A COSTLY BLESSING.

A trial is only necessary to convince the most skeptical that Baker's Premium Bitters is the most efficacious remedy known for dyspepsia, liver complaint, dysentery, nervous headache, loss of appetite, and all other diseases arising from a disordered condition of the stomach and bowels.

Hundreds of remedies—"dure all," and the like have flourished by the aid of flaming advertisements, setting forth supernatural cures since the introduction of Baker's Premium Bitters, but having little or no merit, have passed away, while Baker's Bitters are yearly increasing in their sales. A positive proof of their superiority—unapproachable as a tonic—we commend them, fully assured that they will gain the good opinion of all who try them.

Reverends J. C. McCabe, E. A. Dickinson, R. Ford, I. Eggs, D. B. Winfree, H. Ayers, P. Anderson, F. J. Boggs, C. W. Petherbridge, and hundreds of others have testified to the efficacy of Baker's Premium Bitters. Sold by PENDLETON BROS., Druggists, Marion, Va., and druggists everywhere. E. BAKER, Proprietor, Richmond, Va. July-11

A NEW STORE JUST OPENED AT THE DEPOT, Marion, Va.

I would respectfully announce to the citizens of MARION and surrounding country that my store is being filled with a CHOICE SELECTION OF FRESH GOODS, which I purchased in the city of New York. My stock consists of a FINE LINE in Dry Goods, BOOTS AND SHOES, HATS, NOTIONS, HARDWARE, DRUGS, QUEENSWARE, TINWARE, CLOTHING and GROCERIES.

Very particular care has been observed in the purchase of these Goods in reference both to quality and price, and I am warranted in saying that the BEST GOODS can be purchased for the LEAST AMOUNT of money, than from any other similar house in Southwestern Virginia.

Any one trading with me may rest assured that it shall always be my pleasure and delight to give entire satisfaction in every transaction.

Every kind of merchantable produce will be bought, in exchange for Goods, at the very highest market price.

I have Goods for the rich and the poor, the white and the colored, and cordially invite all to come and see me, where you can get GOOD BARGAINS. Respectfully, J. B. RHEA. ap4-6m

POETRY.

ONLY. It was only a woman's cry— It was only a woman's moan— Only a woman's heart that broke; Lethal alone.

It was only an idle tale— What if it does her wrong? Numbers alone are strong; She is but one. You need not fear; The shadows will follow her many a year, Let her alone.

It was only a woman's tears; Meet them with smiles and frown! It is nothing to you if she stand or fall; Let her go down! It is nothing to you if it be a lie That tarnished her spotless fame— Nothing to you if she droop or die 'Neath the weight of the cruel shame. 'Twas only a woman; 'tis nothing to you, Besides she is friendless—it would not do! Let her go down.

A MEMORABLE JOURNEY.

What I am about to relate occurred more than thirty years ago, and as my pen is seldom used except in a business way, I must ask the indulgence of my readers if I prove somewhat garrulous.

I left college at the age of twenty-one, and for next three years was closely confined to my father's counting-house. He had amassed a fortune, and being now in years, wished to retire from active business as soon as I should have acquired sufficient knowledge of mercantile affairs to take entire charge. Too close application at last induced indisposition to that extent that change and relaxation was deemed advisable. Though late in the season, I resolved to carry out a long cherished plan; that of making a hunting tour through the famous—and then not as well known—North Woods. It was with a feeling of freedom and excitement I at length set out on my journey. At Ogdensburg I met an old classmate going with a party of hunters into the forest, and a cordial invitation to accompany them was readily accepted.

I found them genial, whole-souled fellows, whose numerous adventures and narrow escapes formed the subject of many an hours entertainment, as we sat around our camp fires, the star-gemmed skies our canopy. I remained with them two weeks, gaining new strength each day. A trifling matter of business at that place decided me to start at once for Montreal. I was told by my companions at starting that miles further north was a wretched Canadian inn, where I could procure shelter, and from which place I could take the Montreal coach next day. Following the tracks as directed, toward dusk I came into a more open country, where, although there were several beaten ways, there was no sign of habitation, so that I was at a loss which way to go. At this juncture I observed a queer looking figure approaching from the opposite direction. Concluding, on close inspection, that the figure was a man, I accosted it, without, however, receiving any intelligible reply, his language being that corruption of the French which is the common dialect of the lower class of Canadians. By signs I made known to him that I desired a place for food and shelter. He pointed out a cluster of trees a mile beyond, indicating by nods and contortions that I would there find that of which I was in search.

I reached the spot, finding it as miserable as described; but making necessity a virtue, accepted its accommodations until the next day, when I proceeded on my journey.

After a short stay at Montreal, I found it necessary to go to Quebec. On entering this fortified town, I was struck with its antiquated and foreign aspect; especially coming from a city where its buildings were so bright and new. It did not seem to me like a British town, but some far off continental one in the hands of English troops.

I at once made myself and business known to a firm with whom we were in correspondence, and was cordially received by the senior member. With true Scottish hospitality he urged me to make his house my home during my stay; and when I declined, insisted on procuring quarters for me with a widow who lodged some of his friends, saying I would be disappointed in the hotels, as they were greatly inferior to those of the State. This arrangement proved fortunate, for at Mrs. McCloud's I formed the acquaintance of a young man who was going to a settlement beyond, whither I could accompany him, and from that point proceeding fifty miles further west, reach a fur trading station I desired to visit. As we were about starting, an officer from the garrison came to bid his friend good-by, and advised me, in leaving him, to take a guide, as the remainder of my journey was through a rough country, which he though not a coward, would not care to travel alone. His advice was not regarded, however, when I found, on reaching the settlement, that it was difficult to procure the services of any one.

I purchased a strong well built horse, and in addition to being well armed, provided myself with a few trinkets in case of falling in with the Indians, and determined to push on by myself.

It was a cloudy, bleak November morning when I set off, after receiving minute instructions as to the course I should pursue. I jogged on without incident until late in the afternoon, when gradually I became aware of a sound other than the wind which had borne me constant company. Was it the echo of my horse's hoof? No it was the tramp of another animal, which soon became so distinct, that I knew my solitary ride was soon to be interrupted. For some time the horseman kept far behind me, until prompted by curiosity to see what my fellow-traveller was like, I slackened my pace and allowed him to overtake me. He was also well mounted. His age seemed about thirty five; his figure thick set and above medium size; his hair sandy, and curling closely to his head; his complexion was fine, despite sun and wind; his nose well formed, and his mouth handsome. Altogether his face was attractive, combining intelligence with kindness.

