

FOR GOVERNOR JNO. S. WISE, of Richmond. FOR LIEUT. GOVERNOR H. C. WOOD, of Scott County. FOR ATTORNEY-GENERAL FRANK S. BLAIR, of Wythe.

HON. SAMUEL H. NEWBERRY.

A true friend of the people asks a respite after many years' faithful service. That man is Hon. Samuel H. Newberry, who has declined renomination for the Senate. He will be missed in that body next winter. He has stood up manfully against Mahone's bossism and ring rule. He started the ball that gathered up and rolled Mahone, the Virginia Outcast, from the State. He sounded the battle-cry, "This way, Freeman," and led the way with a martial ardor and intrepidity which infused life into the ranks of his immediate followers and woke up the party into renewed action so potent in gaining the victory. He will not be forgotten. — Richmond State.

The above is the character of the sickening flattery with which the Bourbons expect to satisfy Capt. Newberry that he has been properly treated by them. Such stuff is an insult to his intelligence. "He asks a respite after many years' faithful service." Why? Because he has been most ungratefully and treacherously dealt with by the Bourbons. According to statements of their own the Bourbon party has been saved by the manful work of Newberry. It was his energy and enthusiasm that made the "Big 4" movement a success, and placed the so-called Democratic party once more upon its feet. His cry of "this way, Freeman!" drew enough Readjusters into the Bourbon ranks to give a staggering blow to the cause of Liberalism. He and those who answered to that cry have lived to learn that they flew from a tyranny not half so oppressive as that to which they went. They have lived to learn that ingratitude and treachery are striking, controlling characteristics of Bourbonism. They have lived to learn that even though Mahoneism should be as bad as it was painted, Bourbonism and Bourbonism were immensely worse. Who said that Newberry aspired to a renomination for the Senate? Who says that he would be satisfied with so humble a position as State Senator? Why, the Bourbons, whose party he saved from premature death. They are the ones who now pretend that they would thrust such a small honor upon him; and we doubt their sincerity, even if they served their party, and how have they repaid the debt? By false promises and constant betrayals. When he became a candidate for Congress last year, the little Bourbon ringsters combined against him, and Trigg, who had done nothing, and could do nothing for the party, was selected as the candidate rather than Newberry, who had done so much. Trigg was one of the old Funder ring, and Newberry was a Readjuster, and fought against the "best people." After this ungrateful conduct, Bourbonism tried to soften the wrong by sending forth the proclamation that "the gallant Newberry" should be their next candidate for Governor. His name was painted upon banners and transparencies as such a candidate. He was boomed by the Lynchburg Advance, the News, and other Bourbon papers. But as the time for making a nomination approached, the Bourbon papers became silent as to the claims of Newberry, and sounded praises for Fitz Lee and other Bourbon-Funders of the ancient type and stripe. So Newberry's name was not mentioned in the Bourbon convention. His own county delegation did not support him. He was set aside for Fitz Lee, who was a representative of the extreme "debt-paying" Funder party, and had never done anything to contribute to the success of Democracy.

Why should Fitz Lee be preferred to Samuel H. Newberry? Certainly not because he had done as much to build up and restore the Democratic cause. It could not be because he was a more gallant soldier; for with all the assistance he received from being a nephew of Gen. R. E. Lee, he did not, and could not surpass Capt. Newberry for gallantry as a Confederate soldier. And we have no doubt that Newberry could and would have commanded a brigade of cavalry as effectively as did Fitz Lee, had the opportunity been given him. As it is, he bears as honorable scars, and a good record as any who fought for the "lost cause."

It cannot be that Lee was preferred to Newberry because he was intellectually superior to him. Who will say that Lee could ever, under the same trying circumstances, have done as much as Newberry did, when the work of disrupting Readjustment and restoring and building up Bourbonism began? We assert with perfect assurance the superior intellectual qualifications of Newberry over Lee. As to their moral qualities, we will make no comparison. Those who know both men can conclude for themselves. This, however, we will say for Capt. Newberry, that his moral character is of the highest quality.

