A BUSINESS MEETING HELD

THE MARION KIWANIS CLUB TAKES ACTION IN THE MATTER OF ESTABLISHING A HOSPITAL IN TOWN.

The Kiwanis Club of Marion held a good meeting in the dining room of the Royal Oak Presbyterian church last Tuesday night. An invitation had been extended by the Club to the doctors of the county to be the guests of the Club at this meeting for the expressed purpose of getting an opinion in the matter of establishing a Community Hospital at Marion, but with the exception of Dr. Huddle, of Rural Retreat, and Drs. W. S. Dickinson, Carolyn Sherrill and Clara Dickinson, of Marion, none of them responded to the invitation.

Mr. Winfrey, of Richmond, was again present at the meeting, and presented the matter clearly and forcefully as at a previous meeting. Dr. W. S. Dickinson also expressed himself as very much in favor of the project, and it seemed to be the consensus of opinion of the meeting that the idea was a good one and should be developed. On motion of Mr. H. B. Staley, it was decided that the President appoint a committee of three doctors and two laymen to take the matter in charge, and see what could be done to establish the hospital, and how to do it. The Vice-President, Mr. W. L. Lincoln, who was presiding in the absence of the President, appointed the following committee: Dr. C. B. Baughman, Dr. A. B. Graybeal, Dr. Z. V. Sherrill, and Messrs. W. R. D. Moncure and R. T. Greer.

On motion of Dr. R. H. Phipps, the Secretary of the Club was directed to write to the State Highway Commission, and see if there could not be a Traffic Policeman appointed for Smyth County, in an endeavor to regulate and control the speed of automobiles on the Highway, who are now rendering the Highway unsafe for travel of either cars or pedestrians. We cannot too heartily commend this action, for the way that cars are run not only along the highway but through our Town, is a menace to both life and property, and should be put to a stop. We do not see it in other Towns through the Valley—Wytheville, Pulaski, Abingdon—and why should Marion be made an exception?

Delegates and alternates were elected to the meeting of the District Convention that meets at Wilmington, Del. Delegates: H. B. Staley and B. L. Dickinson alternates: C. P. Blackwell and Beattie Gwyn.

The Attendance Prize was awarded to Mr. H. P. Gills, and was presented by Judge J. J. Stuart, who was present for the evening.

Mr. H. B. Staley will have charge of the program for the next meeting.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Sexton Hawkins appeared before the Club soliciting aid for the Marion High School Foot Ball team, but was informed that it was against the rules of the Club to solicit funds from the Club as a whole, but that the individually members could contribute as liberally as they desired. A call was made on the members and some $39 was raised to aid the team in securing their outfit.

While the meeting was a long one it was an interesting one, and we are glad to say got down to "brass tacks," and discussed good business propositions in a business-like way.

Marion Junior College Faculty Recital.

The Marion Junior College Faculty Recital this year will be held on Monday night September 26th, at 8:00 P. M., in the college auditorium. Friends of the college are cordially invited to attend.

A number of new teachers have been secured this year. Miss Mary McClure is the new voice teacher and Miss Louise Bishop will have charge of the expression department. Miss Helga Franzen heads the piano department. All of these teachers come to the college highly recommended and with reputations as artists of the first class as well as excellent teachers.

Marion people do not need an introduction to Miss Margaret Gotjen, violin, and Miss Bessie Sue Bishop, piano. From all indications there will be a large attendance and it is suggested that Marion music lovers come early in order to be assured of accommodations.

OPPORTUNITY NOW PRESENTED A MEDIUM FOR SOMEONE TO TAKE GREAT LEAD THIS WEEK

Winning Votes Can Be Had This Week on 155,000 Offer With Less Votes After Saturday Night 9 P. M.—Members are Working Hard and Raking the Territory In Their Quest for Subscriptions to Apply On Big Offer Ending Then—A Record Week Promised.

During the present week, beginning Monday, September 19th, and ending Saturday night September 24th, at 9 P. M., the greatest remaining EXTRA VOTE OFFER will be in effect, namely 155,000 EXTRA VOTES will be allowed on each and every Club of $24.00 worth of subscriptions turned in.

