Dear Mother and Father

It is 7,30 and we are on a train for Venice. No mail yet. On Monday we went to Santa Croce where Dante and Michael-angelo are buried. Also the famous de Medici chapel. Then to St. Michele the earlies church in Florence. Then to the [illegible] Museum where most of the statuary is. In the afternoon we went to the Pete Palace and saw many of worlds most famous pictures including Raphaels Madonna of the chair.

We climbed up to [illegible] where the [illegible] [illegible].

Yesterday we went first to see [illegible] where [illegible] lived. Saw his cell and everything. Then to the academy of fine arts to see [illegible] Michael-anglelos famous statue of David. Then to the Cathedral Museum to see Donatellos Singing Boys. Then to the Baptistery where Dante was baptized. Then shopping in the afternoon bought something for each and everyone. Can not get [illegible] goblets. Butler plates are $4.50 each. If Mazie will write what she can get them for I can get them further north. I hope you have written about London.

Everywhere one sees signs of Mussolini [illegible] and [illegible] praising him. The papa as they call the pope and the King dont seem to be in it.

We have just bought a Chicago Tribune. The first news for over five weeks.

Nearly all the [illegible] women carry canes. So I may arrive with one. I have bought less than anyone in the party but my bags are bursting.

I have learned to count and spend Italian money fine but the [illegible] is harder because nearly all Italian speak French of English.

The American Express is Marvelous. They know everything and do everything for you. They dont know of Hungarian money though. So we have written Liois to meet us at the station in Budapest with money for tops etc.

Venice [underlined] – The wheat fields are one mass of red poppies. I do not see how France could have more. Venice is lovelier than the pictures Thousands of little canals. The Taxis are all gondolas.

I read a book saying that if you knew only two words you could get along in Italy – Multo Bello – Very Beautiful. The [illegible] will do everything for you if you think their country beautiful. We certainly use it Multo Bello [illegible] salad and everything.

I looked for linen and lace for Mazie for sometime this afternoon. It is very jigh. Tell Mazie to let me know what kind of linen she likes and I will find it in the north.

Consult the P.O. And allow more time on mail. No word yet and I am frantic.

Much love

Eleanor.

Thurs.

Still no mail. A big church holiday today. We went through the [illegible] palace this morning. The best thing is [illegible] "paradise." Be sure to send fill instructions about London.
