LILY'S CHOICE.

A solitary figure, with few lines of comeliness or grace, John Hollaway sat upon the meadow gate, looking off into the distance. He was whistling softly, and yet he seemed to be in a deep reverie, for his great, tender eyes had a far-away expression in their brown depths as he gazed out over the sunlit meadows where the blood-red clover and the golden butter-cups swayed under the soft, caressing breeze. Suddenly an imperious voice broke the silence.

"Mr. Hollaway, please let me take down the bars. I'm in a hurry and came the shortest way."

The young man started; he had not heard her approach, and there beside him stood the very object of his thoughts.

Ah, clover blooms and buttercups, paled were your charms now! A lithe, graceful figure in the daintiest of cambric dresses, and underneath the wide hat a sweet, girlish face, with velvety, peach-tinted cheeks and eyes as blue as freshly-gathered violets. Such was Lily Lawrence, the prettiest girl—so the popular verdict ran—in all the country round. A flush rose to John's sun-browned face as he quickly rose and began to take down the bars.

"Out for a walk, Miss Lily?"

"Yes," very briefly.

"So you are fond of quiet strolls? I am, too."

Lily drew herself up and looked at the presumptuous speaker.

"Really, Mr. Hollaway, I don't see what it is to you—"

Then she stopped. She did not mean to be rude, but truly, she thought to herself, it was high time she should show this young man that his openly-expressed admiration was exceedingly distasteful to her. It had been going on for some time, and every one, even Lily herself, had come to see that the sun rose and set for John Hollaway where she was.

"He must be intensely stupid not to know how utterly indifferent I am to him," she thought.

But John was not stupid. He understood the unfinished sentence, and as he drew back without another word to let her pass Lily saw that her did, and a shame-faced, compunctious look stole into her eyes. For, from the richest to the poorest, every one acknowledged John Hollaway's noble, sterling character.

Lily walked slowly along the road, half-determined to turn back and apologize for her rudeness, until a turn brought her face to face with some one whose handsome eyes met her own with such a glad welcome that all other thoughts were for the time driven completely away.

It was Richard Blake, the most admired and courted young man in the village.

"Ah, good afternoon, Miss Lawrence! I was hoping I would meet you."

And the wavy black locks were bared to the breeze as Richard courteously lifted his hat and walked on beside her.

What a contrast to John Hollaway!—And the contrast was great in many other ways than Lily thought. But the girl was too young to read character, and that Richard Blake was very handsome and elegant none could deny—a lover of whom any one might be justly proud.

When Lily's home was reached, and with another graceful bow Richard had left her, she did not go directly into the house, but lingered awhile among the flowers that filled their little garden. Her thoughts were very busy. She knew that she had behaved very unkindly to her old friend, and her memory went back to the first time she had met him. It was at a picnic, and she had fallen and sprained her ankle. She remembered how the great fellow, so much stronger than his mates, had persisted in carrying her all the long distance back to her home. Since then he had shown in a hundred ways what she was to him, and knowing his noble nature, perhaps her heart would have gone out to him before this if Richard

Blake had not come back from college.

But he had, and Lily fancied his gay debonair manners, and his entertaining conversation, and like many another young girl had begun to take for true, heart-deep love that liking which we all have for things pleasant to the sight.

And so she shook off her reproachful feelings and went into the house.

"Why, mother dear what is the matter? Crying, and I out enjoying myself! Tell me what is it, dear? Let me share your trouble."

Mrs. Lawrence lifted a face, smiling through her tears.

"Yes, crying, Lily, darling, but not from grief. Sit down here beside me, and let me show you what a load has been lifted from my mind this morning. Bly, I did not tell you, but some time ago Mr. Burton, the lawyer, came to me and informed me that the holder of the mortgage on our home was in need of money, and intepded to foreclose, unless the mortgage was paid in full when he should demand it. Now, child, you know what a trouble has been weighing upon me, for I knew that it would be impossible for me to raise the sum necessary, and that we must leave the dear old home that we had loved so well. And now, this very morning, Mr. Burton came and told me that a kind friend, hearing of the intended foreclosure, has paid the amount in full!"

"Who is it that helped you mother?"

"That is the strangest part of it, Lily. Mr. Burton said he had strictly promised not to tell the name of my benefactor, and as to who it can be I have no idea."

But though she did not say so, Lily had; and when later, in her usual impulsive way, she told John Hollaway how sorry she was that she had been so rude to him, and then asked him frankly whether he was not the kind friend who had come so opportunely to her mother's relief, his manner confirmed her suspicions.