The members of the "Salesmanship Club" are going after subscriptions this week in a way that will far exceed any of their efforts in the past, and there is a very good reason for this, as the members realize that the votes are gradually going down and after this week they will see another big drop in votes and with other big drops to follow.

This week's EXTRA VOTE OFFER has caused such a struggle for subscriptions, such a turmoil of excitement and such rivalry that one wonders how it will end.

VERY BEST OFFER

This EXTRA VOTE OFFER of 155,000 extra votes on each Club of $24.00 worth of subscriptions turned in, is absolutely, the very biggest offer during the remainder of the campaign. This offer is an important one to the members because another great drop in votes will occur after this week. There will be 30,000 votes less on each Club of $24.00 worth of subscriptions the following week. Club members cannot help but do their very best work this week if they will just stop and figure how much more each dollar is worth to them in votes, than it will be at any time to follow.

Remember the votes are going down, down, down, each week hereafter. Get yours this week by all means.

CAMPAIGN NEARS END

After this week's EXTRA VOTE OFFER ends, just three more weeks remain before the big prizes will be awarded. The prize list consists of two fine automobiles, the Chrysler Sedan value $950.00, and the Chevrolet Coach, value $721.50 and a $300 Victrola and cash prizes and commissions.

The Campaign closes October 15th, and the big day will be here before one realizes it. Each and every member is devoting their best efforts to getting subscriptions while the getting is good.

GET LETTER POST MARKED

So as to give everyone an equal amount of time to devote to getting subscriptions to apply on the big EXTRA VOTE OFFER closing Saturday night it is arranged that all mail enclosing subscriptions were mailed Saturday night. By this arrangement out of town members will have an equal amount of time to apply to getting subscriptions as those who are more conveniently located to the office.

Remember, out of town club members work right up until the last minute, and then mail subscriptions in as they will be accepted to apply upon the EXTRA VOTE OFFER, even though they are not delivered to campaign headquarters. However, it is imperative that the envelope bear a postmark to show it was mailed on Saturday.

9 PEOPLE HURT IN AUTO WRECK

CAR FULL OF ALLEGED DRUNK NEGROES SMASH INTO A TOURIST CAR NEAR ATKINS.

Man, Wife and Children in Hospital in Abingdon Hospital—Negros in Smyth County Jail.

Three persons were seriously injured about a mile above Atkins on Sunday afternoon, when an automobile occupied by five negroes, whom were alleged to have been drunk, plowed into a machine occupied by a party of tourists.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Thomas of Chattanooga, Tenn., who were in the latter machine, received hurts which it was feared might prove fatal. Their son, four, and daughter, six, were less seriously injured. A brother-in-law of Mr. Thomas, whose name could not be learned, escaped without injury. Mr. Thomas, it was said, was the most seriously hurt.

The parents and both children were rushed to the George Ben hospital, at Abingdon, shortly after the crash.

The scene of the accident is seven miles from Marion. The Chattanooga party, riding in a sedan, which was said to have been standing still when the negroes, driving upon the wrong side of the road, collided head-on with the tourist machine.

Harrison Bayles, negro, an occupant of the latter machine, was so badly injured that it was thought he could not live. He was taken to the Saltville hospital. His companions were Howard Brown and Clarence Davis, both of Jonesboro, Tenn., Kue Lacy of Farmville, and Johnny Mann of Mayberry, W. Va. The latter four are being held in jail being charged with drunken driving. All suffered cuts and bruises.

The negroes, officers said, were seen to take bottles from their car after the crash. Investigation revealed that liquor had been poured out of the bottles, it was said.

Both automobiles were badly wrecked by the impact. Mrs. Thomas, with her son, who was upon her lap, was thrown through the windshield. Both were badly cut by glass. The negroes, employed at Mayberry, W. Va., were on their way to Jonesboro.

ABINGDON.—F. H. Thomas of Chattanooga, was in a serious condition at the George Ben hospital here tonight, Sept. 18, as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident near Marion. His wife and infant son were also suffering from severe injuries. A daughter, six, received a number of bruises.

Mrs. Eleanor Rhea Carson.

