

Mr. A. WADDILL, of the "Virginian" Office, is our only authorized Agent for the city of Lynchburg. The "Visitor," on account of its locality, and the extent of its circulation, is an excellent advertising medium.

When it was ascertained that Abraham Lincoln had been elevated to the Presidency, that he would succeed the then incumbent; when the angry billows of disunion were fast breaking the bonds of a once magnificent Republic; when States were darting off from their orbits with such rapidity, such was our veneration for the legacy bequeathed by our revolutionary fathers, that we were unwilling to give up, and denounced such precipitate action as unwise and impolitic.

Section 3d, among other things, provides for the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia, as soon as Maryland and the owners of the slaves shall consent, which may be sooner or later anticipated. Slavery has always, or at least "from time whereof the memory of man runneth not to the contrary," existed within the boundaries of the District of Columbia.

Section 4th is a construction of the Constitution with respect to the delivery of fugitive slaves, but so far as any good it will ever do is concerned it is all stuff.

Section 5th forever prohibits the foreign slave trade, and provides that "it shall be the duty of Congress to pass laws to prevent the importation of slaves, etc., into the United States and Territories from places beyond the limits thereof." All the seceded States are already, and will forever remain "beyond the limits thereof."

Section 6th provides, among other things, that sections first, third and fifth, the most objectionable in the concern "shall not be amended or abolished without the consent of all the States."

Section 7th and last, provides that the United States whose property belongs equally to the slave owners of the South and the free-soilers of the North, shall pay to the owner of a fugitive slave, when he fails to recover him, the full value of such fugitive.

The first section reestablishes the Missouri Compromise, which was never any thing but a concession on the part of the South. It forever prohibits slavery north of 36° 30' north latitude, and leaves it to the people south of that line.

Section 2d is as objectionable as section first. By incorporating it into the Constitution we would forever deprive ourselves of all possible chance of acquiring another foot of territory.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

Dr. JOHN H. ROUSE, of Helton, Ashe county, North Carolina, is our authorized agent to receive subscriptions for the VISITOR, in that and the adjoining counties.

FOR THE VISITOR. Public Meeting.

At a large and respectable meeting of the citizens of Smyth County held at Marion, pursuant to notice, on Saturday, March 9, 1861, on motion, ADAM ROSENBAUM was called to the Chair, and G. W. HENDERLITE and D. D. HULL appointed Secretaries.

On motion, the Chair appointed William Farmer, W. Floyd Hurst, W. D. Strother, E. S. Watson, and E. A. Scott, a committee to draft resolutions expressive of the sense of this meeting. On motion, James H. Gilmore was added to the committee.

On motion, the meeting took a recess until 2 o'clock, P. M., to allow the said committee time to report.

At 2 o'clock, P. M., the meeting was again called to order when the committee submitted the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, Abraham Lincoln has clearly indicated in his inaugural address that he intends to make the attempt to coerce the Southern States that have seceded by holding, occupying and possessing the property and places claimed by the government in those States; and whereas, the citizens of Virginia stand ready, at all times, to resist such attempt at all hazards and to cast their fortunes, in such an event, with their Sister States of the South; and, believing that the time has now come when they must either take their stand with the Northern portion of the Confederacy or with the "Confederate States of the South"; therefore, be it

1. Resolved, That the honor, the duty and the interests of Virginia imperatively demand that she should immediately resume all her rightful sovereignty and stand prepared for war.

2. Resolved, That the time for adjustment in the Union has passed; that we regard it the imperative duty of the Virginia Convention now to pass an ordinance of secession without further consultation or co-operation with other States, and that a general convention of the Border Slave States will be only productive of a delay that may be fatal to the best interests of our people.

3. Resolved, That any guarantee which will fail to bring back the seceded States ought not to be accepted by Virginia.

4. Resolved, That our highest respect is due to South Carolina and the rest of the seceded States. We honor them for their wisdom, their decisive boldness and their humane forbearance.

5. Resolved, That we regard any attempt to interfere with the present system of taxation upon slave property, at this crisis, as ill-timed and ill-considered.

6. Resolved, That to Virginia, if she properly regards her honor and her plighted faith, we owe our lasting fealty and to her and the rest of the gallant South "our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor."

7. Resolved, That we do not regard these resolutions as, necessarily, instructions to our delegate in Convention, for we feel confident, from his course so far, that his action will correspond thereto.

8. Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing preamble and resolutions be forwarded immediately to our delegate in convention, with the request that he lay them before that body.

After the said preamble and resolutions were, on motion, unanimously adopted.

On motion, resolved, that these proceedings be forwarded to the "Marion Visitor" and the Richmond papers for publication.