It is said that "gratitude is neighbor to love," and whether that be true or not, it is certain that from that time the many young farmer was often in Lily's thoughts, while Richard Blake was just as steadily losing ground. But John, of course, did not know it. He was not one to wear his heart upon his sleeve, and at length, after a hard struggle, had decided to abandon his hopeless suit and leave the field to that rival who evidently was the favored one. Lily noticed the difference; but, woman-like, she did not appear to care, and so the months went by much the same, until at length the crisis came.

The village in which our heroine lived was just on the shores of a little bay, and many were the pleasure parties that enjoyed a trip over its limpid waters.

One afternoon Richard Blake, obtaining Mrs. Lawrence's consent, invited Lily to take a sail.

When they reached the beach who should be waiting in readiness to manuege the boat but John Hollaway.

"Hallo, Hollaway, are you turning into a boatman?" exclaimed Blake, in astonishment.

Lifting his cap to Lily, John answered:

"Not exactly; but Joe came to me in great distress, saying he did not feel well enough to go out, but had promised not to disappoint you, and knowing I could manage a boat, he asked me to take his place. Joe has done me many a good turn and so I could not refuse him," he added, wrongfully interpreting the little flush that had risen in Lily's face as she listened; and he said, too, that it was your companion. Else I should not have come; I would not for the world be a man-sport."

The bitterness in his tone touched a like chord in Lily's heart. For some little time back she had been slowly but surely learning a lesson—the difference between real worth and mere glitter; and now her heart sank as she saw, or thought she saw, how completely her conduct had driven all affection toward her from John's mind, and that she had foolishly thrown away her own happiness.

"Well Hollaway, I'm sure I'm much obliged. It's very kind of you," was Blake's reply.

And the two young men soon had the little craft in readiness for its fair freight.

Blake had seen John's liking for

Lily, but his vanity had not been alarmed; he knew by experience the power of his dark eyes, and Lily Lawrence was like any other young lady if she were ten times prettier. So he reasoned.

The floated lightly over the blue water, anchoring after a while under a bluff, and dropping their lines to fish. Lily chatted gayly in her own fascinating way, and never had she seemed more lovely in Richard Blake's eyes, while poor John, who had thought of late that he had driven her image from his mind, felt the old charm creeping over him again stronger than ever before, but he hid his pain manfully, and kept his part in the lively conversation.

Time crept on, and just as they decided on returning, to their dismay the heavens suddenly clouded over, and a peal of thunder brought them to their feet in alarm. Squalls were not common upon the bay, but one was evidently now upon them, and John saw the great danger. A moment and they were dashing at a mad rate over the waves, while overhead the awful darkness gathered more ominously all the while, and every now and then vivid flashes of flame seemed to envelop them on all sides.

Suddenly there was a blinding glare, then a terrific flash, and half the mast dropped over the bows, while the sails were dragged into the seething water. For an instant John was almost stunned; then his first thought was Lily. Where was she? A second more and he caught the gleam of yellow curls in the coral waves among the tattered sails; the ropes had twisted about her light figure and dragged her over the bow.

He sprang to Blake's side.

If she is to be yours, it is your job ought to save her! Quick, or it will be too late! Your chance will be gone!"

But Blake still covered tremblingly where he was, unheeding the peril of the one he professed to love.

Another instant John was struggling among the sails; a few seconds of awful suspense while the waves were tugging savagely at him; then, weak, almost fainting, he crept back into the boat with Lily's insensible form clasped close to the brave heart. He had saved her!

Then, still in imminent danger, they remained clinging to the dismantled boat, until, as suddenly as it had fallen, the squall lifted, and a welcome hail from the shore proclaimed that help was near at hand.

Lily came to herself at last, to find that John was holding her fast, with her face close to his own.

In an instant the memory of what had passed came back to her. She did not draw away, but raised her lusty eyes to his as if to read his inmost thoughts; then the cold cheek pressed itself closer against his own, while her arms wound themselves softly around his neck.

"John—dear John?" was all she said.

And John knew that with the greatest peril the greatest blessing of his life had come to him; while Richard Blake, looking on with pale, scowling face, comprehended clearly that John's words had been prophetic when he had said, "Your chance will be gone."

A Utica clergyman had occasion to refer in a sermon to the prophet Jonah, and the report says that he decidedly spoke of him as having "passed three days and three nights in the whale's—ahem—society."