It was indeed sad on September first, to receive the shocking news of the sudden death of "Miss Eleanor," at her home in Atlanta, Georgia, when in a few days we were looking forward to seeing her and enjoying her sweet companionship again. To know "Miss Eleanor" was to love her and remembering her sweet, tender kindnesses, her unselfishness, her purity and her goodness, enshrined in my memory, I add my little tribute of love and appreciation. Her many deeds of kindness and acts of charity will linger as precious memories in the minds of those who knew her best and to whom she so willingly ministered.

Calm and restful she left this life as she lived it as "Gently as God gave her breath, she breathed it back and this was death," God's finger touched her and she sleeps."

Mrs. Carson came of noble Christian ancestry and like them possessed many noble traits of character. She was born and reared in Marion, the eldest daughter of the late Mr. J. B. Rhea and Mrs. Ellen Sheffey Rhea, her only brother, Prof. J. W. S. Rhea, died in Memphis, Tenn., several years ago, one sister, Mrs. Margaret Rhea Staley, of Marion, Va., her husband Mr. S. W. Carson, and three sons, two little grandchildren, and a wide circle of friends mourn the death of "Miss Eleanor."

Some one has said: "He has achieved success, who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it; who has always looked for the good in others and given the best he has." Such was the life of "Miss Eleanor." Her life was an inspiration, her memory a benediction.

In thinking of her the lines of George Eliot's "Choir Invisible" come to my mind,—thoughts of "those immortal dead who live again in lives made better by their presence."

Music, when soft voices die,
Vibrates in the memory
Odors, when sweet violets sicken,
Live within the sense they quicken;
So thy thoughts, when thou art gone,
Love itself shall dwell upon.

A. R. F. Snider.

A. R. F. Snider, son of William and Mary T. Snider, was born April 23, 1868, and passed to his eternal and happy reward Sept. 10, 1927, at 11:30 A. M. Bro. Snider was sick for several weeks, but was patient and faithful thro' it all, he made a heroic fight for life—just a few days before his death he seemed to be gaining but due to heart trouble, the battle was lost.

He was married to Miss Cora V. Hankla Dec. 21, 1887. To this union four noble and useful daughters were born, Mrs. A. J. Slear, Mrs. D. W. Conner, Misses Lettie and Gay Snider, all of Marion.

He is survived by his wife, four daughters, six grand children, two sisters, Mrs. R. T. Turley, Mrs. W. P. Falke, and five brothers, John H. Wm. H., Geo. W., C. S. and L. M. Snider.

Bro. Snider professed saving faith in Christ, and joined the M. E. church, South, at Mt. Carmel, in his early boyhood, and lived a faithful and loyal member until our Heavenly Father called him from the suffering of this life to the rest and joys of the Home of the Soul. He was a liberal supporter of the church, a true and loving husband, a kind and devoted father and a citizen of high type.

The unusually large and representative congregation at his funeral, the beautiful and elaborate floral tribute all attest the high esteem in which he was held.

The funeral was conducted from

The Public Schools.

All of the schools of Smyth County have opened for the session with the prospects of one of the most successful years in the history of the schools. Professor B. E. Copenhaver, Superintendent of the County Schools has started his series of trips to the various schools and has found them so far in good working order, and the teachers and pupils working in close harmony.

The county is fortunate in having but comparatively few beginning teachers, and this means a great deal for the improvement of the school system.

In addition to the regular session of the county teachers, Doctor Sidney B. Hall, State supervisor of Secondary Education, of Richmond, held a special meeting for the high school teachers and heads of schools for the purpose of introducing a more practical and valuable schedule. It is felt that the suggested plans presented by Doctor Hall will add materially to the efficiency of Secondary Education in the State.

Mt. Carmel church by his Pastor assisted by Rev. F. B. Shelton, and interment was made in the Mt. Carmel cemetery over looking the church he loved so much.

Always Stiff and Achy?

Too Often This Warns of Sluggish Kidney Action.