On motion, the meeting adjourned sine die.

ADAM ROSENBAUM, Ch'n. G. W. HENDERLITE, D. D. HULL, Secretaries.

FOR THE VISITOR. MARION, March 11, 1861. W. KENNEDY: Do me the kindness to publish in your issue the proceedings of the meeting held here on Saturday the 10th inst. My statement: I do not endorse the preamble and resolutions adopted by that meeting. As a member of the committee reporting them, I did not approve them, nor did I vote for them in the meeting. I still cherish the hope that Virginia will adopt such measures as to keep the Border States together, and ultimately bring back most of their Southern sisters.

I know the opinions of such a humble individual as myself are of but little moment; but I do wish to appear in a position I do not occupy. Respectfully, E. S. WATSON.

ATTENTION, SMYTH BLUES!—You are requested to meet at the drill hall, on to-morrow (Saturday) afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the drill uniform. Business of importance will be transacted, and it is necessary that every member be present. J. J. BISHOP, O. S. By order of Captain.

On Breeding and Rearing Cattle.

(CONCLUDED.)

THE MANAGEMENT OF COWS AFTER BREEDING.

Moderate exercise is desirable, if it can be given; still shelter is even more important; but their combined influence is best. Many have not the opportunity of giving exercise under shelter, and frequently cows are put out into an adjoining field for an hour or two during the day; and instead of their taking exercise, they stand and call for their release from the cold. When thus turned out from warm and ill-ventilated cow-houses, as is too frequently the case, they suffer much more than when kept in healthy and moderately-sheltered boxes or stalls.

It should be remembered, whilst too much warmth weakens the animal, and renders it more subject to disease, the opposite extreme of cold draws upon the food for supplying additional heat to the body, and consequently less remains to yield cream. It is, therefore, economical to shelter a milking animal from the cold; but at the same time we must not economize heat to the prejudice of the health and comfort of the animal. We may take it as a rule that, so far as we can promote the health and comfort of the animal, so far shall we succeed in rendering the cow more competent for the support and development of her calf.

The food of the cow during this period claims our notice; for we can exercise great control over the milk by regulating the food from which it is produced. Succulent food, such as mangold-wurzel, and brewers' grains, &c., always produces a large quantity of milk; but it is not quantity alone which is important to the calf. The quality is the chief point for this use; and here we find good hay and linseed-cake showing themselves in a very marked manner, and producing a much larger produce of cream. If, however, the requirements of the dairy render the production of cheese desirable, we have to look at the quantity of curd produced; and here we shall find the importance of exercise, and such food as clover, hay, or vetches. If in such a case, artificial food is given, bean or pea meal would be the best for producing quantity of cheese, but the addition of linseed-cake to the food would very much improve the quality of the cheese. Here, as in many other instances, the object in view must determine our course of management, for the food must contain the materials we want,—whether it is water to give quantity, or rich oily matter to produce cream, or highly nutritive matter to yield cheese,—for they can not substitute each other in their modes of operation or uses.

It is also worthy of comment that, whilst exercise has a tendency to increase the quantity of cheese, it deteriorates from its richness.—Hence we find our richest cheeses are made from strong and fertile land, where the cows take only a moderate degree of exercise, whilst those hilly farms, which render more active search for food necessary, give proportionately more cheese, but it is of inferior quality. Exercise can not fail to use up, by respiration, a certain quantity of carbonaceous matter, which would otherwise be appropriated to the milk; and it is simply a question of the supply of oily matter being decreased on poorer land, by being used for another function of the body which exercises a prior claim. This would lead one to anticipate that, for the production of cream, our stall-fed cows which are superior to others, whilst, for a cheese dairy, a greater amount of exercise is desirable, and the practice of our dairy district strongly confirms such an inference.

I have thus endeavored to bring before the reader the leading points connected with the breeding of cattle. I have traced the calf through its successive stages of growth until it has produced a successor capable of again performing the same circle. I have noticed the management most desirable for these several periods, and the principles upon which such practice is based, together with the disease to which each age is peculiarly liable. There is no branch of rural economy of greater importance to the interests of agriculturists. It is a subject which demands our careful attention, and it will reward our zealous endeavors to make the functions of animal life subservient to our requirements.