As to statecraft and statesmanship, Sam. Newberry is incomparably superior to Fitz Lee. Why, then, was Newberry thrown aside for the cavalry Brigadier?

First, Lee was the "nephew of his uncle," bore what is called an illustrious name, and that name is supposed by Bourbonism to be worth ten thousand votes—while Newberry is the honest son of an honest old farmer, known chiefly for his integrity and devotion to Democracy. This should be enough for any man or party, but it was not enough for sycophantic Bourbonism.

Second, Lee was an old Funder, and Newberry an old Readjuster.

Other reasons might be given, but are these not enough? Newberry will not be forgotten. He will be remembered as the victim of Bourbon ingratitude, whom he served so efficiently, with honest but mistaken purpose. There may be a time when he can make Bourbonism remember him; but as it has recently done, with base ingratitude, but because of the heavy blows he will shower upon its offending and disgraced head.

So the Democrats of this Senatorial district have nominated Judge Rhea as their candidate. We shall see if there is not a man in the district who can beat him.

WHAT greater refection can be cast upon the intelligence of the people of Virginia than to say the name of a man is worth ten thousand votes? What's in a name?

THE Democrats object to John S. Wise conducting himself in the dignified manner which he uses in addressing the people. Who cares? The Democrats always object.

SAM'L W. WILLIAMS, of Bland, is the nominee of Wythe, Bland, Giles and Pulaski for the Senate. Samuel will be laid low by another Bland man, if reports be true.

WE have failed to see any great enthusiasm among the Democrats of this section over their State ticket. There is nothing about it to enthuse.

THE Democrats will not discuss with the Republican speakers. Was there ever such moral and political cowardice shown by any party?

THE Democrats do not intend to make their fight upon principle and intellectual qualification, but upon passion and a name.

WE wonder if the workingmen of the country are going to vote for a name?

Presidential Peculiarities.

(Cor. Baltimore Herald.)

The president's eye never wanders. He looks you clearly and honestly in the face, speaks always frankly and directly to the point if the errand is one of business, and with a decidedly merry and genial tact if the errand is simply to pay respects to him. His voice is best described by the expression of "fat falsetto." It is such a voice as you always meet in men of big, fleshy, bulky bodies. His favorite attitude is with his hands behind his back, hot clasped, but the palms outward, about six inches apart, and he unconsciously keeps up a steady flapping of the left hand. He looks at his feet a great deal, and sometimes seems to be amusing himself by stepping about on the various figures on the carpet, especially if the conversation be wearisome, as it very often is.

From 10 until 12:30 the president rarely sits down. He keeps on about the room, and the room keeps on filling and emptying successively. Ladies come in now and then, and stand looking out of the windows upon the White House lot and the distant shining Potomac.

MEMORABLE SCENES IN NEW YORK.

CLOSING THE CASKET.

The Last View of the Dead Funder at the City Hall—The Floral Tributes Around the Casket.

NEW YORK, August 8.—Chief of Police Murray at 1 o'clock this morning was in command of men and affairs at the City Hall. At that hour the iron gates were about to be closed, when he observed that there were 500 or 1,000 people yet waiting at the foot of the steps and across the plaza. "Let them come in," commanded the superintendent to the officers, who, at command had shut off the people. And then followed ten minutes of the most expeditious hustling of human beings that has probably been known since the emancipation proclamation. The material was comprised almost entirely of men, and lusty policemen supplemented their admonitions of haste with exceedingly effective persuasion of a muscular character. Men and boys were shot through the City Hall with such celerity as will render the occasion to them doubly memorable. The last person had at last crossed the well-worn threshold and the iron gates clanged shut. The public had taken its leave of the dead General. None but the police and guards and all-night reporters were present when the undertaker took charge of the remains.

THE LAST LOOK.