LAME? Stiff? Achy? Sure your kidneys are working right? Sluggish kidneys allow waste poisons to remain in the blood and are apt to make one languid, tired and achy, with often dull headaches, dizziness and nagging backache. That the kidneys are not acting right is often shown by scanty or burning secretions. If you have reason to believe your kidneys are acting sluggishly, use Doan's Pills. Doan's stimulate the kidneys and thus assist in eliminating waste impurities. Users everywhere endorse Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

Smyth County Fair to Continue Its good work.

The Smyth County Fair was a notable success both educationally and financially. It was this important annual event which brought together thousands of men, women and children from all parts of Southwest Virginia to see the agricultural advancement of this county. It was on this great occasion that the people of our section gathered the best that they had produced and assembled it in the various departments for comparison, the cream of the year's efforts in production.

In the livestock department the barns were again filled with good horses, cattle, sheep and hogs. It was particularly pleasing to note that so many of these good animals were owned within our own county. Two excellent herds of "white face" and one outstanding herd of Shorthorns owned by Smyth County farmers were exhibited and each carried off their share of the ribbons, "blues" predominating.

The Baby Beef show surpassed all expectations. This wonderful exhibit of calves paraded before the grandstand Friday morning then lined up to greet the judges. At one end of each strap appeared either a lad or a lass whose heart was filled with anticipation and hope. At the other end of the self same strap was to be found a handsome, well fitted, highly groomed calf that had become a part of the very life of his young master. This was a great sight to behold with keen competition and a stupendous task for the judge, but finally after going over each calf of the three major beef breeds, each was given his place in the line with a "white face" at the top made grand champion of the show.

The hog show this year was a record breaker in both number and quality. The club members breeding pigs and fat pigs, the fine pure bred county herds and the outstanding ton litters all contributed to making this the best hog show ever held in the county. According to George C. Herring, swine specialist of Blacksburg, this show cannot be surpassed in the state.

Time will not permit me going into details now but I hope to tell you at a later date of some of the accomplishments of the Smyth County Fair. Its educational value and its promotion of agricultural and industrial interests are well appreciated by all good citizens of this section.

The terms are very liberal and this is an opportunity that will not again be offered for a long time.

Jury Could Not Agree.

The attention of the Smyth County Circuit Court was taken up several days of last week and until Wednesday of this week with the hearing of the suit of W. E. Barnes, of Abingdon, against the Norfolk & Western Railway for injuries received at Chilhowie during the winter when his car was struck by one of the fast trains at a crossing in the Town of Chilhowie, and he received dangerous and permanent injuries and a companion killed. The case was very closely contested, the plaintiff being represented by Messrs. Hutton, Hutton & Thompson, of Abingdon, and Geo. F. Cook, of Marion, while the Railway was represented by Messrs Buchanan & Buchanan, of Marion. A large amount of testimony was taken, and the case was very ably argued, but the jury was unable to reach a verdict, though the case was in their hands from Tuesday night until Wednesday, when they were finally discharged by the Judge unable to reach a verdict.

Mildred Edith Hubble.

God has seen cause to take our darling little girl from us. She was born December 25, 1925, departed this life August 25th, 1927, her stay on this earth only 25 short months. She had been an invalid all her life. Mother had worked so hard to care for the little form, but God knew He could take better care so He called her home to be with her sister Virginia, who had been at home with Jesus only two years, one month and 17 days. Mildred leaves to mourn her loss father, mother, three brothers, Curtis, Clarence and Warren. She was taken from her home near Mt. Carmel to Zion, where there were a large concourse of friends and sympathizers to take their last view of the little form. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Ross. Our darling babe is gone but not forgotten; only a sweet flower blooming in heaven. The flower bearers were Mary Barber, Rosa Snavey, Florence and Charlie Bell Schuyler, Mildred and Mary Aker, Elma and Ruth Scott.

Sires at Bargain Prices.

Bargain price sires are generally the most expensive when the value of the offspring is considered.

No doubt every farmer will immediately agree with this statement and then turn around and buy a non-descript to use on his females simply because he can be bought at a low price. In a number of years of experience in promoting livestock improvement, the writer has seen but few stockmen who have not freely admitted the truth of all arguments in favor of better sires and then let it go at that. A man will solemnly agree with every statement that is made and then when he gets ready to buy a herd sire will start out looking for the same old low priced kind that he has been using for years.