As he came up I bade him good evening. Here turned the salutation, remarking on the chilly air—for I was wrapping my plaid about me—observing that although I wore the dress of a sportsman, he thought I was not a professional one of those parts.

"You are right," I replied; "but I hoped to find some amusement while pursuing my way to the nearest trade station. Can you tell me if I am in the right direction—how many miles it is from here?"

"I think we are on the direct course, but I am not quite sure as to the distance, as it is a number of years since I have been in this part of the country."

As we rode on side by side, and in subsequent events I found him to be a man of general information, acquired in actual contact with the world. Although he had not graduated at "the schools," his conversation was far more beneficial and entertaining than many a Greek and Latin scholar whose knowledge is confined to the abstruse sciences. A dark and stormy night was gathering around, and we were numb with cold. While deliberating whether it would not be best to light a fire and remain where we were for the night, a far-off light caught my eye. Could there be a dwelling in this wilderness? At any rate we would approach the light and ascertain. We shortly discovered among the trees a low, rambling building, barn like and forbidding in its appearance. After some time we succeeded in finding the door, at which I knocked loudly for admittance. An old woman answered the summons, holding a dim rush light that did not improve her repulsive appearance. It would be difficult to describe the color of her eyes, unless their evil expressions gave them a greenish hue. Her face might have been good in youth, but was now wrinkled and hideous. I told her our situation, offering to pay her well for a night's lodging. She mumbled something in reply, and motioned us to follow her. Groping along a narrow passage, we were admitted to what seemed a family room or kitchen. At the hearth, on which some damp logs were smouldering, sat an old man, who looked up on our entrance, and then addressed us in a foreign tongue.

My companion turned to the old woman who let us in and asked for food. "That's well enough," she answered in a harsh voice. "I'll take care of you. Suppose you want something to eat, though what I can give you will hardly please such fine gentlemen."

"We shall be thankful for food however plain," I said.

She left the room returning with dried venison, coarse bread, butter, two glasses filled with what she called cordial. I satisfied my appetite, tasted the drink, but not liking it, left it standing. I did not see my companion drink his, though his glass was empty when he left the table. He seated himself on a bundle of skins near the fire, while I endeavored to interest myself in a late paper, though unsuccessfully, for I soon began to nod. The man who had been caring for our horses now came in, and making a sign to the woman, she asked me if I would like to go to bed, I said yes, and that my friend seemed dozing comfortably where he was. She made no reply, but started for the door. On leaving the room I glanced back toward the fire, over which the old man was bending, his back toward my companion, who as I looked, suddenly aroused himself closed his eyelid with his finger, shook his head as if warning me against sleep, then drew his finger rapidly across his throat. Confused and startled by this mysterious intimation, with a bewildered feeling I followed my conductress up a flight of rickety stairs, into a small attic room, where a cot was prepared for my use. The woman set the light upon a stool, which served as a table, and left without a word.

Alone with my thoughts I began to question the actions of my companion. Even supposing this couple intended violence, were as many as they, well armed and capable of strong resistance. Certainly there was nothing around me to awaken suspicion. Neither antiquated wardrobe, nor mouldering tapestry, nor curtained bed, afforded a hiding place to the midnight assassin; on the contrary, my room was close the roof, containing the cot and stool before mentioned, an old sea chest and a bundle of bedding in one corner, a pair of antlers and some trophies of the chase.

Then again, I thought he might have good reasons for those signs. Perhaps he understood their gibberish. At any rate, there was some mystery which I could not solve. I threw myself down without undressing, having a knife and pistol beside me in case of attack. I tried to keep awake, but the pattering storm against the roof lulled me into a doze, from which I was aroused by the tapping on the window beside my bed. I listened breathlessly, and found the noise was occasioned by small stones, thrown against the glass from the outside. I peered cautiously out, and recognized the figure and voice of my companion, who begged me, in God's name, to escape, saying we were in a den of cut-throats, at the same time placing a strong sapling against the window. I quickly descended. He grasped my hand and we moved on in silence. Behind an old outhouse we found a horse, which my friend said we must both mount and get away into the highway with all possible speed.

I hesitated to do this, saying my own horse must be near; but he said "no, the old villain has taken yours and gone to summon comrades near by. I'll tell you how I know all this as we hasten on."

I mounted behind him and we were soon on the road, when my friend continued:

"I have always had a remarkable faculty for remembering faces, and as soon as I saw the old man's face, remembered having seen him in a criminal court under conviction for horse stealing. I gathered from the broken conversation between him and the old woman, that this was a general rendezvous for characters like themselves, and some of them may be expected at any time; and there were many significant surmises regarding ourselves and business. I once served for a short time on the detective police, and was on the alert for making observations. After you went to bed, I was shown to a room on the ground floor, containing one small window, barred from the outside. The light was withdrawn, and the door fastened upon me. I lighted a small taper, with which I am usually provided, and proceeded to examine the premises. The room was separated from adjoining one by a thin board partition, in which was a small dog, fastened on the other side with a wooden latch.

There might be means of exit there! I took my knife and cut the latch, through the slit between the boards, and stepped into a closet, from which came forth a dead-like odor. It apparently contained nothing but a pile of skins and a window casement covered with leather. I was extinguishing my light to make my escape when a foot, protruding from the hides caught my eyes removing the uppermost, a sight met my gaze which froze me with horror. The body of a man stretched out before me, which had evidently been dead for two or three days. His clinched hands, battered head and blood-smear'd clothing, gave evidence of a fearful struggle. For a moment I stood unable to move, the next, tearing the leather from the case—'Twas I was in the open air.

I heard you ascend the stairs, and knew from the sound of your footsteps, the direction you had taken, and determined to save you if possible.

I was carefully stealing along when sounds of an altercation reached my ear, and I overheard the old hag urging the man to go for assistance, saying that she would not undertake another job like the last, without help; and "perhaps you will get no better pickings, either."

"Do you think me kind, and that I have lived so long for nothing," said she angrily. "I tell you the chit up stairs is no hunter or trader, but one of the gentry. Did you look at his hands? He is strong though, you saw that, and will fight like a devil. The other took his dose and will make easy work."