"Any here who now desire to view the remains will step forward at once," said the undertaker, and his voice echoed in the dark, still corridors. All present passed by the casket and lying in state of the Ex-President had ended. Undertaker Merritt then brushed the glass plates above the body, and drew from their places the two lids which cover the casket. The four screws in each were turned down, and the face of the dead had been closed forever from view, unless there shall in the future from the family be a request to remove the lids. Then the dead was left in care of guards, who stood erect and silently within the closed iron gates and beneath the black drapings. The night wore on and the gray of daylight was creeping up in the east.

THE FLORAL TRIBUTE.

The still air of the tomb like corridors became heavy with the perfume of withering flowers near the dead. A huge piece—"The Gates Ajar"—had a place at the head of the casket, and the sweet smell of the lilies was borne down to those who stood and watched. Great horse shoes of red and yellow rosebuds added their fragrance, and a cross and crown, from Mayor F. C. Latrobe, of Baltimore, sent out its quota to the heavy perfume that settled on the sepulchral air. But there was one tribute that bore no fragrance except such as will come tenderly to the family of the dead. It bore no perfume save that which lives in its memories. The still token was a plain wreath of oak leaves, pinned together with stems of oak leaves, and formed in the shape of a letter "G." The leaves grew on the oaks in the forests of Mt. McGregor, and fluttered in the mountain breezes while Gen. Grant was dying, and on the afternoon of Thursday—the day he died—little Julia, his granddaughter, and little Josie, Dr. Douglas' child, had gathered the oak leaves in the mountain woods. Then as the children prattled they knit with innocent fingers and loving hearts the wreath of oak leaves that to day is the only tribute that touches the General's casket. The little ones, their offering finished, had taken it to Col. Grant, whose eyes filled when his daughter said: "Papa, Josie and I have made this for grandpapa, and please won't you give it to him." The Col. placed the wreath on the casket then; it rested there in Albany, and still remains as the children's offering.

THE SCENE AT DAY-BREAK.

Four o'clock had passed. The gray of dawn had deepened to red. Daylight was near. The strains of dirge music crept on the morning air. At first distant they grew nearer and nearer. The red deepened in the east. Sunrise was near. The strains of music, slow and sad, grew more distant. Then blue-coated veterans of Meade Post, Philadelphia, 500 strong, came tramping to the dirge music of the trumpets. The east was suffused with tints of orange, and dawn was closer—the dawn of the funeral day. The veterans entered the plaza and marched past, while muffled drums tapped their footsteps. A heavy gun boomed on towards the sea. The chiming of old Trinity pealed mournful notes, and the sound of the muffled drums grew fainter and died out. It was sunrise. The day was born—the last day for the dead upon earth before the tomb should have opened to shelter him. Six o'clock and Wilson Post, of Baltimore, marched by with a Chicago organization. The corridors had been picketed by 15 policemen, while outside 125 more men were at rest under command of two sergeants.

ON THE FUNERAL CAR.

NEW YORK, August 8.—At 8 o'clock nature was putting forth signals of an intensely warm day. The crowds grew denser and denser around the plaza. Muffled drums and dirgeful trumpet marched in at one side and took positions at the east end. The players constituted the David's Island military band. At 8:50 General Hancock and staff trooped slowly into the plaza from Broadway, and presented front to the City Hall, then moving to the end of the plaza in Broadway, where they rested on the plaza.