Extra cost generally pays well. The hardest thought to get across to the average stockman is the fact that the best sires, the kind that stand for improvement, the kind that return a maximum of profit in both pure bred and grade herds and flocks are not the kind that are sold at bargain prices. Quality, superior individuality and superior worth in a herd sire deserve the recognition of a better price. The breeder who produces them has put more time, more intensive study and more capital into his investment in breeding stock and is entitled to a fair return on his increased effort and his superior product. A few extra dollars invested in a herd sire of the right kind will make itself over and over again in just one breeding season. The sooner stockmen quit looking for cheap sires the better it will be for both the buyer and the seller. Let us start out this fall firmly resolved to get better sire than we have ever owned before and just as firmly resolve to pay the price necessary to get that kind. More pure bred sires are being used in Smyth County now than ever before, but we must not rest until every scrub has vanished from our borders.

Fine Sale at Chilhowie.

F. L. Sanders and Q. A. Eller, as administrators, sold on the 15th of September, the J. S. Aker farm and personal property, located on the Lyons Gap road three miles north of Chilhowie. From the reports that have reached us the sale was a good one and the property brought around $41,000. This was a very valuable piece of property and was well worth the price that it brought. The sale was conducted by the Cumbo Land Co., of Abingdon, who are a live auction company, and always do well with all property that is entrusted to their care.

A meeting of the Smyth County Chapter of the American Red Cross will be held Tuesday afternoon, October 4th, 3 o'clock P. M., in the assembly room of the Marion National Bank, for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year. This meeting is important and the people of Smyth County should show their interest by attending this meeting.

Miss Stella Phipps, of Seven Mile Ford, left Monday for East Radford where she will attend school.

Pineapple to Start the Day

SUCCESS in life depends upon a clear, quick brain and the energy to use it. The ability to think clearly is governed largely by our health, and our health by what we eat. After a heavy breakfast, we are likely to feel stupid all morning, perhaps all day, and if this occurs often we get the reputation of being slow and stupid, and our advancement is equally slow. It pays to consider the menu of the morning meal; to eat those things which give buoyancy and a quick brain.

Of all the energizing foods, pineapple is one of the most effective. A slice or two of pineapple the first thing in the morning, or a dish of crushed pineapple, or a drink of pineapple juice goes "to the spot," and sets one up for the day. There is a scientific reason for this: Pineapple contains mineral salts, an enzyme "bromelin" which acts as a digester of other foods, and also the three most important vitamins in large amounts.

Juice and Fruit Can Be Used

The housewife who wishes to serve pineapple juice in the Hawaiian manner will find on pouring the juice from a large can of sliced pineapple that she has one large measuring cup full. From the number two size can of crushed pineapple she may drain three-quarters of a cup of juice. The juice may be drunk just as it is, from small wine glasses, or it may be diluted with water, and a little lemon or orange juice added.

The sliced or crushed fruit may be used in any way that suits the housewife's whim. Perhaps she will save it for breakfast on the following morning, serving it alone at the beginning of the meal, or heated with a slice of bacon, or mixed in an omelet. Or she may make a jellied dessert with the crushed fruit, or put it into a cake or an icing, or into a fruit cup for dinner; or she may use either the sliced or the crushed fruit in a salad.

An Unusual Recipe

This Pineapple Cream Custard will prove a delightful way to use the drained crushed fruit: Beat the yolks of the three eggs slightly, add one-third cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt, and two cups hot milk. Cook in a double boiler until thickened, stirring constantly, and cool. Beat three egg whites stiff and add three tablespoons powdered sugar. Add three-fourths cup crushed Hawaiian pineapple to the cold custard and fold in one-half of the egg white mixture. Pour into the serving dish and spread the remainder of the whites over the top.

Nurse Advises WEAK, RUN-DOWN WOMEN To Take Cardui

"I have known of Cardui for nearly twenty-five years," says Mrs. Selma Meissner, 1072 Harrison Ave., Beaumont, Texas. "During that time, I have taken it several times and have frequently recommended it to others, for it is a splendid medicine and I am glad to give people the benefit of my experience."

