Deceived.

BY P. L. B.

S. you are determined to have him, are you? What you can see in him to like is more than I can tell. "Please don't say any more, father; you are angry now." "Angry! Who wouldn't be, to have a girl like you throw herself away on such a miserable little puppy?" "Father! I came from the girl, in a grievous tone. 'I will never marry without your consent—but I love John. "Is my happiness no consideration to you? Are children senseless blocks of flesh, that can be made to love where parents will?" "No, no child. Marry him, if you must—if you feel it essential to your happiness, but remember your father's warning." "God bless you, best and kindest of fathers." Throwing her arms around his neck, Alice kissed him hastily and left the room. "I've been an old fool to consent, but I never could deny the child anything, she is so much like her dear mother. "Had she lived, my girl would not have been so headstrong." Three months have elapsed, and at Mr. Grayson's house guests are assembled. Only a moment of waiting, and the pretty little bride appeared, leaning on her lover's arm. This, her nineteenth birthday, found her as yet a very child. He, too, was young, not over twenty two or twenty three years. But there was already a hard look in the face, a gleam in the coldly handsome blue eye, that argued poorly for the fair one's happiness. Now the broad golden letter had been slipped upon the slender finger. "Man and wife," said the pastor, very solemnly. Only two years have passed, but all the bright, happy, girlish look had died out of Alice Harley's face. "It isn't possible, then, for people to be happy in this world, is it?" she asked herself, drearily. "In what, then, have I failed?" Ah! Little woman, your only faults were in loving foolishly, and choosing hastily, and for them you have already more than atoned. Is it not a terrible thing, this awakening to find our idols clay? It had been a slow process in this loving heart, but none the less there, though even then denied to her own self. Yet she was not utterly desolate, for one little blossom, a bright and lovely babyboy had come to creep into the empty crevices of her heart, and take firm root there. "Father," wrote Alice, some little time after, "you will see us very soon. We are coming home for a little rest." Two weeks later, Mr. Grayson might have been seen pacing eagerly up and down the station. The train came at last. His quick eye caught sight of a slender figure and a sad, thin face, which, changed as they were, could belong to no one but his Alice. Taking the sleeping child from her arms, he conducted her very tenderly to a carriage. Arriving at the house made dreary by her loss, he said—"Go and lie down awhile, my child. You are worn out." It was many weeks before she rose from the couch of pain, for brain fever claimed her for its victim. And it was many more weeks before she could bring herself to disclose even to that loving, true heart the wretched misery that had been her portion. Then, in turn, the father told of the business of this man towards her he had sworn to cherish. For Mr. Grayson had not been idle during all these weeks, but had friends employed to search out the truth for him. You shall never live with him again," said the father. And this time Alice was willing to be guided by him. For more than two years had she tried to reclaim the man, and signally failed. Who could blame her if she gave up the task in despair, and in soul-weariness? The brilliant promise of her life was wrecked and, still young in years, she must live out her allotted days, with an aching hungry heart.

American Fables.

A mouse who had been caught in a trap appealed to the owner of the house to spare his life, adding: "Really it can't make much difference to you whether there is one mouse more or less in this great world." "While this is good Sophistry," replied the man, "it is also a dangerous argument. It is one vice added to another that makes a man a dangerous criminal."

MORAL.

The 'one more' drink has made a hundred thousand drunkards.

THE PARROT AND THE OWL.

A parrot who was walking out for the benefit of his rheumatics encountered an owl and at once asked for his opinion on the eastern question. The owl winked a few times, but made no answer. "Well, what about capital vs. labor?" said the parrot. No answer. "How do you stand on national finances?" No answer. "Hump!" yelled the parrot, "but you are a fraud! The world calls you wise, but I'd like to know where it comes in?" "Wisdom, my friend," said a lame crow who was resting on the fence near by, "may consist in having the sense not to expose your own ignorance."

MORAL.

A heap of blab does not always pan out a very little sense.

He Got the Pass.

A good story is told of a certain prominent railway director, who is equally renowned for his ability to take or make a joke. A railway employe whose home is in the country applied to him for a pass to visit his family. "You are in the employ of the company?" inquired the gentleman alluded to. "Yes." "You receive your pay regularly?" "Yes." "Well, now, suppose you were working for a farmer, instead of the company, would you expect your employer to take out his horses every Saturday night and carry you home?" This seemed a poser, but it wasn't. "No," said the man, promptly; "I would not expect that; but if the farmer had his horses out, and was going my way, I should call him a very mean fellow if he wouldn't let me ride." The employe came out three minutes after with a pass good for twelve months.

