her any good until we tried your cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol. As soon as she commenced to take it, I noticed an improvement in her health and appearance. She has now taken three bottles of Vinol, and from the good it has done her I can say it will do all you claim for it in building up strengthening frail and delicate children." (Name furnished on request.)
 Another mother writes: "I can praise of Vinol."

Marion Civic Improvement Club.

The Marion Woman's Civic Improvement Club met Friday afternoon, March 1st, in the auditorium of the Public School. In the absence of the president, Mrs. B. F. Buchanan, the vice-president, Mrs. C. C. Lincoln, presided at the meeting, with Mrs. Z. T. Atkins, recording secretary. After a short business meeting, the following report for 1911 of the Recording Secretary was read:

Some ladies influenced by Mrs. B. W. Read, seeing the necessity for an organization of the kind in Marion, met Tuesday, Jan. 10, 1911, and organized a Civic Improvement Club, to be called The Marion Woman's Club, "the object being to stand as willing helpers in womanly services to home and to State." The officers, chairman of the standing committees and five other members of the club (appointed by the president) constitute the "Board of Governors." This body of women have worked together in harmony, co-operating with the committees and the president, who has tactfully, graciously and cheerfully presided at all the meetings, encouraging and lending a helping hand wherever and whenever needed. The Civic committee, led by its able and tactful chairman, has, with untiring zeal and courage, endeavored to have some of our public buildings kept in an up-to-date and sanitary condition. It influenced the Mayor to set a cleaning day for Marion in the spring; it has made noble efforts to have the Jackson pond drained, and to persuade the N. & W. R. R. Co. to improve the grounds around the passenger station. The great improvement in the High School building and the Court House show how well this committee has succeeded in some of its efforts. The Educational committee, under the leadership of the chairman, whose ability, energy and interest in whatever she undertakes, are well known, made money to buy books and other equipment for the High School. This committee hopes soon, by the use of some of the club money and the public money, to fill the school library with the proper books for instruction and entertainment of the children of the High School, and to furnish maps, globes and other equipment so much needed. The Current Events committee, guided by the zealous and efficient chairman, has given to the public meetings, entertainments of a high order, excellent addresses by talented women, interesting selections that were well read and charming music from both piano and violin. Some of those who so charmingly entertained the Club were not members and the Club showed its appreciation by close attention, applause and by heartily thanking those who contributed so much to the pleasure of the general meetings. During the year, 1911, five public meetings were held, seven regular meetings of the Board of Governors, and one called meeting of the Board. Mrs. C. C. Lincoln was the delegate to the Virginia Federation of Clubs, which convened in Roanoke May 9th. Mrs. D. W. Read was the delegate to the Virginia Federation of Clubs, which met in Norfolk. The Club has a membership of twenty six and hopes this year to add many new names to the list of members.

The following interesting program was beautifully rendered:

1. The Woman's Club in Small Towns, read by Mrs. S. W. Dickenson.
 2. The Poor Man's Cow—an original production by Miss Miriam Sheffey.
 3. Sextette from Lucia—by Miss Edna Brown.
 4. Encore—Sinding's Rustle of Spring—Miss Edna Brown.
 5. Song—In the Garden of My Heart—by Mrs. M. M. McFerrin.
- Besides the Club members a number of visitors were present, all showing their appreciation of the beautiful program by heartily encoring each number.

The next public meeting of the Club will be held the first Friday in May.

Asks Aid for Confederate Heroes' Widows.

Mrs. N. V. Randolph, chairman of the relief committee, Virginia division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, has issued the following appeal to the various chapters of the Virginia division United Daughters of the Confederacy:

"Your president, Mrs. A. A. Campbell, has sent her message to the Virginia division. In it she calls your attention to the relief committee, of which I have the honor to have been again appointed chairman, and as such I now send my words to the chapter and individuals throughout our Commonwealth. The question is so often asked and so improperly answered that I send you officially an explanation of the objects of the relief committee of the Virginia division. It belongs to no chapter, no city, but it is an organized work of the division. Its object is to relieve as far as possible the wives, mothers, sisters, daughters of Confederate soldiers, the women who have fought the unequal strife, and in their old age cry out to us for comfort. Shall we let this cry fall on deaf ears? No, not while there are 5,000 Daughters in Virginia.

"The relief committee is not a Richmond enterprise—it stretches its relief work out to our country women. Every chapter in Virginia is entitled to help as far as we can give it. In Richmond there are five homes for aged women, together with Lee Camp Auxiliary, which for twenty-two years has given aid to Confederate families outside of these homes. It was from this untiring little band of Confederate women (every one of whom is a member of the Richmond chapter) that I drew my inspiration, and asked that the Virginia division should take up relief work as a part of their organization. Why not send those in need to the many homes in Richmond? Because many of these old women have their own little homes, but nothing else. Many prefer to live with their own little 'belongings' about them. Even the small amount of three dollars per month we can now give them makes them feel their independence. Wisely have our Daughters, following in the footsteps of their mothers of the old Memorial association, erected their monuments in every county to their Confederate dead, for it has kept alive the sentiment of our cause and made it possible to have such a glorious organization as the Daughters of the Confederacy. Those who forget their dead have no heart in the care of the old and decrepit.

"Daughters, in a very few years our Confederate women will have ceased from their labor; they will not need your help. Give that help now, at once. Let every chapter have an entertainment of some kind and send the proceeds at the earliest date to this relief fund. There is no red tape about the distribution. Send for a record blank, whether you have contributed or not, for you may have pledged to support an old lady in some other home, which pledge it should be your duty to fulfill, but there may be some other old lady that just our little help may make happy. You alone, in your chapter, investigate the case, and being responsible for its worthiness, return the application to me. It will be signed by the associate chairman, Mrs. Sam'l W. Williams; then by the president of the division, Mrs. A. A. Campbell; forwarded to the treasurer, Mrs. Samuel W. Kiddick, and as soon as the mail can carry the check it goes to the homes of the Confederate women. Daughters, there is no other explanation of the relief fund of the Virginia division. It is your work a dopted at Suffolk, commended at Roanoke, and I am simply the instrument in your hands.

"See to it that you fail not in your duty to the Confederate women who bore the heat and burden of the day." "MRS. N. V. RANDOLPH, Chairman Relief Committee, Virginia Division, U. D. C."

You judge a man not by what he promises to do, but by what he has done. That is the only true test. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judged by this standard has no superior. People everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. For sale by all dealers.

Tragedy in Carroll County

News went over the wire Thursday morning that Judge T. L. Massie, W. N. Foster, Commonwealth's attorney, and Sheriff Webb were shot and killed by the Allens. The triple tragedy took place at Carroll Court House. It was reported that others were also shot. This seems to be the most shocking and revolting occurrence that has taken place in this State for many years.

Dr. Copenhagen will not be in his office next Wednesday and Thursday. Everything that Boys need for Spring wear sold at Hawkins-Copenhaver Co.'s at proper price.