The man remained, unwilling to go—as some of the gang might come at any time, he muttered.

Then followed a volley of oaths from the woman's lips upon his cowardness and tardiness, until, he at last yielded, and saying something about taking a horse and going to Maryal's hut, where he would surely find some of them, sluffed toward the door. I remained closely hid till he had started, and the rest you know.

During this recital he often stopped to listen while we made what progress we could over the rough and uneven ground. We could not have gone more than three miles when we heard the barking of a dog.

"My God! they are after us! If we only had our rifles!" exclaimed my companion, "but we must make up our mind to sell our lives dearly with what we have."

We could now distinctly hear the shouts of our murderous pursuers, and in our haste and confusion, to our great consternation, found we had taken a new course that terminated in a dense thicket. It was too late to retrace our steps, so we decided to leave the horse to his fate and rely on the forest for safety. They seemed to have lost our track for a short time, but were soon on it again, and surely gaining upon us. Shortly after there was a rustling among the limbs, and a ferocious creature bounded out, making a spring at the one nearest him. My friend had barely time to articulate. "Your knife," when its blade was plunged into the animal's heart.

Breathlessly and with increasing speed, we pursued our flight. We had been for some time following a ridge of rocks, when turning an abrupt corner we came upon a camp-fire.

Lying before it was the athletic figure of an Indian, who started hurriedly to his feet. My companion told him of our danger, and begged for protection.

The Indian listened gravely, shook his head and answered: "White man may not speak truth: he loves not red skin."

He then gave a peculiar call, and several warriors approached from the thicket. They surrounded us, consulting together in their own tongue, but my friend's face grew pale as they proceeded, and turning to me he explained that one of their number had been killed by the whites, and they would retaliate on us. "We may as well make up our mind to die," said he, and I could almost feel the scalping knife, and see the kindling faggots, when an Indian entered the circle and walking toward my companion, said: "Is the white man's name Locksley?"

"Yes."

"You no remember me? White man friend to poor Indian twelve months ago. Know this?" Showing a large, ornamented knife.

Locksley smiled, stretched out his hand to the Indian, who warmly grasped it, and turning to his brethren, addressed them in earnest, and what appeared to me, eloquent language.

Locksley afterwards explained to me that he had met this fellow at a trading station. He came into the store for tobacco, and gave the clerk—a contemptible rascal, a piece of money, double its value. He waited some time and then asked for his change. The clerk said:

"That is all right, the price of tobacco has raised," winking slyly at me, who had just purchased the same quantity.

The Indian looked quite dejected, saying he wanted to get a knife, and this was all he had; he then asked if he would not trust him for it till he came again.

"We don't trust red skins," answered the clerk.

I am quick tempered, and at this my blood rose. I stepped up to the scamp, and, thrusting my fist under his nose, said:

"Give him his change, this minute, you villian, or I'll pound you to a jelly."

He trembled, like the coward he was, and laid down the money. I then told the Indian to select a knife and I would see that he was not cheated.

He took one, paid for it, looked steadily at me for a moment, and went away. I had quite forgotten the circumstance until it was just now recalled.

The hostile manner of the Indians soon disappeared; they invited us to the fire, and prepared for our defence. A bloodhound was the only one of our pursuers who appeared, and he was instantly despatched by one of their number, at the same time uttering a terrible war-hoop. As it echoed and re-echoed through the woods, I could imagine the terror of the early-settlers, as with blanched face he listed to the death note.

Next morning we left the encampment guided by several Indians, and at nightfall we had reached a station with which we were familiar, and where, after loading them with presents, we bade our guides farewell.

From this place my friend and I returned to Montreal, where we made a deposition of what we had undergone. Locksley took me to his home and introduced me to his wife and children. His helpmeet was a sensible, kind-hearted woman. I soon learned their circumstances. He was collector and agent for a couple of Montreal firms, at a salary of seven hundred dollars. I asked him if he would like to come to the States if he could do better. He said he would gladly do so if sure of employment; but he did not think it best to leave a certainty for an uncertainty. I told him he was right in this.

On parting, I pressed on him the acceptance of my watch, as a slight memento of my esteem.

The following spring, when my father left the business, I wrote my friend, offering him the situation of travelling agent for the house, at one thousand dollars per year. He gratefully accepted the proposal. I found his integrity and knowledge so necessary to me that I soon doubled his salary.

He has been my partner for the last ten years, and I have reason to be thankful for the perilous adventure which brought me so true a friend.

All Right.

How many of us but use the expression a dozen times a week, and have it sticking in the throat, at least half of them? It is coming to be a hypocritical appendage of business and social intercourse.

A sponger goes behind the counter, cuts off a dime's worth of tobacco or cheese, with an excuse that he wants a "sample," and the grocery man says, "that's all right."

A customer returns a pair of shoes to the dry goods man soiled and injured after half a day's wear, grunting, "they are too small," and the merchant says, "that's all right."

A church member puts his name down for $25 to pay the preacher, and when called on, gives only $10, with the remark, that "times are too hard," and the parson says, "that's all right."

A loafer makes a regular practice of coming into a printing office, and begging a copy of the paper, stating that "the just wants to read it," the editor is short, and the editor groans with ghastly politeness, "that's all right."

An extravagant debtor tells a patient creditor every time he meets him that he intends to pay the account "tomorrow, certain," and the poor man turns off with "that's all right."

And so it goes. It is all wrong, and we say it's all right, and by our want of spirit and independence encourage laziness, imposition, stinginess, and every other sin under the sun.

Use of LEMONS.—It is well known that lemons, sprinkled with loaf sugar, completely allay feverish thirst, and are therefore invaluable in a sick room. Invalids with feverishness, can safely consume two or three lemons in a day. A lemon thus taken at "teatime" is an entire substitute for the ordinary supper of summer, and would give many a man a comfortable night's sleep, and an appetite for breakfast, to which they are strangers, who will have their cup of tea, or supper of "relish" and "oake," and berries and cream.

"How many are there over ye's down there?" shouted an Irish overseer to some men in a coal pit. "Five," was the answer. "Well, then, the half ov ye's come up here."

The marriage service, in the opinion of a Western paper, should be changed to read, "Who dares take this woman?" And the groom shall answer, "I dare." For shame!