The girl that complains of a lame foot when her mother wants some milk from the corner grocery, will walk about seven miles of an evening with her young man, and not feel a bit tired.

"What is the national fishery question?" pompously exclaimed an orator; and a squeaking voice in the audience responded, "It's, 'have you got a bite?'"

Delicate Females.

The exaction of society, added to the cases of maternity and the household, have tested beyond endurance the frail constitutions which have been granted the majority of women. To combat this tendency to premature decline, no remedy in the world possesses the nourishment and strengthening properties of Malt Bitters. They enrich the blood, perfect digestion, stimulate the liver and kidneys, arrest ulcerative weakness, and purify and vitalize every function of the female system.

Night Life of Young Men.

One night often destroys a whole life. The leakage of the night keeps the day empty. Night is sin's harvesting time. More sin and crime are committed in one night than in all the days of the week. This is more emphatically true of the city than of the country. The street lamps, like a file of soldiers, with torch in hand, stretch away in long lines on either sidewalk; the gay colored transparencies are ablaze, with attraction; the saloon and billard halls are brilliantly illuminated; music sends forth its enchantment; the gay company begins to gather at the haunts and houses of pleasure; the gambling places are ablaze with palatial splendor; the theatres are wide open; the mills of destruction are grinding health, honor, happiness, hope, out of thousands of lives.

The city under the gaslight is not the same as under God's sunlight. The allurements and perils and pitfalls of night are a hundred fold deeper and darker and more destructive. Night life in our cities is a dark problem, whose depths and abysses make us start back with horror. All night, tears are falling, blood is streaming.

Young men, tell me how and where you spend your evenings, and I will write out the chart of your character and final destiny, with blanks to insert your names. It seems to me an open appropriate text would be: "Watchman, what of the night?"

Policeman, pacing the beat, what of the night? What are the young of the city doing at night? Where do they spend their evenings? Who are their associates? What are their habits? Where do they go in, and what time do they come out? Policeman, would the night life of young men commend them to the confidence of their employers? Would it be to their credit?

Make a record of the night of one week. Put in the morning papers the names of all the young men, their habits and haunts, that are on the street for sinful pleasure. Would there not be shame and confusion? Some would not dare to go to their places of business, some would leave the city, some would commit suicide. Remember, young men, that in the retina of the All seeing eye, there is nothing hid but shall be revealed on the last day.

Influence of a Newspaper.

A school-teacher, who has been a long time engaged in his profession and witnessed the influence of a newspaper on the minds of a family of children, writes as follows: I have found it to be a universal fact, without exception, that those scholars, of both sexes and all ages, who have access to newspapers at home when compared with those who have not, are:

First. Better readers, excellent in pronunciation; have consequently read more, and understandingly.

Second. They are better spellers, and define words with ease and accuracy.

Third. They obtain practical knowledge of geography in almost half the time it requires of others as the newspapers have made them acquainted with the location of the important places of nations, their government, and doings on the globe.

Fourth. They are better grammarians, for having become so familiar with common-place advertisement to the finished and classical oration of the statesman, they more readily comprehend the meaning of the text and consequently analyze its construction with accuracy.

Fifth. They write better compositions, using better language correctly expressed.

Sixth. Those young men who have for years been readers of newspapers, and are always taking the lead in debating societies, exhibit a more extensive knowledge upon a greater variety of subjects, and express their views with greater fluency, clearness and correctness.

We judge ourselves by what we feel capable of doing, while other judge us by what we have already done.

We love beauty at first sight, and we do cease to love it if it is not accompanied by amiable qualities.

The Place Where They Turn Out The "Daring" Boys.

The other day a stout woman, armed with an umbrella and leading a small urchin, called at the office of a New York boy's story paper.

"Is this the place where they fight Indians," she inquired of the gentleman in charge. "Is this the locality where the brave boy charges up the canyon and speeds a bullet to the heart of the dusky redskin?" and she brought her umbrella down on the desk.

"We publish stories for boys," replied the young man evasively.

"I want to know if these are the premises on which the daring lad springs upon his fiery mustang, and, darting through the circle of thunder-struck savages, cuts the captive's cords, and bears him away before the wondering Indians have recovered from their astonishment? That's the information I'm after. I want to know if that sort of thing is perpetrated here?" and she swung the umbrella around her head.

"I don't remember those specified acts," protested the young man.