"I have been a nurse for several years and have often come in contact with patients who were run-down and weak. Often I have told sufferers of Cardui, and the way I, myself, had been helped after taking it, and advised them to give it a trial. Many of them have since thanked me for what I told them, so I am willing that other women should know about it, too."

"I first took Cardui because I was awfully run-down. I had no appetite, and was weak and listless. It was hard to keep going under such conditions, and I looked for something which would help me."

"I had read of Cardui and decided to try it. After taking it, I improved so much that I have taken it since whenever I needed a tonic."

Thinking In Billions

EIGHT billion, three hundred million tin cans were made in the United States last year, and a few hundred million more will be made this year. That is some indication of what the American housewife thinks of canned foods. It is due to her predilection for these foods, prepared in thoroughly sanitary fashion, that the canned foods industry has to do its thinking in billions.

Strange to say, these billions of tin cans are only one-sixtieth tin. The rest of them is sheet steel which is merely coated with the tin. But they were called tin cans in the beginning, and tin cans they will remain for all time. Even the word "can" is a misnomer, since it was not originally connected with metal, but with cane or reed out of which baskets were made for holding tea and coffee.
Peter Durand, an Englishman, took out a patent in 1810 for preserved food in "canisters," so called because they resembled tea canisters. Clerks writing out the bills for food shortened the word to "can."

How Tin Cans Are Made

The first tin cans were made by tinsmiths with shears, soldering iron and mandrel. Sixty cans was an amazing number for one man to make in a day. It has taken over a century of inventions to produce the modern sanitary can. By 1876 two men and two boys, with machinery for cutting and shaping the tin, could make more than a thousand cans a day. By 1880 the output had increased to fifteen hundred cans. Today can-making machinery can turn out 300 cans a minute.

To prepare the material for tin cans, steel bars are heated and rolled into thin sheets, thirty-two layers together. The layers are separated and inspected, given two acid baths, and then dipped into cauldrons of molten tin covered with a layer of melted palm oil. The oil makes the tin stick to the steel. After the sheets are cooled and cleaned they are ready to be made into cans. Tin alone would be too soft to make a can. The steel sheet gives the can strength; the coating of tin prevents rusting.

Where Tin Comes From

"Tin supplies are reported diminishing, due largely to increasing demand for tin cans," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society.
Canners are watching for substitutes for tin containers, should a shortage occur that would seriously affect the price of canned products.

Although the United States consumes more than half of the world output of 145,000 tons of tin a year, our only private source of tin is Alaska, with an annual production of about thirteen tons. For centuries, Cornwall, England, was the chief tin producing center of the world. As early as 1040 B. C. the Phoenicians are known to have obtained Cornwall tin for bronze castings. About thirty-five years ago Cornwall forfeited its reputation to the Federated Malay States, which now produce about one-third of the world output of tin. Bolivia and the Dutch East Indies each produce a fifth of the annual output.

Tin, all by itself, is far too expensive a material with which to manufacture tin cans. The price of a pure tin can would be prohibitive for the ordinary uses to which these containers are put.

The Uses of Tin

When one comes to think of it, tin fills innumerable needs in modern life. It is used in making metal beds, refrigerators, kitchen cabinets, kitchen utensils, "silverware," kitchen sinks, water faucets, toys, roofing, carpet sweepers, furnaces, automobiles, machinery of many kinds, nickel platings, signs, tin foil, tin tubes for pastes of various kinds, newspaper type. Solder is nearly half tin, while bearing metal contains about eighty per cent. Bronze is a mixture of tin and copper.

But of all the uses of tin the manufacture of tin plate is the most important. Approximately two million tons of tin plate are made annually in the United States, and most of this is consumed in the making of tin cans for preserving food.

There is scarcely any metal or any industry in which the housewife is more vitally interested than in the tin containers of her canned foods.

"The way was long, the night was cold,
The ballet girl was growing old,
So she bought sardines with her hard-earned pelf
And had a can-can all to herself."