A Crooked Stick will have a Crooked Shadow.

When all is consumed, repentance comes too late. Speak what good you can for any one, and let the rest go. Never make your ear the grave of another's good name. The charity which longs to publish itself ceases to be charity. An opinion that is backed by curses, shows a limited range of ideas. Too often we demand more affection than we give, more than we deserve, more than it is possible for us to receive.

It was not his Property.

"Will you be kind enough to take that grip sack off that seat?" said a country-man, who got on a train at Luling, Texas. "No, sir, I do not intend to do anything of the sort," replied the drummer, who was sitting on the other side of the seat. "Do you say that you are going to let that grip sack stay right there?" "Yes sir; I do." "In case you don't remove that grip sack I shall be under the painful necessity of calling the conductor."

"You call in the collector, the engineer, and the brakeman, if you want to. Perhaps you had better stop at the next station and send a special to old Jay Gould himself about it."

"The conductor will put you off the train."

"I don't care if he does. I am not going to take that grip sack from that place where it is."

The indignant passenger went through the train, and soon returned with the conductor. "So you refuse to move that grip sack, do you?" asked the conductor.

"I do."

Great sensation. "Why do you persist in refusing to remove that grip sack?" "Because it is not mine."

"Why did you not say so at once?" "Because nobody asked me."

The Lightning Cash-boy.

A white and tottering old man leaned against the five cent counter in a Christmas-toy store.

A middle-aged man streaked with gray, approached him. "Ah," said the old man, "extending his wrinkled hand, 'it seems to me I have seen your face somewhere before."

"Are you the spruce young man who bought twenty-seven cents' worth of goods here and had three cents change coming to you?"

"I am he who was the spruce young man," replied the old man. "I thought so," said the middle aged man. "Here is your change. I am the cash-boy."

"Ah, I did not expect you back so soon," and the old man hobbled out.

Wit and Wisdom.

I am a king when I rule myself. Idle bread is the most dangerous of all that is eaten.

The first blue bird will soon be chasing the last snowflake. If we still love those we lose, can we altogether lose those we love?

It is difficult to tell how much a fish will weigh by looking at the scales. We have some cases of the pride of learning, but a multitude of the pride of ignorance.

The speaker gives back to his hearers in a rain what he has received from them in a mist. What does it take to make a good husband? Paradoxical as it may seem, a good woman.

In the education of children love is first to be instilled, and out of love obedience is to be educated. Strike from mankind the principle of faith, and men would have no more history than a flock of sheep.

Didn't Want the Boots.

"What are you doing with my boots?" asked a high State official of a colored gentleman. "Is dese here yer boots, boss?" "Of course they are."

"That's mighty enis." "Not curious at all, you scoundrel. You found them in my room when you cleaned up."

"Wall, dat's mighty enis. Yer ken hab the boots, sah, if da's yerself." "I wouldn't have them now."

"Den what yer want make all dis great 'miration about? White folks gettin was ebery day. De blame boots too little for me now?"

All feet tread not in one shoe. A danger foreseen is half avoided. We shall lie all alike in our graves. Say no ill of the year till it be past. Praise undeserved is satire in disguise. Let each one do according to his ability.

He Didn't for Beauty.

"I hear that Swarkins is married again." "Yes, he's hitched again for a fact. 'Have you seen his wife?" "Yes."

"Is she good looking?" "Oh, no, she's a very plain body, but as strong as an ox. You see, he didn't care so much for beauty. What he wanted was a woman who could dig potatoes and make them youngsters of his walk the chalk."

Why He Was Thankful.

Bub—Are you going to be my new papa? Accepted Suitor—Yes, my dear child.

"Have you got your wig yet?" "Wig? Why, no; I don't need a wig. Why do you ask?"

"My other papa always said he was so thankful his hair wasn't fast to him."

Out of Joint.

Young Blabbitt has been making calls at stated intervals for some time. Last Sunday night he called, as usual, and after waiting an hour in the parlor, the girl's little brother came in and in a rather sheepish manner asked to see Blabbitt's nose.