A Connecticut editor says: "Our early peace came up in two days after they were planted this year. Anybody's will, if the hens are allowed to run in the garden."

The difference between a country and a city greenhorn is, that one would like to know everything, and other thinks he can tell him.

A Western paper, alluding to the statue to Shakespeare in the Central Park, says, "That's right: such talent as William's ought to be encouraged."

Three thousand yards of lace, smuggled in milk-cans, on the steamer Russia, were seized Tuesday in New York.

Why is a laundress like an insult? Because she gets upon your collar.

To what age does a dog arrive?—Sausage.

The greatest curiosity in the world—A woman's.

A Call for County Conventions.

The time having been fixed for holding a District Convention for the 22nd of August, which Convention is to nominate a candidate to represent the 9th District in the next U. S. Congress, and whereas it becomes my duty, as

County Superintendent, to call a convention in each township in this county for the purpose of appointing delegates to the District convention, which is to be held in Abingdon on the 4th Thursday in August,—I therefore call upon the Conservatives of Rich Valley township to hold a Convention at Broad

Ford on the 17th of August, at 2 o'clock,

p. m., and elect two delegates to represent them in the District Convention

at Abingdon. I call upon the Conservatives of Rye Valley township to assemble on the same day and hour at

"Williams's Precinct" and elect two delegates to said district convention.

The convention for Marion township will be held in Marion on the 19th of August, (being Court day,) and elect

two delegates.

I would respectfully request that the township and precinct superintendents

see that this notice is made general.

N. C. ST. JOHN,

Ch'n. Co. Cons. Com.

The Congressional campaign is waxing warm. We do not remember ever to have seen such a number of gentlemen willing to serve their country as at present. In this district we have already out Messrs. Walker, Terry,

French, Cecil, McMillan, Dunn, Richardson, and McDowdy, and numerous others have expressed their willingness to go if nominated. Somebody, we feel, will be disappointed about the time the Convention meets.

THERE was a grand Greeley and Brown ratification meeting at the

Montgomery White Sulphur Springs

last Thursday. Gov. G. C. Walker,

Hon. John Goode, Jr., Prof. Bledsoe,

Attorney-General Taylor, and Judge

F. R. Farrar made speeches. The utmost enthusiasm prevailed and the speakers were cheered vociferously by the large crowd present.

THE news from North Carolina is most encouraging. Senators Tipton and Doolittle, Governors Walker and Vance, and a host of others have been doing valiant service for the Conservative cause. The State will beyond doubt go Conservative by a large maajority. The election is on the first day of August.

An attempt was made last week to assassinate Amadeus, King of Spain;

which proved unsuccessful. One of the assassins was killed and two others captured. The Spaniards do not want any but a Spaniard to rule over them.

Gov. F. McMullin is out as a candidate for Congress. His circular, to which we invite the attention of our readers, is published elsewhere in this paper.

The Connecticut legislature has taken up the question of compulsory education. It is said that 16,000 children in that State between the age of Social Equality—Theory vs. Practice.

A Washington letter says:

The advocates of social equality at the last session of the district Legislature digested a bill which, it was supposed would compel the employes at hotels, restaurants, &c., to become for a while the servants of such colored guests as should choose to employ them.

Heretofore many white men refused to serve negroes in this capacity, and others demanded very high rates for such service. To prevent the latter method of avoiding the fine which the local courts have always assessed upon

white men who declined to serve colored guests, the law of the local Legislature, which went into effect yesterday, requires that prices of articles used in restaurants shall be posted in a conspicuous place therein. The bill, however, seems to be ineffectual for the purpose, and unless the judges come to the aid of the law with some judicial legislation, it seems that it is not likely to be effectual for the purpose intended by it. The placards in many of the restaurants show "Brandy $5 a drink, whiskey $2," &c., with liberal deductions to regular patrons. It understood that discounts are allowed white persons in such manner as to place prices at their former figures."

Some time since, when it was announced that the story that jute braids and "switches" were infested with insects was merely an invention of the enemy, the women took heart and built higher and stronger. But now a distinguished chemist, who has been investigating the matter, says that although it is true that there are no

parasites in jute, still it is sure to destroy the human scalp if allowed to remain long in contact with it. He says that in the preparation of jute, corrosive sublimates, a most deadly mortal poison, and nicotine, the essential principal of tobacco, are used, and that the jute, becoming brittle like splun-

glass, breaks into small particles,

which enter the pores of the scalp,

and, introducing the poison, cause first

a slight irritation, and afterward serious ulceration. Similar though less marked effects follow the wearing of other substitutes for the natural covering the head, so that evil results follow in any case. These facts are not stated in the expectation that they will make the least difference in the sale or use of the article, but simply that we may be able to say to the multitude of bald-headed women ten years hence "we told you so!"

"THE MEN WHO HOPE TO CARRY

NORTH CAROLINA."—The Chicago Tribune has the following: "One of the men who hope to carry North Carolina for Grant is General L. G. Estes, a carpet-bagger, ex-collector of internal revenue

for the Third District in that State.

He was a defaulter to the amount of $34,000. Some authorities put the sum at $61,000. Another of the men who hope to carry North Carolina for Grant is General J. C. Abbott, the

New Hampshire carpet-bagger, who tried to get a seat in the United States

Senate, and ignominiously failed. He was one of the sureties of Estes, and is said to have secretly compromised

the whole defalcation with Secretary

Boatwail by paying only $15,000.

From the report of the fraud investigating committee of the North Carolina

Legislature, it appears that these two generals, Estes and Abbott, had a $50,

000 share in the stealing of another giant general, Littlefield. It is needless to say that all these heroes

are in favor of suppressing the rebellion for another four years.

GOVERNOR VANCE'S LAST.—When

Governor Vance spoke at Newbern the Radicals, true to their low instincts,

concocted a plan by which the speaker was to be mortified and disturbed, but somehow, as will be seen, it rather miscarried. The boomerang hit the one that threw it. While Vance was speaking a certain animal with long ears was led as near the stand as the crowd would allow; and presently he began to send forth some alarming

Angry Without Cause.

One morning an enraged farmer came into Mr. M's store with very angry looks. He left his team in the street, and had a good stick in his hand.