At this time one hundred members of the Liederkreis society filed up to the steps of the City Hall, and, led by four instruments, sang with an impressive effect "Chorus of the Spirits from Over the Water," Schubert, and "Chorus of the Pilgrims," Traunhauser. The honor guard of regulars filed into the open space at 9 o'clock—Company A, Fifth artillery, under Col. W. B. Beck, and Company E, Twelfth infantry, under Major Brown. The companies and guard of regulars are under command of Colonel Beck. The regulars took position beneath the trees opposite the City Hall and stood at rest position. Then came

THE ORIGINAL GUARD OF HONOR that was on duty at Mt. McGregor, and which alone should lift the remains to-day. Filing into the corridors of the City Hall, these took their places beside the remains, and were under command of J. H. Johnson, senior vice commander of Grant Post, G. A. R., of Brooklyn. The men, as they stood, were as follows: Left of casket—Comrades Corwin, Horwath, McDonald, Squires, Knight and Gilliam. Right of casket—Comrades Trebbitts, McKellar, McKelvey, Brodie, Commis, and Barker. At 9:25 the imposing funeral car was drawn by twenty-four jet-black horses in black trappings. It halted on the plaza directly in front of the City Hall steps. Inside the corridors Commander Johnson was waiting.

BEARING THE CASKET FROM THE HALL.

"Columns in position right and left," was his command. The veteran guard of honor was erect. "Lift the remains," was the next command in clear, but low tones. The twelve men stooped to the silver rails with gloved hands. "March," was the word. The body moved. Out upon the porties were borne the remains, Commander Johnson immediately at the head. Down the steps with measured tread to the steps of the black and waiting car. Commander Johnson stepped aside. The silver mountings glistened as the burial case and its burden was carried up and placed upon the dias upon the mounted catafalque. The veterans retired down the steps. The body was alone for all to view. The honor guard next to the hearse, on either side, took the same relative positions they had maintained to the remains while being borne to the hearse. The steps were drawn away from the hearse. Commander Johnson took place in the centre and immediately behind the funeral car.

The clergy and physicians had paid respect to the remains by alighting from their carriages and accompanying them from the steps to the hearse. Colonel Beck, in charge of the regulars, commanded his companies as indicated above, to positions—Company A, on the right and Company E on the left of the hearse. Colored men were at the sides of the twenty-four horses, sixteen men of Meade Post, Philadelphia, of which General Grant was a member, were abreast directly in front of the team of black leaders, and the David's Island band preceded them.

THE GRANT FAMILY

were quietly gathered in their parlors overlooking the square, and strangers were rigidly excluded from the halls leading to their rooms. Mrs. Grant had not arrived, and it was announced that she would not attend the funeral, but had concluded to stay at Mt. McGregor. She was reported by Dr. Newman to be still weak and ill, though not confined to her bed. The party gathered at the hotel, ready to take carriages for their position in the parade when the column should have advanced so far as to permit the carriages to fall in line from the hotel, were Col. and Mrs. Fred Grant, Mrs. Sartoris, Mr. and Mrs. U. S. Grant, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Grant, Mrs. Cramer, Mrs. Dent, Miss Cramer, Gen. Creswell, Mr. Stephen L. Moriarty, Senor Romero and Mr. W. J. Arkell. The members of the party, who from time to time appeared at the windows as the head of the column began to move up past the hotel, the bands playing as they passed, were the object of general attention on the part of the multitudes gathered in the square.

At 9:20 President Cleveland called his Cabinet together, and arrangements were made for the order in which they were to leave the hotel to take their places in the procession.

THE FINAL SCENE.

At half-past 12 o'clock the head of the procession turned into Riverside road, and at 1:24 p. m. halted at the tomb in Riverside Park. Lines were formed on the east side of Riverside drive, and as the catafalque passed, arms were presented by regiments and the band played a dirge. The ceremonies at the tomb were very simple and brief. A detail of the Grand Army of the Republic repeated the ritual of that order, occupying ten minutes. This was followed by the burial services of the Methodist Episcopal Church, conducted by Rev. Dr. Newman. The casket was then placed in the vault. The bugle call or taps, meaning in camp that the lights are out, was then sounded, and a salute of twenty-one guns closed the ceremonies.

ITEMS GATHERED FROM THE TOWN AND COUNTY.

Briefs and Personal.

A full line of all kinds of shoes and boots at public prices at Weiler's. Frequent rains have made the grass fields quite as green as they are in the spring time.