"See my nose?" exclaimed Blabbitt. "What do you want to see my nose for?"

"Well, Plummer Plunkitt was over last night and Maria promised to marry him and ma said she thought you'd find your nose out of joint when you called again."

The Smallest Republic.

The little Republic of San Marino is enclosed in the kingdom of Italy. San Marino owes its foundation to a hermit of that name, born in Dalmatia in the fourth century, and who went to Italy to work as a mason at the building of the Rimina.

Its territory covers about twenty-two square miles. The population numbers 8,201 souls, and the capital, San Marino, has 1,200.

It is perched on the summit of a mountain called Mount Titan, or the Giants, which sometimes leads to this state being termed the Titanic Republic.

The republic has an order of chivalry, created in 1839, under the name of Order of San Marino. The motto is "Libertas."

When Italy became a kingdom Napoleon desired to preserve this small state intact. "It is a rare example of a republic to preserve," said the Emperor.

She Was Convinced.

"Oh, I can't sing," pleaded a young man who femininely wanted to be coaxed before gratifying his auditors.

"Yes, you can. I've heard two or three of your friends say so," persisted a pretty girl to whom he had been talking.

"No, I can't," he repeated, getting up to the piano.

"Yes, you can. Go on now and sing, please," she urged.

He said he could not two or three times more, but he went ahead, and for half an hour his voice was the most prominent thing in the room.

Then he came smiling back to the young lady. "Ah," she said wearily, "thanks, you were quite right about the singing."

His face clouded and he never spoke to the girl again who agreed with him.

A girl has been arrested while disguised as an old woman. The old woman disguised as a girl is still at large.

"I know many distinguished persons," says a facetious business man; "nearly all of debtors are men of note."

An exchange says clergymen would make good brakemen on the our railroads because they have done a good deal of coupling.

An Arkansas editor says that the stingiest man in his town talks through his nose to save the wear and tear on his false teeth.

The Man from Malone.

There was an old man of Malone, Who haches in every bone. A friend pitied his grief And prescribed Harts Relief, To this aching old man of Malone.

The Twins.

"Boss," he whispered, as he leaned over the counter, "de ole woman wants some tea mighty bad, an' I hasn't got any money."

"Can't help that, sir," was the reply. "I'm giving more than I can to without taking on any new applications."

"Zactly, boss—I presume so Boss please give me your full name."

"John Y. Blank." "An' dat of yer pardner?" "His name is William J. Jones. What do you want with our names?"

"Wall, I didn't get de tea, but you used me like a gen'len, an' gwine to name 'em arter you an' your pardner!"

"Oh! you said tea, eh? Why, yes, I'll be happy to put you up half a pound. Green or Japan? Twins, eh? Hope the mother is doing well. Say, if you want them boys to make smart men give 'em smart names. If I were you I'd call 'em Washington and Jefferson."

Proverbs About the Moon.

A new moon with a north wind will hold until the full. If the full moon rises clear, expect fair weather.

When the moon is old, a cloudy morning will be followed by a clear afternoon.

Full moon pale is followed by a rain, full moon red is followed by wind.

The old moon in the new moon's arms is a sign of fair weather.

If the horns of the new moon are sharp, it will be dry. If the horns are turned up it will be dry; if down, wet.

The moon with a halo brings rain. The larger the halo, the sooner the rain will come.

"Plant beans when the moon is light, and you will find that this is right. Plant potatoes when the moon is dark.

To this rule you must always hark."

Absurdities of Human Life.

Not to go to bed when you are sleepy because it is not a certain hour.

To stand in water up to your knees fishing for trout, when you can buy them in a clean, dry market.

People of exquisite sensibility, who cannot bear to see an animal put to death, showing the utmost attention to the variety and abundance of their tables.

The heir of an avaricious uncle paying him the compliments of the deepest mourning.

The lovely widow of a cross old man wearing weeds; and the survivor of a rich old shrew being particular in the choice and display of his weepers.

To buy a horse from a near relation, and believe every word he says in praise of the animal he is desirous to dispose of.

To call a man hospitable who indulges his vanity by displaying his service of plate to his rich neighbors frequently, but was never known to give a dinner to any one really in want of it.

The bones thrown out in cooking or from the table are much too valuable to be wasted. Burned or ground they are excellent feed for poultry, and this is perhaps the best way to make the phosphate they contain available as a fertilizer for crops.