"Mr. M.," said the angry farmer, "I bought a paper of nutmegs here in your store, and when I got home they were more than half English walnuts,

and that's the young villain that I bought them of," pointing to John.

"John," said Mr. M., "did you sell this man walnuts for nutmegs?"

"No sir," was the answer.

"You lie, you little villain!" said

the farmer, still more enraged at his assurance.

"Now look here," said John, "if you had taken the trouble to weigh your nutmegs, you would have found that I put in the walnuts gratis."

"Oh you gave them to me, did you?"

"Yes, sir. I threw in a handful for the children to crack," said John laughing at the same time.

"Well, now, if that ain't a young

scamp!" said the farmer, his features

relaxing into a grin.

Much hard talk and bad blood

would be saved if people would stop to weigh before they blame others.

"Think twice before you speak one,"

is an excellent motto.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Political advice at hand to-day states that Senator Schurz is about to open the campaign in St. Louis, and will follow in the line of senator Sumner in exposing and commenting on Grant's record.

He proposes to prove that in the Franco-German war Grant took the side of France, and is therefore, en-itled to no German support in this country. He will further charge that the President entered into a compact with some of his friends to sell arms to France. It is telegraphed that Senator Fenton addressed a large audience

in Albany to-night, which was presided over by ex-Senator Harris, a prominent Republican who has joined the liberal movement. Mr. Fenton, among other things, warmly assailed

the financial policy of the Administration.

The debts of the Southern States have been nearly quadrupled under the maladministration and plunderings of the carpetbaggers, who have been sustained and upheld by the present

National Administration. Before these

States came under carpetbag control

the entire debt of the ten States was $76,415,300. Now it has reached

$291,626,015, an increase of $215,210,-

715. Here we have an increase of over two hundred millions in the debt of those States. Such are the blessings of the State Governments which Grant has been forcing upon the South and sustaining by both the civil and military power of the Administration.

STABBED.—An altercation took place in Black Lick Township, a few days ago, between two men by the name of Hardin in which knives were freely used. One of the men was pretty severely stabbed in the region of the heart. Dr. J. D. Stuart dressed

the wound, and it is thought the wounded man, though pretty badly cut, will recover. The parties are cousins, said to have been intoxicated at the time,

quarrelled about some trifling matter,

and the fight that ensued came near ending, as such things often do, in

A CAMPAIGN PAPER CHEAP.

In order to place the HERALD in the reach of everyone during the coming campaign, we have determined to reduce our price of subscription, and will send the paper to any address until after the election in November for the low price of SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS, cash.

Anyone sending a club of ten or more will be entitled to a free copy.

NOTICE.—All nominations and announcements for office, and all communications of a personal character published in the HERALD will be charged as advertisements, and charged for at our regular advertising rates.

LEGAL BLANKS of all kinds neatly printed at very reasonable prices, at the MARION HERALD OFFICE.

We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Mr. J. B. Rhea, which will be found elsewhere in this paper. He is just receiving and opening a large and well-assorted stock of summer and fall goods, which he offers for sale at prices to suit the times. Give him a call.

See the advertisement of Washington University Medical School, in another column of this paper.

See the legal notices published elsewhere in this paper.

LIBERTY HIGH SCHOOL.—The 8th session of this excellent school will commence on the 9th of September, 1872. Prof. Miller, the Principal of the school, has no superior as an instructor. The school is pleasantly located, in one of the very best neighborhoods in Southwestern Virginia. See advertisement in another column of this paper.

GREELY CLUB.—We have been requested by several of our citizens to give notice that there will be a meeting at the court-house next Saturday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, for the purpose of organizing a Greely club. All the Greely men in town and vicinity are requested to be present.

SABBATH SCHOOL PICNIC.—The Methodist Sabbath School, of this place, will have a picnic next Friday, starting from the church at 8 o'clock. We are requested by the Superintendent to say that conveyances will be provided for the little people, and for the provisions.

SENTENCED TO THE PENITENTIARY.—Jordan Peters tried in the county court of this county last week for horse-stealing, was found guilty and sentenced to the penitentiary for three years. A petition for his pardon was circulated immediately after sentence had been pronounced upon him, and was signed by the jury before which he was convicted, the Judge and several of the members of the bar.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Mrs. Mary Killinger, wife of John C. Killinger, Esq., of this county, was found dead in her bed last Thursday morning. She had been suffering from heart disease for some time past, but the evening previous to her death she retired as well as usual. She was the daughter of Daniel Hoofnagle, Esq., of this place, and was a most estimable lady.

SHOOTING AFFRAY.—We learn that a difficulty occurred at Liberty on Tuesday between two citizens named Merrimon and Reed, in which pistols were used by both. Merrimon was wounded twice, seriously, but it is supposed not fatally. Reed was arrested, and admitted to bail to await the result of Merrimon's wounds. We did not learn the cause of the difficulty.

The wheat harvest is over. The crop is the finest that has been harvested for several years.

MURDER MOST FOUL.—On Monday night last, Mr. John Richardson, a respectably connected citizen of Wythe county, whilst under the influence of whiskey entered the public parlor of the Wytheville Hotel, exposing his person in a very indecent manner. There were several ladies in the parlor, and a Mr. McGroin, a visitor from New Orleans, attempted to eject him, whereupon Richardson drew a knife and stabbed Mr. McGroin in the region of the heart, inflicting a probably fatal wound. The affair was a cowardly and unprovoked attempt at murder, and much indignation is felt against Richardson, who was immediately arrested and committed to jail.

LATER.—Mr. McGroin was still alive yesterday (Wednesday) morning, and slight hopes are entertained of his recovery.

The Bristol News states that it has the authority of the papers of Marion for stating that "the smallpox now exists in Marion, and that from one case the number has swelled to six." Will the News be kind enough to say to its readers that it has the authority of the papers of Marion for the statement that no case of smallpox has been in Marion for two weeks; that there have been but five cases in all, and that all recovered? We will also state for the information of the News that the town was not put in quarantine at all, and the disease was confined to the house in which it originated.

The lectures of Prof. Davis at Pleasant Hill last Saturday were well attended, and were listened to very attentively. The receipts from the lectures amounted to about $50, which will be used to repair Fulton's Chapel.

The new church at Mt. Carmel is rapidly approaching completion. It will be dedicated about the first of September. It is a very neat and handsome structure, and reflects credit upon the community.