"I want to know if this is the precinct where the adventurous boy jumps on the back of a buffalo and, with unerring aim picks off one of the blood thirsty pursuers who bite the dust at every crack of his faithful rifle! I'm looking for the place where that sort of thing happens?" and this time she brought the un-lucky young man a tremendous whack across the back.

"I think—" commenced the dodging victim.

"I'm in search of the shop in which the boy road-agent holds the quivering state driver powerless with his glittering eye, while he robs the male passengers with an adroitness born of long and tried experience, and kisses the hand of the lady passenger with a gallant bearing bespeaking noble birth and a chivalrous nature?" screamed the woman, driving the young man into the corner. "I'm looking for the apartment in which that business is transacted?" and down came the umbrella with trip-hammer force on the young man's head.

"Upon my soul, ma'm"—gasped the wretched youth.

"I want to be introduced to the juars in which you keep the boy scouts of the Sierras! Show me the bins full of the boy detectives of the prairie! Point out to me the barrels full of prizes of the Spanish Main!" and with each demand she dropped the umbrella on the young man's skull until he skipped over the desk and sought safety in a neighboring canyon.

"I'll teach 'em," she panted grasping her urchin by ear and leading him off. "I'll teach 'em to make it good or dance. Want to go to fight Indians any more? Want to stand proudly upon the pinnacle of the mountain and scatter the plain beneath with the bleeding bodies of uncounted slain? Want to say 'Hut!' in a tone that brooks no contradiction? Propose to spring upon the trail and with a ringing word of command send a broadside into the richly laden galley, and then mercifully spare the beautiful maiden in the cabin, that she may become your bride? Eh? Going to it any more?"

With each question she hammered the yelling urchin until his bones were sore and protested his permanent abandonment of all the glories enumerated.

"Then come along," said she, taking him by the collar. "Let me catch you around with any more ramrods and carving knives, and you'll think the leading, curling, resistless, prairie fire had swept with a ferocious roar of triumph across the trembling plains and lodged in your pantaloons to stay!"—Brooklyn Eagle.

If She Got There.

It was night, a phenomenon occurring seven times a week.

The moon shown brightly from the heavens. This latter clause is always added, although nobody ever saw the moon shining from a hay-loft or a frog-pond, or anything else except from the heavens.

Two lovers strolled along the river's bank, and Luna's soft rays mirrored their reflection in the water, disclosing the fact that her bustle was on crooked, and that his head alarmingly resembled an egg.

as agreed sob made her bosom heave 'shall I meet you in heaven?'

Fred stopped where he stood, and looked her square in the face.

"Well, darling," said he, slowly, as he folded her to his breast, "I really can't tell. It depends on whether you go there or not."

The moon still shines on from its high position, the water still murmurs, but they don't any more. Fact is they are both married and settled down, but they ain't husband and wife.

He Wished to Sleep.

As the train was about to leave the Union depot for the east the other night a man with a satchel said he'd heard about 'them sleeping cars,' and he guessed he'd try one once.—Making the necessary arrangements, he admitted to the car, and soon settled himself into a seat. Before reaching Trenton he was asleep, feet on the opposite cushion and his satchel for a pillow. The porter finally got ready to make his bed and gave him a shake to arouse him.

"Who in blazes be you?" growled the man as he opened his eyes.

"De porter, sah."

"You are, eh! Well, now, you look here! I never saw you before and never shall again, but I want you to understand that I'm no chicken.—I paid $2 for the privilege of sleeping in this car, and just as I get into my first snooze along you come and wake me up! If you want a chew of tobacco, or a match you can have it, but don't break in on my dreams again if you want to be alive when we get to Buffalo! When I buy certain rights I'm going to have 'em or bust."

Second Sight of an Ohio Man.

It was an Ohio man who, when a terrible storm set in one night, rushed into the house of a neighbor and cried out:

"Jones, this is the ending up of earth!"

"I'm afraid so—I'm afraid so!" was the reply.

"And what shall we do?"

"Make our peace with Heaven!"

The wind blew still stronger, the house began to shake, and the excited man exclaimed:

"Jones, you lost five bushels of wheat last fall!"

"Yes."

"And you have your suspicions?"

"I have. The man that took my wheat had better own up."

"Can you forgive him?"

"I can."

"Well—"

Here the wind suddenly dropped, and after a look through the window the conscience-stricken man turned and finished:

"Yes, if I ever meet him I'll advise him to call around."

Jones calls his wife "Old Pie" because she is so crusty.

A fine variety of Ladies, Misses and children shoes, mens Hats and Clothing, Trunks, Valises etc., can be found at J. B. Rhea's.