The whey left after making cheese is poor food by itself, but if mixed with wheat middlings or bran its deficiencies are supplied and it is then good for stock hogs. The acidity of the whey causes it to be eaten with greater relish and also makes it more digestible.

While every grape vine must ultimately have a trellis, it is not necessary to make the latter before or at the time the vine is planted. The first year of growth a stake is all that is needed. With the second spring the trellis will begin to come in use, though three to five years will be fully occupied.

The London Times says that Canada evidently has a long and bloody war in prospect before the suppression of the revolt in the Northwest can be accomplished.

A PIEBALD RECORD.

Have you ever paused to think of the course and conduct of the Bourbon-Funder party in Virginia as recorded in the past ten or twelve years? If you have not, do so now, and determine for yourself whether it is a party worthy of respect and confidence.

Since our State was freed from arbitrary rule the Funder faction has that authority and in the interest of the bondholders, passed what is known as the Funding Bill of 1871-72. Immediately after its passage certain persons raised the alarm and an effort was made to repeal the measure, but before it could be done the bondholders had funded a large portion of the debt under the bill, and the tax-receivable coupon began its dauntless work of preying upon and destroying the revenues of the State.

With a face of brass and a conscience blackened and hardened Bourbon Funderism will again try to deceive the people. Can it be done? We think not.

A VINDICATION.

[Valley Virginian.]

It will be remembered that the Legislature last winter had referred to a committee the conduct of the office of the Attorney-General—that they made a report charging that the Attorney-General had charged and collected illegal fees, and appropriated to himself moneys which properly belonged to the Commonwealth. The report was very minute and elaborate, and if it had been based upon facts, would have been damaging to Mr. Blair. Indeed, it would have been the duty of the Legislature, upon exhibits made by the committee, to have arraigned him under articles of impeachment and dismissed him in disgrace from his office. The committee, however, went just far enough to make a campaign document against Mr. Blair and his party, if it had been allowed to stop there. The Attorney-General, however, could not allow it. He felt it due to himself, to the State, and to his office to have exhaustive scrutiny into the matter, and that by the judicial branch of the Government. Hence, as to fees which he claimed had been withheld by the Auditor, under the committee's construction of the law, Mr. Blair determined to test the question whether he had done injustice to the State, or a partisan committee had perpetrated a wrong against him, and it finally reached the Supreme Court. That body on Thursday last rendered its decision, which awards Mr. Blair $833.33—the full amount of the disallowance and all that he claimed. This was not only a vindication of the Attorney-General, but a condemnation of the committee, and fully exposes the partisan motives and unjust conclusions of that body.

Mr. Blair stands completely vindicated from all suspicion of wrong doing, and to the degree that in the case it is a rebuke to the partisans who composed a majority of the committee.

We concur most heartily in what the Virginian says. The Bourbon Legislature not only undertook to prosecute Attorney-General Blair for party purposes; but they also wanted to remove him to make a place for one of their hungry and thirsty crew. Their investigation was a failure and a fizzle. With the Republicans Capt. Blair needed no vindication. They knew that Bourbonism always assailed and persecuted those who did them most injury. But as it is the Attorney-General has been given his salary by the decision of the Court of Appeals, which salary was illegally withheld by the Auditor of the State.

How absurd for those gentleman, who call themselves Readjuster Democrats and act with the Bourbon Democracy to think that they can be anything else than mere hewers of wood and drawers of water for the Bourbon element. We might say "chestnut pullers." When these same Readjusters belonged to the Coalition party they were the recipients of honors and good paying positions. Now since they have given their support to the Bourbon-Funders they get nothing but soft soap, thinly spread.

We have told the people for years that the only debt-payers in Virginia were the Readjusters. At last the people are finding out that we were correct. See how the "honest Democratic debt-payers" now speak out for repudiation. Oh, what hypocrites!

DIDN'T the Democrats promise you good times. They did, but they say the reason good times are not here is that the Republicans brought about the present condition of affairs. Ha! Ha! Ha!

the debt-payers, the best people, the former decriers of Readjustment and repudiation, without any notice, with but one motive—the wish to come into power—endorsed Readjustment. Has any thing ever been known in political history to equal this conduct of the Funder party. Not satisfied with endorsing Readjustment it actually insisted upon taking charge of and completing the dishonest stealing policy of Readjustment.