Visitors from the South continue to arrive in town. Several have arrived during the present week, and will remain during the summer.

A FRENCH ACT.—One of the most brutal acts that we have heard of in this country for a long time, says the Wytheville Enterprise, occurred in the neighborhood of Mt. Airy on Sunday last. Our informant states that a man of Heldridge, booming enraged at his little son, about four years old, aimed a blow at him with an axe. The mother of the child warded off the blow, and in the attempt to save the life of her child had her hand nearly cut off. We suppose the unnatural husband and father must have been under the influence of bad whiskey.

The Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia which commenced its session in Wytheville on the 10th June last, adjourned Thursday, having been in session 38 days. Commencing with a docket of 58 cases, it heard 34 of that number, leaving 24 cases still on the docket. The court will reassemble at Staunton on the 10th of August.

There are two or three people in Marion whose greatest delight it is to attend to other people's business. It is not necessary for us to draw their portraits, as they are well known.

TO KEEP ICE.—Maken double pocket of strong woolen cloth, no matter how coarse and faded it is. Having a space of two inches or so between the inner and outer pocket, and pack this space as full as possible with feathers. You have no need to use goose feathers; hens' feathers are just as good. With a pocket thus constructed, and kept tied at the mouth, a few pounds of ice may be kept a week.

NEW TRIAL.—Thomas White, colored who was convicted at the last term of our county court of burglary and sentenced to the penitentiary for five years, has been granted a new trial by Judge Jones.

MAGAZINES.—We have received the following magazines during the present week:

Godey's Lady's Book for August. L. A. Godey publisher, Philadelphia, Pa. Subscription $3 per annum.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY for August. Scribner & Co., 624 Broadway, New York. Subscription $5 per annum.

THE ALDINE for August. Jas. L. Sutton & Co., 23 Liberty st., New York. Subscription $5 per annum.

THE American Exchange and Review for August. Review Publishing Company, Philadelphia. Subscription $3 per annum.

The Republicans of this district held a convention at Abingdon last week, and nominated Col. Robert W. Hughes as the Candidate of that party for Congress. He will have the fun of running, anyway, even if he doesn't stand the ghost of a chance to be elected.

Married.

On the 7th of July, 1872, in Rich Valley, by Elder H. A. Maiden, Mr. Wm. N. RAY, to Miss M. A. GROOM, all of Smyth county.

On the 19th inst., at the residence of Mr. William Rainey, Elder James F. Maiden, Mr. ROBERT H. RALPH, to Mrs. SALLIE COLE, daughter of Mr. James Frey, all of Smyth county.

On the 19th inst., in Bristol, Tenn., by Rev. Grinsfield Taylor, Mr. GEORGE W. HUBBLE, to Miss MARY C. ANDERSON, all of Smyth county.

Special Notices.

MIDSUMMER MALADIES.—The hot solar rays that ripen the harvests generate many distressing diseases. If the liver be at all predisposed to irregularities, this is the season in which bilious attacks may be expected. A weak stomach, too, is weakest in the summer months, and the loss of vitality through the pores by excessive perspiration is so great, that a wholesome tonic, combining also the properties of a diffusive stimulant and gentle exhilarant, is in many cases necessary to health, and under no circumstances should be dispensed with by the sickly and debilitated. Of all the preparations intended thus to refresh, sustain, and fortify the human frame, there is none that will compare with Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters. They have been weighed in the balance of experience and not found wanting; have been recommended from the first as a great medicinal specific; not as a beverage, and in spite of interested opposition from innumerable quacks, stand, after a twenty years' trial, at the head of all proprietary medicines intended for the prevention and cure of all ordinary complaints of the stomach, the liver, the bowels, and the nerves. In the unhealthy districts bordering the great rivers of California, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters may be classed as the standard one for every species of intermittent or remittent fever. The people who inhabit those districts, place the most implicit confidence in the preparation—a confidence that is increased every year by the results of its operation.

As bitters, so called, of the most pernicious character, are springing up like fungi on every side, the public is hereby forewarned against the druggist's frauds. Ask for Hostetter's Bitters, see that the label, etc., are correct, and remember that the genuine article is never sold at half, but in bottles only. July 4-4w

Plain Questions for Invalids.—Have the routine medicines of the profession done you no good? Are you discouraged and miserable? If so, test the properties of the new Vegetable Specific, Dr. Walker's California VINEGAR BITTERS, already famous as the finest invigorant, corrector and alterative that has ever been sent to the light. Dyspepsia and persons of bilious habit should keep it within reach, if they value health and ease.

What Every Horseman Wants.—A good, cheap, and reliable Liment. Such an article is Dr. Tobias' Venetian Horse Liment. Pint bottles, one dollar. For lameness, cuts, galls, colic, sprains, &c., warranted better than any other. Sold by the druggists. Depot, 10, Park Place, New York. July 4-4w BURGETT'S COCAINE.—A compound of cocoa-nut oil, &c., for the Hair, has established a world-wide reputation. Its natural fragrance, agreeable to the eye, and freedom from all injurious or salting properties, together with its cheapness in respect to durability and size of bottle, render it unequalled by any other preparation in the world. For sale by all druggists.

Magic of the Mouth.—Odoniferous Sazonol renders the mouth enchanting. Composed of rare, antiseptic herbs, it imparts whiteness to the teeth, a delicious, flowery aroma to the breath, and preserves infants from youth to age the teeth.

PRATT'S ASTRAL OIL.—More accidents occur from unsafe oils, than from steam-boilers and railroads combined. Over 200,000 families continue to burn Pratt's Astral Oil, and no accidents directly or indirectly have occurred from burning, storing or handling it. Oil House of Chas. Pratt, established 1870, New York.

A BEAUTIFUL, white, soft, smooth and clear skin is produced by using G. W. Laird's "Bloom of Youth." It removes tan, freckles, sunburns, and all other discolorations from the skin, leaving the complexion bright and beautiful. Sold at all druggists. This preparation is entirely free from any material detrimental to health.

JUST THE REMEDY NEEDED.—Thanks to Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, we have for years been relieved from sleepless nights of painful watching with poor, suffering, teething children.

FOR DYSPEPSIA.—Indigestion, depression of spirits and general debility in their various forms, also, as a preventive against fever and ague, and other intermittent fevers, The Ferro-Phosphoric and Elixir of Calisaya, made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all druggists, is the best tonic, and as a tonic for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal.