In a few days our town will seem quite dull. The Normalites will take their departure to-morrow. Next Monday will be county court day. There will be no political speaking, so far as we are advised.

If you attend court next Monday don't forget to call on M. Weiler. Money will be saved. Miss Maggie Bico, of Glade Spring, who has been attending the Normal Institute returned home on last Monday.

A portion of Broadway is being graded and macadamized, beginning at Main street. This will be a valuable improvement. Some of the young ladies and gentlemen of the town gave a dramatic entertainment at the Opera House on last Saturday night.

Miss Lucy Sanders, who has been visiting friends and relatives in town returned to her home in Glade Spring on last Friday. All clothing will be closed out between now and September 1st, at 20 per cent. reduction. Remember this and call on M. Weiler.

Prof. F. V. N. Painter, of Roanoke College, arrived at Marion Monday, and delivered several interesting lectures before the Normal Institute. The asylum contractors have in their employment about seventy-five hands. This work is a great blessing to our workmen these hard times.

Our base ball club went to Abingdon last Saturday and played the Abingdon nine, winning a signal victory over the Abingdon boys. The score stood 27 to 8 in favor of the Marion club.

The Minstrel troupe of this place will give an entertainment at Glade Spring to-morrow night. The company gave an entertainment here last Thursday night to a paying house and appreciative audience.

We call attention to the dissolution notice of Fell & Jackson, published in another column. This firm has been doing business for a long time in the town. Give heed to the wording of the notice.

Mr. Jno. P. Wright, formerly of Marion, but now of Washington City, is in our town and is accompanied by his son, Mr. Paul Wright. The latter is thinking of locating in our town.

The Republicans of Wythe county had a glorious good meeting last Monday, and Capt. Blair made a splendid speech to the meeting. The courthouse would not hold the people who wanted to get in to hear him.

The Republicans of Smyth and Bland counties will hold a convention at Olympia in this county on Friday, the 21st inst. to select a candidate for the House of Delegates. Let all the delegates from Smyth county be on hand.

In order to make room for Fall goods we will sell for the next 30 days our entire line of ladies and gents trunks at positive cost, M. Weiler the Clothier.

Don't buy anything in our line until you have examined our Stock and prices, Weiler the Clothier.

Declamation Contest. Some of the young gentlemen teachers who are attending the Normal Institute got up another contest in declamation for a gold medal, and the contest took place at the Opera House last night. The following gentlemen were the contestants: P. Mullen, J. R. Anderson, S. D. Steffy, M. P. Blankenbecker, W. D. Wolfe, Jno. L. Anderson, J. R. Coppenhaver and E. P. Anderson. A large audience was in attendance, and the contest was a spirited one. Mr. Blankenbecker won the medal. Some of the declamations were very good.

Capt. Wise's Appointments. We are requested to give notice that John S. Wise will not speak at Olympia, in this county, on the 4th of September as heretofore announced, or at Saltville on the 28th, inst. or at Mt. Airy on the 3rd of Sept.

Capt. Wise will speak at Bland G. H. Sept. 2nd, at Crockett's Depot in Wythe, on the 4th and at Marion on Saturday, the 5th of September.

1,700 Deaths in one Week.

The mortality in this city for the past week has been greater than ever before known, owing to the large amount of unripe fruit daily consumed, which generates Diarrhea Dyspepsia!! Death!!! To prevent the loss of the fruit would doubtless be impossible, but many of the deaths caused by its consumption could easily be obviated by the timely use of Dr. Lytle's Elixir, the only medicine ever yet discovered which seems to counteract and fully cure all disease of the bowels.—New York Paper.

For a Life-Time.