By its hypocritical endorsement of Readjustment the people were deceived and Funderism once more placed in power. A reckless, partisan Legislature undertook to add to and strengthen the forcible Readjustment measure, the Riddleberger Bill. The work was either stupidly or corruptly done, giving hope and confidence once more to the bondholders. The debt question by Bourbon-Funder legislation was again placed in the courts, and victory once more perched on the banner of the bondholders. Alarmed at the result, the former "honest debt-payers, the best people, the intelligence and refinement of Virginia" denounce the courts and threaten the bondholders with repudiation.

What a piebald, villainous record. With a face of brass and a conscience blackened and hardened Bourbon Funderism will again try to deceive the people. Can it be done? We think not.

THE Bourbons shriek Democracy and Democrat as if there was something good in the names. Will some one tell us what they have done for Virginia that is of material benefit to the State? Will some one tell us what they have done for the Nation that can be called a good thing.

THE Bourbon blight has nearly ruined poor old Virginia. The Democratic blight is inflicting great injury to the Nation. The people should stop these evils.

PLENTY of work for the laboring man, and low taxes for the farmer were promised by the Democrats. Have they given those things.

A Long-Pending Death Sentence.

A Waco (Tex.) special says: In the winter of 1860 Charles Warren, a farmer, shot and killed John Burton in Waco. It was in the stormy period preceding the civil war, and the dispute grew out of an argument respecting the right of a State to secede. Warren took the Southern and Burton the Union side of the argument. Warren was tried in the District Court of this county. The evidence against him must have strong, for, despite his southern proclivities, the jury found him guilty, and fixed the penalty at death. His counsel took an appeal to the Supreme Court of the State, and, pending its consideration, Warren was taken for safe keeping to the Freestone county jail in February, 1861. Warren had a young daughter Rebecca. Soon after her removal to the Fairfield jail Rebecca went to Fairfield. Without revealing her name or relationship to Warren, she sought the jailer, pleading poverty and friendlessness and obtained employment in his family as a domestic. She afterwards stole the keys of the jail from the jailer's pocket one night and released her father. Warren enlisted in a Texas regiment and served the four years of the war as a Confederate soldier. When the strife ended he went to western Texas and settled down to farming. His wife died and he married again. The Supreme Court, when news was received of his escape from jail, dismissed the appeal and the case had passed out of mind here. Of the jury that convicted Warren probably all are dead. The Judge, however, the Hon. N. W. Battle, is still living here, and so are two of the State's witnesses who testified against Warren.

By some means Van Hall, the head of Hall's detective agency here, heard that Warren was living in Lampass county, Hall procured the requisite papers, went to Lampass yesterday, and arrested Warren. He was brought to Waco to-day and placed in jail. He is now sixty-four years old, gray and decrepit. The old man broke down and wept when the jail door closed on him. He says he is poor and hardly knows what to do. The case has excited much interest, and many persons have visited Warren in jail. Lawyers say that unless the Governor intervenes the district judge here will be compelled to order the sheriff to carry out the sentence pronounced against Warren twenty-four years ago. Leading citizens will appeal to the Governor to either pardon Warren or commute the sentence. The daughter who released her father a quarter of a century ago is still living in this county, a staid matron with grown children.

The marines who went to Panama have returned to New York.

Emma Nevada sailed from New York for Liverpool Saturday.

A. J. Dana, one of the proprietors of the Astor House, New York, died suddenly Saturday.

The Bartholdi statue, "Liberty Enlightening the World," will arrive in New York to-day from France.

Half of the business part of Sandy Creek, New York, was burned Saturday. One man was fatally injured.

A prisoner escaped from the State prison at Boston Saturday morning by grappling the telegraph wires above the prison, and, hand over hand, got half a block away, when he was shot and fell to the ground. He was badly hurt.

Riel's capture has been confirmed. His wife and children were not with him. He said he intended to surrender himself. He will be safely conducted to Gen. Middleton's quarters. He will be turned over to the civil authorities.

Childrens, Boys and Mens suits in all colors. Prices never so low before, can be had at Weiler's.

Railroad Strikers Imprisoned.