RISLEY'S GENUINE GOLDEN BELL COLOGNE WATER according to the original formula of Frevost, Paris, so long and favorably known to the customers of Haviland, Harrah and Risley and their branches, for its fine permanent fragrance is now made by H. W. Risley and the trade supplied by his successors, Morgan & Risley, wholesale druggists, New York.

THRUSTON'S IVORY PEARL TOOTH POWDER.—The best article known for cleansing and preserving the teeth and gums. Sold by all druggists. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. F. C. Wells & Co., New York.

CARBOLIC SALVE unequalled as a healing compound. Physicians recommend it as the most wonderful remedy ever known. Price 25 cents. John F. Henry, sole proprietor, 8 College Place, New York.

CHRISTIANSON'S HAYD EYE.—This magnificent compound is beyond controversy, the safest and most reliable dye in existence; never failing to impart to the hair uniformity of color, nourishment and elasticity. Factory 68 Maiden Lane, New York.

SWAPNIA is opium purified of its sickening and poisonous qualities. It is a perfect anodyne not producing headache or constipation of bowels, as is the case with other preparations of opium. John Farr, Chemist, New York. July 4-1m SCROFULA.—Is the dread disease which annually sweeps its thousands to the grave. It makes its appearance in many forms: in Consumption, Glandular Swelling, Rheumatism, Cutaneous diseases, many of the affections with which females are troubled &c. Perhaps no one is wholly free from its taint, the only way it can be successfully treated is through the medium of the circulation. It is a blood disease; Dr. Tatt's Sarsaparilla and Queen's Delight possesses the qualities to expel it from the system and restore perfect health. Being free from violent minerals, it may be taken with safety by old and young. The most delicate female may take it at any time.

If your child has worms, or a bad breath, or sallow complexion, or restless at night, or no appetite, or general bad health, give it Dr. Tatt's Liver Pills, it will soon be restored.

Dr. Tatt's Hair Dye imparts Life to the Hair. July 25-1w.

ON EVERYBODY'S TONGUE.—Eulogiums of the great National Regenerator of Health, PLANTATION BITTERS, are on everybody's tongue. This gratuitous in vivo advertising is better than all the paid-for puffing to which the owners of bogus bitters are obliged to resort. It has a spontaneous heartiness about it which carries conviction to the mind of the auditor. But it is a well-known fact that the proprietors of the PLANTATION BITTERS have never relied upon newspaper bolstering to establish the success of a preparation which owes its astonishing popularity mainly to the oral testimony of the thousands who have either experienced or been the eye-witness of the immense physical good it has wrought throughout the length and breadth of the land.

DON'T HAWK, HAWK, SPIR, SPIR, BLOW BLOW, and disgust everybody with your Catarrh and its offensive odor, when Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will speedily destroy all odor, arrest the discharge and cure you. July 25-1w.

The patient soon feels as if he had taken a new lease of life, and is overjoyed to find the depressed feeling dissipated, the costly habits corrected, and new streams of health coursing through his veins, by using Simmons' Liver Regulator. 1w

TIME AND ENLIGHTENED EXPERIENCE Have shown that certain substances formerly used and relied on in medical practice, are unnecessary and dangerous: yet some of these substances have found their way into medical compounds. DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS, however, contain nothing injurious, being composed exclusively of vegetable substances from California. For all disorders of the liver, kidneys, bladder, skin, and digestive organs, and for purifying the blood, they are the most wonderful remedy known. July 4-4w

Virginia: In the clerk's office of the circuit court of Lee county, on Saturday, the 20th day of July, 1872.— Henry C. Slomp, Plaintiff against G. W. H. Haburn, et al., debt's IN CHANCERY.

The object of this suit is to set up and establish a certain deed in the bill mentioned, alleged to be lost, executed by G. W. H. Haburn and John C. Olinger to the plaintiff, conveying to him in fee simple all the land lying in said county which descended to the defendant Haburn from his father, Benjamin F. Haburn, and to confirm in the grantee, and those who claim through him, the entire right of the said Haburn and Olinger to said land. And it appearing from an affidavit filed in the cause that the defendant G. W. H. Haburn, is a non-resident of the Commonwealth, he is therefore ordered to appear here within one month after due publication of this order, and do what is necessary to protect his interest in this suit. A copy, text: JAS. W. ORR, Clk. July 25-4w

The symptoms of liver complaint are uneasiness and pain in the side. Sometimes the pain is in the shoulder, and is mistaken for rheumatism. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness. The bowels in general costive, sometimes alternating with lax. The head is troubled with pain, and dull, heavy sensation, considerable loss of memory, accompanied with painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. Great prostration of strength, and general debility, and low spirits.— Sometimes many of the above symptoms attend the disease, and at other times very few of them; but the liver is generally the organ most involved. Cure the liver with Dr. SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR, a preparation of roots and herbs, warranted to be strictly vegetable, and can do no injury to any one. It has been used by hundreds, and known for the efficacy and harmless preparations ever offered to the suffering. If taken regularly and persistently, it is sure to cure dyspepsia, headache, jaundice, costiveness, sick headache, chronic diarrhoea, affections of the bladder, camp dysentery, affections of the kidneys, fever, nervousness, chills, diseases of the skin, impurity of the blood, melancholy, or depression of spirits, heartburn, colic, or pains in the bowels, pain in the head, fever and ague, dropsy, boils, pain in the back, &c. Prepared only by J. R. ZEIGLER, Druggist, Macon, Ga. Price, $1; by mail, $1.25.

The following highly respectable persons can fully attest to the virtues of this valuable medicine, and to whom we most respectfully refer: Gen. W. S. Holt, President S. W. R. Company; Rev. J. R. Foster, Perry, Ga.; Col. R. K. Sparks, Albany, Ga.; G. M. Morrison, Esq., Sheriff, Macon, Ga.; J. A. Butts, Bainbridge, Ga.; Dykes & Sparhawk, editors "Floridian," Tallahassee; Rev. J. W. Virginia: In the clerk's office of the county court of Lee county, June 25th 1872. Martin Sims, Plaintiff, against Benjamin D. Martin, et al., Debt's IN CHANCERY.