I have suffered for years with an eruption—breaking out at intervals all over my body. At times my hands would be useless, which were both painful and annoying. All other remedies had been exhausted, when my merchant here, who handles S.S.S. induced me to try Swift's Specific. I tried one bottle and could see that the sores on my hands were drying up. After the use of several bottles I was entirely cured. My skin is now as fair and smooth as that of a new-born babe. This eruption was hereditary, as my father was similarly afflicted. I can vouch for it. It is all it claims to be. I consider it a God-send to this generation, and my house shall never be without it.

Counterfeiting a Valuable Article.

The publisher of the Madison County Record writes from Huntsville, Ark., as to the effect of Brown's Iron Bitters on his wife. Mr. Daugherty says: "My wife has been using the Bitters for some months; the effect in her case is remarkable." He also writes that owing to counterfeits and imitations, it was difficult to get the genuine article. That difficulty has now been remedied, imitations have been exposed and put to flight. There, as elsewhere Brown's Iron Bitters can be had of all the respectable druggists at a dollar a bottle.

Probably Not True.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., August 10.—John Baker, of Eagle, Fayette county, a soldier who fought with Grant at Vicksburg, was until Saturday proprietor of a horse which was shot while Grant was upon his back, the day before Vicksburg fell. Though old, the animal was sound and without a blemish except the scar he received at Vicksburg, from which he sometimes went lame for a short time in wet weather. Last Thursday he refused food and in spite of treatment by a veterinary doctor grew sick and died Saturday afternoon. Baker will preserve the horse's hide and have it tanned and made into mementoes for his old comrades.

Ten Thousand Christians Massacred in Tonquin.

PARIS, August 11.—Further advices from Tonquin say that the Bishop of Quinhon reports that over ten thousand Christians have been massacred in the provinces of Biendinh and Phyyon. Charlottesville letter: Certain colored men of this place were induced by an agent of a coal company to go to the mines near Terra Haute, Ind.

The advantages of employment in that section were painted in glowing colors, but the laborers on reaching the mines found the miners on a strike and in a very threatening attitude toward the new comers. Under the circumstances the authorities required the proprietors of the mines to return to their homes such of the men as were unwilling to remain, and the larger part of the gang that went from here has just reached home.

The Normal Institute.

After a session of nearly four weeks in duration the Institute will come to a close to-morrow. While it may not have been a source of profit financially to the town in other respects it has been of great service. It has given more encouragement to the friends of the free schools in our community, and has enabled our teachers at home to have the benefit of a course of thorough instruction from competent teachers. During the session nearly three hundred teachers have been enrolled, the larger portion being young ladies. We believe that most of the teachers have enjoyed their visit to our town, and will carry home with them nothing but kindly wishes for our people. We feel authorized to say that our citizens have been favorably impressed with teachers, and are glad that they have come amongst us. To all the teachers we wish a happy and safe return to their homes.

We call attention to the advertisement of S. O. Fisher, Lynchburg, Va. He is a reliable dealer and means business.

The Democratic Legislative Convention, Its Nominees.

Met here to-day. Martin Williams, Esq., of Bland county, was made temporary chairman and afterwards permanent chairman. The convention after dinner went into permanent organization. E. L. Roberts was placed before the convention by a member of the Smyth delegation and J. S. Robinett, of Bland, was placed in nomination by a Mr. Hoge of that county, who proved to be the orator of the convention. The delegations from the two counties retired to separate rooms for consultation.

After a brief consultation the delegations met again in convention and the name of Mr. Robinett was withdrawn and Mr. Roberts was nominated by acclamation.

Baptist Association.

The Lebanon Baptist Association met at the church of that denomination in Marion to-day. It will continue in session for several days, and a number of ministers, delegates and visitors will attend.

Hon. R. M. T. Hunter, the newly appointed collector of customs at Tappanhook, on Tuesday took possession of the office.

Dr. A. D. Brubaker, recently of Page county, in self defense shot and killed a rough named Edward King last week in Wapakoneta, Ohio.

Dr. Jno. J. Werner, a popular physician of Lovettsville, Loudoun county, was found dead in his bed Saturday last having died, it is supposed, from heart.