A Denver (Col.) special says: Several Denver and Rio Grande railroad strikers charged with contempt of court in intimidating and interfering with other employes of the road, it (the road) being in the hands of the United States court, were tried before the United States Circuit Court. Judge Brewer held that a request to quit work, even if couched in peaceful and polite language, if backed by a formidable crowd of excited and armed men, constitutes a threat. No acts of violence have been charged against the strikers. All were found guilty and sentenced to imprisonment for terms ranging from four months down. A large number of strikers have returned to work, and new men are taking the places of those still out. The strike is practically at an end. It has proved a complete failure.

Gen. Lord Wolseley yesterday reviewed the Australian contingent serving under Gen. Graham and made a speech to the troops, praising them in extravagant terms for their valor and devotion. Foreign Powers, he said, seeing them would think twice before venturing to quarrel with England.

From St. Petersburg comes news that the Russian Government has decided upon Russifying the provinces along the Baltic. To accomplish this the Czar has issued an ukase that hereafter the Russian language shall be taught in the schools in the provinces and shall entirely replace the German language in the schools wherein heretofore it has been taught.

ITEMS GATHERED FROM THE TOWN AND COUNTY.

Briefs and Personal.

An election of town officers and council will take place on next Thursday.

A large crowd was in town on Monday, but very little money was seen.

If you want a nice suit of clothes from 44.50 (which cannot be beat) and upwards go to J. B. Rhea's.

A number of misdemeanor cases were disposed of at the present term of the county court.

The grand jury at the present term of the county court made about twenty indictments.

John Iron-Boat, is a candidate for Justice of the Peace and wants all his friends to vote for him.

A beautiful line of children's and Ladies' Slippers and shoes and Gents Boots and Shoes (latest styles) can be found and very cheap at J. B. Rhea's.

County Supervisors, Magistrates, Constables and Overseers of the Poor will be elected next week. The people should elect good men to fill these offices.

A number of citizens in town and a great many in the county are painting up and improving their houses. Paints are now cheap, and it is a good time to do such work.

My Stock is Complete and Nice and I am Determined not to be Undersold by any one in anything, and every one is Respectfully Invited to Examine my Goods and Prices. My terms are Strictly Cash. J. B. Rhea. Apl. 15-85.

We hear that some one has started the report that some of the teachers who attended the Normal School at Wytheville last summer failed to pay their board bills. We are authorized to say this rumor is false.

We are offering great inducements now in the price of goods. We quote Zephyr at 5c. a lap; Hosiery and Gloves at greatly reduced prices and Ladies and Misses Hats at cost. G. F. CRUSH & Co.

The Mechanics String and Brass Band will give a concert at Seaver Opera House some night next week. An excellent programme has been arranged and a good entertainment will be given.

J. B. Rhea is now opening a very large and attractive stock of Spring goods, embracing full lines of white Gowns, Lawns, Parasols, Clothing, Dry Goods, Hats and Shoes, Wool, Fur and Straw Hats, Hardware, Notions, Groceries &c. Go and see his goods. His prices will astonish you?

The Republicans of Wythe county will meet at their several voting places on Saturday, at the 30th, 1885, at 12 M. and appoint delegates to a Convention to be held at the Court House on the 8th day of June 1885, for the purpose of selecting delegates to the State Convention to meet in Richmond, Va., on the 15th of July next. D. H. PORTELL, Chairman.

For Sale. 40 Horse Power Steam Boiler and Engine in good order. On reasonable terms. Apply to A. G. PENDLETON.

To the Voters of Marion. We are authorized to announce that R. F. Nickels is a candidate for Mayor of the town of Marion. Election Thursday May the 28th.

I announce myself a candidate for Mayor of the town of election to take place in May. Will be very grateful to my fellow-citizens for their support. RICHARD JOHNSON.

Photographs! Photographs! I have opened my photograph gallery for the season, and am prepared to take pictures in the best style. My gallery is at the same place, opposite the post-office. Come and see me. Respectfully J. L. THORNTON.

New Goods at Proper Prices. I have just returned from the eastern cities where I had in a first-class stock of goods, paying cash for them, which I propose to sell at prices as low as they can be bought. I will not undertake to undersell others, but will do as well as the best. The stock consists of everything to be found in a first-class General Merchandise Store. I will sell strictly for cash or good produce, which will enable me to do better by those who wish to buy right. I am at the former stand of Crush & Co., and have Mr. Will Francis with me. He will be glad to see and wait on his friends. S. C. PAINTER.