The objects of this suit are to join the defendants from selling, or otherwise disposing of their interests in the lands and tenements mentioned in the bill, and to amend the bill mentioned, until the further order of the court, and to obtain against the defendants a decree for reimbursing to the plaintiff certain sums of money in said bill and amended bill mentioned, paid out and advanced by him for their benefit. And it appearing from an affidavit filed in the cause, that the defendants, Benjamin D. Martin, A. R. Dixon, and Emily Dickenson his wife, G. M. France and Elizabeth France his wife, and the unknown heirs of Letitia Childs dec'd, are non-residents of this Commonwealth, they are therefore ordered to appear here within one month after due publication of this order, and do what is necessary to protect their interest in this suit. Commissioner's Sale of REAL ESTATE.

Pursuant to the terms and authority of the decrees entered in Sept. 1871 and April 1872, by the circuit court of Smyth county, in the cause entitled Peter Killinger vs T. Atkins' representatives and others, the undersigned, who was appointed a commissioner for the purpose, will, on the 15th day of July, 1872, at the front door of Smyth courthouse, in Marion, proceed to sell several tracts of land at public auction to the highest bidder: First, a parcel of 52 acres, more or less, being the residue of a tract of 352 acres after deducting 100 acres sold and decreed to G. W. Aker, and 200 acres decreed by A. G. Pendleton, trustee, to H. L. Snavely, said land being now in possession of T. J. Richardson and Seydora Atkins. Second, a tract of 20 acres of land formerly decreed to Thompson Atkins by T. J. Davis, said land now in possession of Gannaway Atkins and joining the land of George Muser's heirs. Third, 20 acres of land (undivided), being the residue of the 200 acre tract decreed by Pendleton, to H. L. Snavely, after the 180 acres bought by H. L. Snavely from J. H. Davis, trustee, shall have been laid off and located as the portion of H. L. Snavely is legally entitled. This 20 acre tract will be sold as much of the said 200 acre tract partitioned. Fourth, a small mill and about 2 acres of land, near or joining this T. J. Davis land heretofore owned by T. Atkins, dec'd. Fifth, about 10 acres of land, lying on the north side of Holston river, opposite to the said mill and two acre tract of land. The last two pieces of land and the mill being now in the possession of Adam Snavely and Rufus Williams.

TERMS.—Cash in hand sufficient to pay costs and suit and expenses of sale, and for the residue a credit of one, two and three years will be given, the purchaser giving bonds with approved security, bearing interest from date of sale for the deferred payments and a lien will be retained on said land for the purchase money. For particulars and information inquire of the undersigned.

Farm and Household.

Curing Hay.

With their carefully prepared roots and herbs many of our mothers or grandmothers could as well alleviate the ills of humanity as can many of the college-bred M. D.'s; but note with what care that roots and herbs were gathered and prepared. That they might retain all their virtues, they were invariably cured in the shade. Now we, as farmers, may learn from this a lesson of wisdom and practical utility, as applied to the hay field. Cure in the shade versus make hay while the sun shines. Now the question arises which of these two antagonistic principles or maxims shall we follow? Certainly, after due reflection, all will admit that hay made in the shade is superior to that cured in the sun, whereas the former method requires more labor than the latter. In answer to the above interrogations, both the price of hay and the price of labor must be taken into consideration; therefore, in general, we reply that if labor is plenty and hay commanding large prices, cure in the shade; but if labor is high and hay low figures, cure in the sun. There are also other matters to be taken into account.

Thus a large crop of clover should invariably be cut, and partially wilted, gathered up in haystacks of suitable size and allowed to sweat a day or two; then open the same, and after an hour's exposure to the sun it will be in a most excellent condition to store away for winter's use. Therefore cure clover in the shade or cook, not simply because the sweating process is so highly beneficial to this particular grass, but because, if the crop be large, it will require, to cure it sufficiently, at least one or two days' exposure to the sun, and as a matter of necessity, exposing it to the night dew, and possibly to an unexpected rain storm. Now, as a hot sun is particularly injurious to clover, and moisture, as dew or rain, far more so, therefore clover, at least, should be treated in the manner above described, or cured in the shade. Avoid the very common and injurious practice of over-curing the hay. If the grass is matured when cut, and does not get wet, it will be sufficiently dried or cured in from two to four hours in favorable weather; clover, early cut and lodged grasses being, of course, exceptions.—Journal of the Farm.

Maxims for the Farmer.

- 1. Only good farming pays. He who sows or plants without a reasonable assurance of good crops annually, had better earn wages of some capable neighbor than work for so poor a paymaster as he is certain to prove himself.
2. The good farmer is proved by the steady appreciation of his crops. Any one may reap an ample harvest from a fertile virgin soil; the good farmer alone grows good crops at first, and better and better ever afterwards.
3. It is far easier to maintain the productive capacity of a farm than to restore it. To exhaust its fecundity and then attempt its restoration by buying costly commercial fertilizers is wasteful and irrational.
4. The good farmer sells mainly such products as are least exhaustive. Necessity may constrain him for the first year or two to sell grain, or even hay; but he will soon send of his surplus mainly in the form of cotton, wool, or meat, or butter and cheese, or something else that returns to the soil nearly everything that is taken from it. A bank account daily drawn upon while nothing is deposited to its credit, must soon respond "No funds," so with a farm similarly treated.
5. Rotation is at least negative fertilization. It may not positively enrich a farm; it will at last retard and postpone its impoverishment. He who grows wheat after wheat, corn after corn, for twenty years, will need to emigrate before the term is fulfilled. The same farm cannot support (nor endure) him longer than that. All our great wheat growing sections of fifty years ago are wheat-growing no longer, while England grows large crops thereof on the very fields that fed the armies of Saxon Harold and William the Conqueror. Rotation preserved these, as the lack of it ruined those.

APPLE DUMPLINGS.—Choose large russet or sour apples that cook tender; peel and quarter them, take out the cores and use one apple to a dumpling. Pinch your pie-crust well, grease your pie-pan, set your dumplings right side up; do not let them touch each other; set them in your oven and bake a delicate brown. Fat hot, with any sauce you prefer.

Handbills, Cards, Legal Blanks, Circulars, Blank Notes, Envelopes, etc., etc., will do well to call and examine our specimens and prices before going elsewhere. We are prepared also to print.