THIS doggerel was written many years ago. Jazz dances have replaced the can-cans, but sardines have retained their popularity, and there are now many new varieties of canned food to comfort the ballet girl.
Strange as it may seem, there is no such thing as a "sardine." Fish known as sardines, are small pilchard minnows abounding in Mediterranean waters and were called sardines because they were first canned on the island of Sardinia. Sprats, mussa, sild fish, all belonging to the herring family, are packed in various countries throughout the world as sardines. It isn't the fish that matters so much as the way in which it is canned. The French canners put oil, truffles, and other dressings with the fish, and pack them very closely into the cans. Most of the canners use olive oil alone.

The California small sardines resemble the Mediterranean species more than any fish of the same type in other parts of the world. Since 1905, however, Southern California canners have been putting up a larger variety combined with tomato sauce in one-pound oval tins, and these have become popular.

The large oval can has several advantages, a very obvious one being that it contains enough fish for a whole family. In college dormitories, too, where sardines have always been popular for impromptu feasts, the new style of can is recommended as being better adapted to the capacity of student appetites—and also to student purses, for, comparatively speaking, the price of the oval can of sardines is in inverse ratio to its size.

So, though their salty, meaty taste is superlatively appetizing, sardines need no longer be relegated to the lesser place for an hors d'oeuvre. Anyone has only to try the two following dishes to discover that sardines as now canned are more than an accessory.

Duchesse Potato with Sardines—Boil potatoes, mash, add milk, salt and pepper, and beat until creamy. Make a large oval mound of them on a platter of oven glass. Sprinkle grated cheese over the potato, and surround it with small pieces of toast on which are laid evenly the contents of a large oval can of sardines halved lengthwise and boned. Put the platter under the broiler just long enough to melt the cheese. Serve with this dish finely shredded cabbage well mixed with mayonnaise dressing, a pinch of salt being added, and on top a generous sprinkling of paprika.

Broiled Sardines on Toast—Remove the contents from a large oval tin of sardines, place them on a broiler and broil them for about three minutes. Butter the toast and then spread it with a very thin coating of mustard. Place the sardines on the toast and serve immediately.

All who value their health should live on light diets during the summer. For these the great refuge is the salad, all kinds of salads. Sardines are a great asset to a salad, as their spicy flavor leads to a larger consumption of leafy foods. The following suggestions are made for using them:

Sardines in Tomato Jelly—Strain
the juice from a large can of tomatoes. Dissolve two tablespoons gelatine in half a cup of boiling water and add this with teaspoon of paprika, half a teaspoon of onion juice, and salt and pepper to taste. Add these to the tomato juice, simmer five minutes in double boiler. Strain through cheese cloth. Pour half the mixture into a ring mold and let it partially set. Then put in sardines that have been skinned and pour in the rest of the mixture. When firm turn out on a platter and fill the hole in the center with mayonnaise and garnish the outer edge with lettuce leaves.

Sardine Salad—Shred half a lettuce, chop three sticks of celery, skin, bone and break into pieces the contents of a large oval tin of sardines.
Combine with mayonnaise dressing and serve on lettuce leaves.

Sardine and Egg Salad—Cut into pieces three hard-boiled eggs and the contents of one large oval tin of sardines. Combine with mayonnaise dressing and serve on lettuce leaves in a circle of sliced cucumber and sliced radishes.

Picnic Sandwiches—Mash large sardines, after skinning and boning them, mix with mayonnaise dressing and chopped cucumber pickle. Spread between rye or graham bread.

Until the very day of his departure for the penitentiary at Atlanta he had what was said to be probably the largest general practice in Southwestern Virginia.

In the federal prison Mr. Summers organized and taught a large Sunday school class of Presbyterians. He also was assigned to duties in the library and assisted in the legal department of the institution.

Tremendous pressure was exerted to keep him from serving his sentence. Petitions laid before President Coolidge and the department of justice contained the signatures of literally hundreds, including officials, state and county, and practically every member of the Virginia assembly.

After his conviction in federal court here he was elected chairman of the Republican organization in Washington county. He resigned this place about a year ago. In 1924 he was the Republican congressional nominee in the ninth Virginia district, but withdrew from the race when the charge was brought against him in federal court here.