500 pair of pants must be sold at Weiler's.

The Trouble Safety Over.

Stomach trouble is serious business while it lasts: but what a blessed relief to have it depart! Mrs. F. G. Wells, of 19 Atlantic street, Hartford, Conn., writes that she tried Brown's Iron Bitters for stomach trouble and that she experienced such relief that the trouble is now entirely over. She recommends this great iron medicine to all who are afflicted. It cures liver and kidney complaint.

Death of H. P. Louthen, Esq.

We did not know of the death of H. P. Louthen, Esq., until Monday. He died at his home, at Long Hollow, in this county, on the 5th inst. His death was sudden. He was a good, kind hearted man, with few enemies and respected by all who knew him. He was about seventy years old. Peace to his ashes.

Death of Levi Mathenia.

Mr. Levi Mathenia died at his home in Marion Monday morning last. He had been in ill health for a number of years and had been a great sufferer. He was a good man, and highly respected by all who knew him. The deceased was sixty years old at the time of his death. The remains of the deceased were buried at the Roundhill Cemetery on Tues day.

The Normal Institute.

Hon. R. R. Farr, Supt. of Public Instruction, has fixed upon the 21st of July for the opening of the Normal Institute at this place. Prof. G. A. Walton and lady will be the instructors. They are celebrated teachers, and rank among the very best of the country afford. We have no doubt a large number of teachers will attend, and that the Institute will be most successful in every particular.

No Hard Times For Painter.

In these times when everybody is complaining of a scarcity of money and slim trade there seems to be one man in town whose business is not seriously affected. Painter, at his new store, has an excellent trade. Last Monday his store was crowded with customers, and he is busy nearly every day in the week. He has to make constant accessions to his stock, and has fresh goods coming in all the time. He buys for cash and gives his customers the benefit of his cash purchases. This accounts for the rush at his store.

Rolla Ryan

Gave an entertainment at Seaver Opera House on Monday night to the largest audience that has ever assembled there to witness any theatrical performance. For two hours the audience was highly entertained by Rolla, Prof. Ryan and Mr. Ward. In character delineations Rolla Ryan is unsurpassed. He is the most remarkable and successful artist in his line on the American stage. His "Grip Scott," "Cow Boy" and other characters are his own creations, drawn from nature. They can't be beat.

Major Jas. G. Field, Culpeper, Va., says last spring he used Powell's Potato Producer on his crop with entire satisfactory results, and made some of the finest potatoes that were ever seen in this section of the State. Some of them weighed two pounds. Nothing can beat this special preparation for potatoes. Address Brown Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

A Doctor's Advice.

"Oh, doctors, what shall I do? I feel relief yet from my fearful cough." "Use Symphyx, of course, madam. No other remedy can possibly cure your cough as quickly. For the pain in your breast, use some of Dr. Hart's Great Relief. A dose of Dr. Hart's Blood and Liver Pills will cure your liver trouble. But, first of all, don't neglect your cough, but use Symphyx, the Great Cough Cure, at once. One dose will relieve you."

Rheumatic.

I suffered with rheumatism for many months, at times unable to walk or get about on my crutches. I took eight bottles of Swift's Specific, and have been entirely relieved. P. T. BARTNUM, Macon, Ga.

From the Mountains.

For many years I have been troubled with a rheumatic affection. My right leg was covered with sores from the hip to the ankle—some of them large and painful, running a great deal. I tried everything I could think of or friends could suggest. The physicians did what they could, but brought no permanent relief. My case was well known in this community, as well as the fearful sufferings I endured. Last fall, at the suggestion of a friend, I began the use of Swift's Specific. It produced a change so apparent that it astonished everybody, as one ulcer after another disappeared, and none were more astonished than myself. Six bottles produced an entire cure. My restoration is due entirely to the use of this medicine. It is the best blood purifier in the world, and will come nearer doing what is claimed for it than any medicine I have ever tried. J. M. WATKINS, Jasper, Ga. Swift's Specific is entirely vegetable. Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga.

Capt. B. F. Bradley, Riverport, Md., says in the year 1884 he used Powell's Prepared Chemicals on corn, and think it is the best and cheapest fertilizer on the market. The price of Powell's Prepared Chemicals is only $6.00 per lb.—a sufficient quantity to make one half ton complete fertilizer. Address Brown Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

Communicated. ST. CLAIRS BOTTOM, SMYTH CO. VA. May 15th 1885.