Mr. Albert Kingsbury, Keene, N. H., troubled with bad humor on hands and neck, caused by lead poisoning. (He's a painter.) At times it would break out, crack open, and the skin separate from the flesh in large pieces, suffering great continual itching and stinging. Purchased your remedies; used Cuticura Resolvent internally, and Cuticura, and Cuticura Soap externally, and in less than three months effected a complete cure, and has not been troubled since. Corroborated by Bullard & Foster, Druggists, Keene, N. H.

MOTHER DIED FROM IT.

J. W. Adams, Newark, Ohio, says: "Cuticura Remedies are the greatest medicines on earth. Had the worst case salt rheum in this county. My mother had it twenty years, and in fact died from it. I believe Cuticura would have saved her life. My arms, breast and head were covered for three years, which nothing relieved or cured until I used the Cuticura Resolvent (blood purifier) internally, and Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally."

PSORIASIS.

H. E. Carpenter, Esq., Henderson, N. Y., cured of Psoriasis or Leprosy, of twenty years standing, by the Cuticura Resolvent internally, and Cuticura Soap externally. The most wonderful case on record. Cured before a justice of the peace and prominent citizens. All afflicted with itching and scaly diseases should send to us for this testimonial in full.

SALT RHEUM.

Those who have experience the torments of Salt Rheum can appreciate the agony I endured for years, until cured by the Cuticura Resolvent internally and Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally.

Local News.

Cherries are ripe. Soda Water at Pendleton's. The River is too muddy for Bass fishing. Heavy rains Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights. Mr. Geo. Rider will soon have his house finished. Two brick-yards are in full blast on Staley's creek. A number of Black Bass were hooked last week. Strawberries are selling at 40 and 50 cents per gallon. Mr. John L. Humphrey lost a fine work-horse last week. J. B. Rhea has just received a large stock of spring goods. Judge R. A. Richardson is having a new porch built to his house. The weather has been exceedingly pleasant for the last week or so. Eggs, Butter and Bacon are in demand and lard brings high prices. J. B. Rhea is now selling the cheapest goods ever offered in this market. Go and see for yourselves. A boy got his head badly cut in a fight at Cooley's brick-yard last week. He was struck with a hoe by another boy. Hull & Staley have the foundation of the addition to their mill complete and as soon as the brick are burnt it will be pushed right forward to completion. Many wonder how Parker's Ginfger Tonic can perform such varied cures, thinking it simply essence of ginger, when in fact it is made from many valuable medicines which act beneficially on every diseased organ. See other column.

Personals. Mr. Jno. R. Venable was in town on Monday. Mr. Geo. W. Richardson has taken board at the Marion House for himself and his wife. Messrs Nickels & Killinger have sold a Traction Engine and thresher to the Myers Bros. Miss Mora K. Hurley, of Liberty, spent two days in town last week as the guest of Mr. W. E. Williams. Squire Peter Groseclose called in to see us Monday. This is the first time he has been to town since last October. Mrs. Ben Haller and son, of Memphis, Tenn., are stopping at the Exchange, and will spend the summer in Marion. Mr. Ed Sexton and Mr. G. A. Cole returned home from Emory and Henry College last week. They are looking well.

Thanks. We return thanks to the Hon. Jno. Paul for a copy of his speech delivered in the Congress of the U. S. We return thanks to A. Pendleton Bibb, for an invitation to attend the final celebration of the Jefferson Literary Society of the University of Virginia. We are requested by Mr. Wm. A. Shaver to return thanks to Mrs. E. N. Sprinkle for a nice bundle of cake sent him from the recent wedding supper given at her house. The cake was excellent, and made from choice flour manufactured at Glenn Mills.

Paralytic strokes, heart disease, and kidney affections, prevented by the use of Brown's Iron Bitters. Special Notice. All persons indebted to the firm of J. F. & E. P. Pendleton, are requested to come forward and settle up at once. The business of the firm is now in the hands of Mr. E. P. Pendleton, and will hereafter be conducted on strictly a cash basis.

The Crops. We put ourselves to some trouble Monday to ask about the crops. Corn is looking well all over the country. Wheat will be ready to cut this week and next. Oats are growing finely, and the prospects for a good yield of grass is encouraging. The season has been a good one, and our farmers we think will be well paid for their labor this year.