Why Don't they use the Roller? Why don't our farmers use the roller more frequently? Is it because they are not willing to incur the expense of the purchase? Is it because they are not disposed to bestow the extra amount of labor involved in rolling their fields, or is it because they do not understand its uses and benefits? Do they not know that a roller is almost indispensable on light soil, because it presses the earth closer around small seeds—that it is useful on heavy soils, because it crushes the clods, and brings the pulverized earth in direct contact with the seed—that it is good on grass fields because it presses small stones, bones, etc., which would otherwise injure the knives of the mower, into the earth on out of the way, and that it also level and mole hills—that it is useful upon what fields in the spring pressing the plants which have been thrown out by the frost, into the earth again—that it exercises a most happy influence upon oats, if used after the plants have attained a height of three or four inches; in a word Mr. Editor, that it is good almost everywhere, and ranks very properly with the most important implements on the farm?

It is astonishing, that while we are making progress in almost every other direction, we have done so little towards the general introduction of the roller. My own experience with it has been so entirely satisfactory, that I can not forbear urging its importance upon farmers who has thus far not tried it.

This article is the only one of the kind used by the French, and in London and Paris it is in universal use. It is a beautiful, economical, soothing, yet stimulating compound, acting as if by magic upon the roots, causing a beautiful growth of luxuriant hair. If applied to the scalp, it will cure baldness, and cause to spring up in place of the bald spots a fine growth of new hair. Applied according to directions, it will turn red or towdy hair black, and restore gray hair to its original color, leaving it soft, smooth and flexible. just received and for sale by R. J. VENABLE & BROS. May 25, 1860 is a constitutional disease, a corruption of the blood, by which the fluid becomes vitiated, weak, and poor. Being in circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there one which it may not destroy. The scrofulous taint is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered or unwholesome food, impure air, rich and fatty habits, the depressing views, and, above all, by the venereal infection. However its origin, it is hereditary in constitution, descending "from parents to children on the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the root of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."

Its effects commence by deposition from the blood of lymph or ulcerous matter, which, in the lungs, liver, and internal organs, is termed "tubercles;" in the glands, swellings; and on the surface, eruptions or sores. This foul corruption, which renders the blood, depresses the energies of life, so that scrofulous constitutions not only suffer from scrofulous complaints, but they have far less power to withstand the attacks of other diseases; consequently, a vast number of persons, who, although not scrofulous in their nature, are still rendered fatal by this taint in the system. Most of the consumption which decimates the human family has its origin directly in this scrofulous contamination; and many destructive diseases of the liver, kidneys, brain, and, indeed, of all the organs, arise from its aggravated action.

One quarter of all the cases of scrofula, and their persons are invaded by this lurking infection, and their health is undermined by it. To cleanse it from the system we must renovate the blood by an alterative medicine, and invigorate it by healthy food and exercise. Such a medicine we supply in the most effectual remedy which the medical skill of our times can devise for this every where prevailing and fatal malady. It is combined from the most active remedies that have been discovered, and the expurgation of this foul disorder from the blood, and the rescue of the system from its destructive consequences. Hence it should be employed for the cure of not only scrofula, but also those other affections which arise from it, such as ERYTHEMA and SKIN DISEASES, ST. ANTHONY'S FIRE, ROSA, or ERYSIPELAS, PIMPLES, PUSTULES, BLOTCHES, BLAINS and BOILS, TUMORS, TETTER and SALT RHEUM, SCALD HEAD, RINGWORM, RHEUMATISM, SYPHILITIC and MERCURIAL DISEASES, DROPSY, DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, and, indeed, ALL COMPLAINTS arising FROM VITIALIZED or IMPURE BLOOD. The popular belief in "the superiority of this medicine" is in truth, for scrofula is a degeneration of the blood. The particular purpose and virtue of this Sarsaparilla is to purify and regenerate this vital fluid, without which sound health is impossible in contaminated constitutions.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A FAMILY PHYSIC,

are so composed that disease within the range of their action can rarely withstand or evade them. Their penetrating properties search, and cleanse, and invigorate every portion of the system, and restore to the diseased action, and restoring its healthy vitality. As a consequence of these properties, the invalid who is bowed down with pain or physical debility is astonished to find his health or energy restored by a remedy at once simple and invigorating. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also many formidable and dangerous diseases from which human nature is pleased to furnish their cures and directions for their use in the following complaints: Costiveness, Headache, Indigestion, arising from disordered stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Pain in the Head, Constipation, Biliousness, Loss of Appetite, Jaundice, and other kindred complaints, arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Lament Consumption, and for the relief of Consumption, Fatigues in advanced stages of the disease.

So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous are the cases of its cures, that almost every section of country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried, its efficacy is so apparent, and its effects so permanent, that its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to use in the most distressing cases of Cough, Spasmodic of the pulmonary organs that are incident to our climate. While many inferior remedies thrust upon the community have failed and been discarded, this has proved friends by every trial, and has been proved to be a remedy that can never forget, and produced cures too numerous and too remarkable to be forgotten.