Mr. Editor:—Allow me a space in your columns. If you think this worthy of publication. The time has fully arrived when the people and farmers of the county of Smyth should come to the rescue of our old mother State. If there ever has been a time that the people should stand in one solid flank against Bourbon-Landerism, that time has certainly come. We don't pretend to be any expert politician, but we did predict prior to the election, if the Bourbons got into power again, hard times would follow; and surely they have come to the sorrow of many. Even the Bourbons are complaining of hard times. Mr. Editor you are well aware that when the wicked rule, the people mourn, but when the righteous rule, the people rejoice. Taking for example, the Bourbons must be the wicked, from the fact the people are mourning.

What we need is this, let the voters come their respective voting precincts untrammelled, (I don't believe in vigor) "if you don't vote with me you shall hunt you another cabin." If such could be the case our party would regain control of our State Government. Old St. Clair's precinct is all right so far as I know. She always rolls up a majority, and I think she will do that thing again. Those that left us have got their satisfaction of Bourbon rule, and I am of the opinion they will come back and assist us in giving a larger majority than she has ever given before. Let us contrast the times under the parties. When the Readjusters ruled we never heard any complaint about hard times. But I tell you the Bourbons now join us in crying out hard time. I reckon some of them at last think a change is necessary. I for one, an humble clod hopper, have come to the conclusion that a change would be good for the masses of the people. I think the Bourbons have got the books tangled, and they ought to be straightened out by some good Readjuster. CLOD HOPPER.

The Cigar Blew Him off His Chair. A Nyack (N.Y.) special says: Dr. J. O. Polhemus, one of the best-known practicing physicians of this county, while on his way to his home on upper Broadway, about 6 o'clock last night, stopped as was his custom, at the drug store of P. Moeller and purchased some of his best cigars, manufactured by Spencer Forsby, at Spring Valley. At dinner he bit one of the cigars, and after leisurely smoking for a few minutes, he was startled by a loud explosion, which knocked him from his easy-chair. He was blinded and severely burned about the face and head. Fragments of the cigar were found scattered about the room, and an empty shell of a 22 calibre pistol-cartridge was picked up. An experienced oculist has charge of the injured man. It is feared that he may lose his sight. It is not thought that the cigar was known to have contained the cartridge when sold, and Mr. Moeller says that the box from which the cigar was taken was received by him from the manufacturer but a few days ago. Mr. Forsby is one of the most extensive cigar manufacturers in the country and cannot account for the cartridge being in the cigar.

Capture of Riel.

The Evening Dispatch special from Guardedepuy's Crossing via Clark's Crossing May 15th, says: Many recalcitrants are giving up their arms and the rebellion is entirely ended, though one teamster was fired upon three miles from camp this morning. William Diehl, Thomas Howrie, and J. H. Armstrong, three daring scouts, captured Riel at noon. He was on the road three miles north of Battoche, in company with three young men, all of whom were armed. He appeared unconcerned. Diehl said to him: "I am surprised to see you here." Riel replied: "I was coming to give myself up."

He said his wife and family were across the river. While he was talking with his captors Major Boulton's scouts were seen coming up, and Riel, becoming fearful that he would be shot, begged his captors to take him into camp themselves.

Accordingly Diehl went off for his horse, but when a little distance away Boulton's scouts got close and Howrie and Armstrong took Riel on one of their horses, and taking an unfrequented road, brought Riel in to camp. This afternoon General Middleton gave order that the men should be kept in their tents, when Riel came in, as he was afraid some personal enemy would shoot him, many have sworn to shoot him at sight.

Riel was brought in that afternoon. No demonstration. He walked quickly to the General's tent. He knew nothing of Dumont. He wishes a fair trial. He asked Armstrong if he would get a civil or military or military trial. He wanted, he said, a civil trial. He was afraid of the scouts, but passing through them his captors brought him safely to camp. He said that his wife and family were with half-breed women near by. Riel appears careworn and haggard. He has let his hair grow long and is dressed in poorer fashion than most of the half breed captured. He evidently was the most frightened man in the camp, and is in constant fear of violence at the hands of the soldiers. There is no danger of any such violence.