Mr. Summers is a graduate of Tulane and the University of Virginia, and was formerly collector of internal revenue in Richmond. For many years he was regarded as C. Bascum Slemph's ablest lieutenant in the "Fighting Ninth." It has often been said that Mr. Summers knows by name more individuals in Southwestern Virginia than any other man.

Miss Dorothy Thomas, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Thomas, left Monday for Danville, Va., where she will enter as a student in the Randolph Macon School for Girls.

Robert Edwin Goolsby left home last week for Charlottesville to enter as a student at the University of Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Lincoln, Jr., left Saturday for a tour through California, where Mr. Lincoln is making a business trip. They will be gone for three or four weeks.

The "Microbe of Love," directed by Miss Rose Greer, and sponsored by the Monday Afternoon Music Club, will be presented to Marion audiences about the middle of October. Watch for the date.

NOW FLY TO ME!

THE above cartoon was published in the Newark, N. J., Evening News before those two thousand miles of ocean which separate us from Hawaii were spanned through the air. This feat somehow gave the feeling that the tropics were just around the corner and that a journey which once took four and a half days might soon seem no more of an adventure than a trip on the Twentieth Century Limited.

The spell of Hawaii has a tenuous fairy-like quality, a charm and beauty that are almost unreal. Memories of its enchantments come crowding into mind—a gorgeous big garden dropped down in the Pacific; a tropical growth with fern trees sixty feet high; a belching volcano; combing breaking over coral reefs, bearing surf-boat riders ashore with the speed of a lightning express; moonlight at Waikiki; luaus or native feasts where one tried to eat one-finger poi and saw a much expurgated hula. And pineapple fields the like of which are seen nowhere else.

Hawaiian pineapple for breakfast, sugar-sweet and luscious. Supper in the crater of Kilauea; cooking coffee and scorching post cards over the steaming crevasses, or sitting on the edge of the pit, a cauldron of seething, boiling lava—waiting for the darkness to intensify the ominous, red glow.

The full, throaty voices of the Hawaiians singing, to the twinkle of the ukelele and the taro-patch; the women in holakus. Departure and regret, with more leis than one could wear and always one dropped in the water to insure a speedy return.

This is Hawaii—paradise of the Pacific—where everything flourishes in tropical splendor, where bananas grow in twenty different varieties; where fields of sugar plantations tint the landscape a brilliant green and mile after mile of orange colored spikey pineapples ripen in the golden sunshine of Hawaii, are picked and canned the very day they reach perfection, with only a pure cane sugar to augment the delicious flavor. There is no spot in the world where this fruit is produced so successfully and in such colossal quantities. One marvels at the fecundity of these small islands, eight very important "dots" on a blue expanse of ocean, which produce and ship to the mainland annually 1,752,776,646 pounds of sugar and 200,000,000 cans of pineapples.

POWER FARMING TO SOLVE PROBLEMS OF AGRICULTURE

Cultivating a two-foot stand of cotton with a Fordson tractor-drawn cultivator.

THE Department of Agriculture of the State College of Pennsylvania, is conducting the most exhaustive experiments ever undertaken to develop new and varied uses for light tractors on American farms.

This development of "power farming" for greater economy in time, labor and general operating costs, is being conducted with the aid of the Department of Agriculture of the Federal Government, through the use of special appropriations from the "Purnell Fund" which the Government has for such purposes.

For several years agricultural experts at the State College of Pennsylvania have seen that farmers the country over are not putting their light tractors to the broadest possible range of use. Too many of the farmers, they have found, confine their tractor work to plowing and harrowing, when they might be employing these same light tractors also for planting and cultivating, spraying and for the harvesting of a wider variety of crops than have heretofore been thought to be suitable for tractor and tractor equipment work.

The use of horse-drawn equipment, with the extra time and labor required to handle it and the cost of feeding horses and mules during the comparatively idle winter season, is becoming almost prohibitive to many American farmers. Light tractors are becoming cheaper and more efficient. Manufacturers of farm equipment are giving more and more attention to the adaptation of farm machinery to tractor power units.

Experiments such as are being conducted on the test farms of the State College of Pennsylvania, are heralded as the beginning of the end for old "Dobbin" on the future progressive American farm.