Court Day. Court was well attended by the sovereigns. Cheap John was in town selling together with a partner. Dr. Elliott was here with a couple of Negro Minstrels. The crowd was undecided which to patronize the cheap John or the Patent medicine man, but John was too much for the medical man and soon had the crowd.

Rowe & Crosby. We call attention to the card of Rowe & Crosby, to be found in this issue. These gentlemen can furnish you anything in the Marble or granite line, and for beauty and finish their work will be equal to that turned out from any yard in the State. Their prices are moderate. We hope our people patronize this firm, and we guarantee they will be pleased with their work.

Parson Massey. Parson Massey passed through Marion this morning on his way to Grayson, where he goes to address a school.

Summer Boarders. Our hotels will soon be full of Southern visitors. We are always glad to welcome them. There is no better place in the State for them to stop than Marion.

Dancing at the Exchange. Almost every night the young people "trip the light fantastic" at the Exchange Hotel. Col. Darst has the old dining room fixed up and it is a very pleasant room for the purpose.

Change of Schedule. The new schedule of the N. & W. R. L., went into effect Sunday. The Road now makes close connection at Roanoke with the Shenandoah R. R., and at Bristol and Lynchburg with connecting lines.

Notice to Councilmen. The new elected council will meet at my shop the first Saturday in July next, and hope all the members will attend promptly at 2 o'clock p. m. Tros. M. RIDER, Mayor.

Improvement at the Jail. Messrs. Jones, Curtain & Co., have secured the contract for putting a cage in the county jail, and will begin work as soon as the iron arrives. This improvement will make our jail one of the most secure in the State.

Masonic Meeting. The order of A. F. & A. Masons at Olympia held a meeting on Saturday, 17th inst., when the following officers were elected: W. M. Davis, W. M.; J. B. Whitehead, S. W.; D. F. Davis, J. W.; W. H. Hughes, S. C.; G. W. Pratt, Treasurer.

A Good Thing. For the prompt relief of pain of all kinds, there is nothing so good as Dr. Hart's Relief. This remedy is so well known that it is probably not necessary to speak of its merits, but lest there should be some one who has failed to give it a trial we say if you have any sort of pain try Dr. Hart's Relief.

Death of an old Lady. We are called upon to chronicle the death of one of the oldest citizens of Smyth County, Mrs. Rachel Goodman, who died at her home, on Walker's Creek on last Wednesday morning in the 84th year of her age. Her husband was in the war of 1812, and she has been receiving a pension for a number of years.

Painful Accident. Wm. T. Humphrey, son of Mr. Jno. L. Humphrey, 7 Mile Ford, met with a very painful accident one day last week. He was coming to town with a wagon load of lumber when his team stopped on a hill side, and in trying to put the brake on, the wagon ran back over his foot crushing it considerably.

Improvement at the Depot. We are always glad to note even a slight improvement in the Depot at this place. We have the worst looking Depot along the line of the N. & W. Road, but the new platform makes it look a little better. We hope the authorities of the road will decide to build us a new house this summer for we need it very badly.

Attention Young Men! We are now receiving and opening a beautiful stock of gents collars and cuffs, hose, shirts, scarfs, ties, bows &c., &c. Don't forget when you want such things to call on Geo. F. Crush & Co., and you can supply all your wants in this line for less money than you can get elsewhere. A full line of gents' furnishing goods has been a long felt need in this place, and now that the need has been supplied, the enterprise should be patronized—Don't forget Geo. F. Crush & Co.

Meat Market. Messrs. Alexander & Hubble have established a regular meat market in Marion, a thing that has long been needed. They have arranged in their market house, in rear of Alexander's store, a large ice box or refrigerator in which the fresh meats will be kept until sold. They are determined that the demands of the town shall be met. Mr. Geo. W. Wolfe will do their butchering and it will be well done you may rest assured.

Dead. We regret to say that the recent spell of cold weather has killed all the spring peeps, and the good people will have to dispense with this luxury for awhile, but facts are better than fiction, and Geo. F. Crush & Co. are now on hand with a full line of spring and summer dress goods, fancy notions and fine shoes, which they sell at lowest cash prices. They desire to call especial attention to their large and complete assortment of fans, parasols, ladies' ties, Ribbons, Hosiery and gloves. Young ladies wishing to complete their outfits for Commencement will do well to examine our stock before buying elsewhere, for we are confident we can supply their wants with better goods and cheaper prices than they can elsewhere obtain them.