With in the last six months Herbert Beahm, of Madison county, has caught twenty-nine hawks, six big owls, twenty six muskrats, two coons, 112 rabbits, and destroyed innumerable hawk's nests containing eggs and young ones. The net profit on his work is $18, allowances for scalps.

There is now a movement on foot in Alabama looking to a visit to the old battle fields in Virginia of the companies comprising the Second Regiment of Alabama State troops. From Virginia they will extend their trip northward.

Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

The co-partnership heretofore existing under the name of Fell & Jackson has this day dissolved by mutual consent. Mr. Fell will for the present give his special attention to the settlement of accounts and debts due them, and all persons indebted to the firm are notified that settlement must be made. The mercantile business will be continued by M. Jackson who promises to use his best endeavors to give satisfaction to all who feel disposed to patronize him.

We thank the public for their past favors and patronage. J. W. FELL, M. JACKSON, Aug. 1st, 1885.

Photographs! Photographs!

I have opened my photograph gallery for the season, and am prepared to take pictures in the best style. My gallery is at the same place, opposite the post-office. Come and see me. Respectfully J. L. THORNTON.

New Goods at Proper Prices.

I have just returned from the eastern cities where I laid in a first-class stock of goods, paying cash for them, which I propose to sell at prices as low as they can be bought. I will not undertake to undersell others, but will do as well as the best. The stock consists of everything to be found in a first-class General Merchandise Store. I will sell strictly for cash or good produce, which will enable me to do better by those who wish to buy right. I am at the former stand of Crush & Co., and have Mr. Will Francis with me. He will be glad to see and wait on his friends. Respt.

From and after this date, I will not under any circumstances charge anything to any one on my books. I hope that you know I mean you gentle reader, and will not place me in a position to refuse you, for I certainly shall if you want things on time.

Respectfully, A. C. HILL.

VALUABLE FARM IN RICH VALLEY FOR RENT.

By virtue of a decree of the Circuit court of Smyth county rendered at the April term 1885 in the case of Rouse Hemstone & Co. & vs. E. Alexander and others, I will offer for rent at public outcry before the front door of the court house of Smyth county on the 20th day of July 1885, the valuable farm of A. J. Hubble, situated in the Rich Valley, above Chatham Hill, in Smyth county, containing about 263 acres, for a sufficient number of years, not exceeding five, to rent enough to pay the debt in the bill mentioned, amounting to about $440.00 and the costs of suit and the expenses of renting, the term of renting to begin from the term of confirmation of same by the court.

T.B.E.M.S.—Cash in hand sufficient to pay costs of suit, and expenses of renting, including commission, and for the residue, bonds with approved security, payable at the end of each rental year, with interest from time renting is confirmed by the court will be required of the renter.

C. B. THOMAS, Commissioner. I hereby certify that C. B. Thomas, Commissioner in the above entitled cause, has given the bond required in the decree entered therein.

Neck-Twisting in Church.

A good story is told of an eccentric old parson who was sorely annoyed by a habit his people had acquired (and which prevails, by-the-way, in all other churches, even now and hereabouts to some extent) of twisting their necks around every time anybody entered the door, and passed on the aisle of the meeting-house to what manner of person it might be.

Wearied with the annoyance, the old man exclaimed, one Sunday:

"Brethren, if you will only cease turning your heads round, whenever the door opens, and will keep your attention on me, I will promise to tell you as I preach, who it is that comes in."

Accordingly he went on with the services, and presently made a stop as one of the deacons entered saying, "That is Deacon—, who keeps the grocery opposite."

And thus he announced in turn, the advent of each individual, proceeding the while with his sermon as composedly as the circumstances would admit when at last a stranger came in, when he cried out—

"A little old man in green spectacles, and a drab overcoat—don't know him—you can all turn round and look for yourselves this time."

It is hardly necessary to add that the good man carried his point, and there was but little neck-twisting seen in his congregation after that day.