Serious Accident to an Old Citizen of Smyth County. A Postal Card was received by Mr. Cowden, Depot Agt., at this place, from the Supt. of the Mo. Pacific R. L., Hospital at Sedalia, Mo., that an old man 74 or 75 years had fallen, jumped or was knocked off the night express about one mile east of Sedalia, on the 16th inst., sustaining serious and perhaps fatal injuries. His left arm was broken near the shoulder, an ugly gash cut just above and behind the right eye, and skull possibly fractured. He was identified by a receipt given by Mr. Cowden for his ticket to Pleasant Hill, Mo., as Mr. Geo. W. Sprinkle of this county. Mr. Sprinkle was on his way to visit his son and a daughter who resides in Pleasant Hill, and was within 100 miles of his destination when he met with this accident. He is a brother of E. N. and S. D. Sprinkle of this place. He was in his 75th year.

Lung Fever in Horses. Provide a cool and well ventilated place, without draft.—Blanket lightly, without muzzling; apply friction and bandaging to the legs. Give frequent warm water injections. Give every two hours until six doses have been given, each time ten drops of tincture of aconite root. Thirst should be satisfied by frequently offering fresh cold water, in which a teaspoonful of nitre has been dissolved. Apply mustard poultice to the sides of the chest and underneath—that is, clear around the chest. After the aconite, give every three hours an ounce each of sweet spirits of nitre and aromatic spirits of ammonia in half pint of cold water, carefully from a bottle. When recovery becomes evident, support the strength by giving thrice daily, mixed among the food, a powder composed of half a drachm of carbonate of iron and two drachms of gentian root. Give steamed or easily digested and nutritive food; sliced carrots, cabbage, etc., and in summer freshly cut grass instead of hay.

Nursing mothers gain strength by using Brown's Iron Bitters. It acts like a charm in restoring to health and strength overstrained nature.

GHASTLY PASTIME. A Mimic Procession formed to Galt's Scaffold. Several ladies, after viewing Guitau at some little distance, asked to be shown to the scaffold, and when their attention had been directed to it as it stood at the farther end of the northern wing, a young lady from West Virginia exclaimed, "Oh, let us form the procession; this gentleman will tell us how?" The others acquiesced, and the party having been arranged to personate the warden and deputy, the minister, the condemned, and attendants—the young lady in question taking the place of the condemned, and attendants—the procession with slow and measured steps moved to the scaffold. The chaplain here supposed the party would stop, and while the two or three gentlemen present seemed indifferent, the ladies urged that the programme be carried out. The party thereupon ascended the steps, the fair culprit remarking as she did so, "Isn't this nice? How easy the steps are," and reaching the platform eager question of the party. The fair culprit, having taken the place of the condemned on the trap, asked: "When the religious exercises are over, what then?" "Why the black cap and rope," was the answer. Having been shown how the rope was fixed, the culprit said, "Then the drop," and throwing her head to the right exclaimed, "Ugh!" This ended the mimic tragedy.

A Telling Law. Mr. Charles Law, Jr., in conversation with one of our representatives, recently said: "I have been suffering from rheumatism and neuralgia for the past ten years, and tried all kinds of remedies. Having heard so much of St. Jacobs Oil, I tried a bottle, and found it truly wonderful—Pottstown (Pa.) Ledger. June 22nd Marion, Virginia.

STRENGTH. to vigorously push a business, strength to study a profession, strength to regulate a household, strength to do a day's labor without physical pain. All this represents what is wanted, in the often heard expression, "Oh I wish I had the strength!" If you are broken down, have no energy, or feel as if life was hardly worth living, you can be relieved and restored to robust health and strength by taking BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, which is a true tonic—a medicine universally recommended for all wasting diseases. G. DECKER. 202 N. Fremont St., Baltimore. During the war I was injured in the stomach by a piece of a shell, and have suffered from it ever since. About four years ago it brought on paralysis, which kept me in bed six months, and the best doctors in the city said I could not live. I suffered fearfully from indigestion, and for over two years could not eat solid food and for a large portion of the time was unable to retain even liquid nourishment. I tried Brown's Iron Bitters and now after taking two bottles I am able to get up and go around and am rapidly improving. G. DECKER. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is a complete and sure remedy for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Malaria, Weakness and all diseases requiring a true, reliable, non-alcoholic tonic. It enriches the blood, gives new life to the muscles and tone to the nerves.

FARM and HOUSEHOLD.

Facts for Farmer.

Too much drying impairs the feeding quality of the hay. All kinds of stock thrive better by having a variety of feed.

Orchard grass is not suited to wet bottom land, but thrives in a rich upper land. Beans often do well on land that any crop but rye proves a failure.

Observation shows that the majority of persons who engage in the bee business lose both time and money.

On an average it cost 12 cents for every additional pound of flesh added to the weight of a two or three-year old fattening steer.

It is 30 per cent. more profitable to premature and dispose of fattening cattle at two years old than to keep them up to three years.

The trade in horses in advancing from year to year in wonderful proportions. The South and West are needing more horses every year.

Dandelions have become the fashionable greens in many parts of the county. They are being cultivated by market gardeners in the vicinity of all the eastern cities, and are served up in the leading hotels and restaurants.

New England Farmer: Castor oil is largely used for oiling axletrees the bearings of grindstones, mowers, etc. A small proportion of kerosene added to the castor oil and thoroughly shaken up with it, renders it less liable to gum.

German observations show that the annual yield of milk rises gradually from birth of the first calf till the fifth, reaches its maximum after the sixth, sinks gradually until the tenth calf, when it is about the same as at the first calving, and, after the thirteenth or fourteenth calf, is only one-fourth or one-fifth of the maximum yield.

Young Girls.

When a girl is ten years old she should be given certain household duties to perform, according to her size and strength, for which a sum of money should be paid her weekly. She needs a little pocket money, and the knowledge how to spend it judiciously, which can so well be given by a mother to her little girl.

She should be required to furnish a part of her wardrobe with this money. For instance, if she gets ten cents a week she should purchase all her stockings or all her gloves, as the mother may decide, and, doing this under the mother's supervision, she will soon learn how to trade with judgment and economy.

Of course the mother will see to it that the sum is sufficient to do this, and yet a trifle for the child to spend just as she pleases. This will supply a healthy stimulus; it will her a proper ambition and pride in her labor and the ability to use money properly.

As she grows older these household duties should be increased, with a proportionate increase of money paid for the performance of them. I know of a lady who divides the wages of a servant among her three daughters. There is a systematic arrangement of their labor, which is done with a thoroughness and alacrity rarely found either with nothing to encourage and stimulate her in her work.—Woman's Journal.

Helpless Hands. I would like to have a new dress, but it is so hard to get a good dressmaker; sighed Priscilla.

Why not be your own dressmaker. We have to eat baker's cake, said Marianne. 'Mamma says she has no time to make it for our family.'

Why not make the cake yourself? Mother's daughters should relieve her of such cares.

O! girls, whatever else you do don't go through life with helpless hands. Hands should be instruments to serve our needs, not useless ornaments to hang rings upon.

A few sheep could be kept upon every dairy farm with profit, and would be a benefit to the pastures, eating that which the cows reject, and when in winter quarters they would eat much the cows refuse, and so would be of very small extra costs.

THE NORFOLK & WESTERN, SHENANDOAH VALLEY and NEW RIVER RAILROAD Companies desiring to promote the establishment of mining and manufacturing operations throughout the territory tributary to their railway system, and to attract the attention of immigrants to this desirable agricultural district, and at the same time, to provide a safe and reliable means of communication between holders of agricultural and mineral lands and parties seeking locations for settlement and investment have sanctioned the establishment by Mr. JOSEPH M. BLAIR, of a BUREAU OF IMMIGRATION AND MINING INTELLIGENCE.

Mr. AUSTIN has located his office for the present at WYTHEVILLE, WYTHE COUNTY, VIRGINIA, to which point all communications to him should be addressed. Upon the completion of the Shenandoah Valley Railroad to a connection with the Norfolk & Western Railroad, which will be effected at ROANOKE, ROANOKE COUNTY, VIRGINIA, in May, 1882, the principal office of the Bureau will be removed to Roanoke.

A monthly bulletin of properties for sale will be issued for circulation among investors, manufacturers and agriculturists. The commissions charged will be moderate.

Parties having lands for sale are invited to record them at this Bureau, with plans, maps, description of improvements, and of mineral deposits, analyses of minerals, price, &c., &c.

It is hoped that, by means of such an organization, the material development of the resources of this rich, salubrious, and fertile section of Virginia may receive an effectual and permanent impulse, and public attention be directed and practically assured to its varied and remarkable elements of national wealth and prosperity.

GEO. F. TYLER, President Norfolk & Western R. R. Co. P. J. KIMBALL, President Shenandoah Valley R. R. Co. President New River Railroad Co. PHILADELPHIA, February 24th, 1882. mh30 6m
